HICKS' FORCAST FOR SEPTEMBER.

Warm weather generally will most likely prevail at the opening of the month, with falling barometer, growing humidity, and other storm indications spreading eastward from west and southwest. On and touching the 2nd to 4th no one should be surprised by energetic storms of rain, wind and thunder.

If very low barometer and West India hurricane reach our south coasts at this time they will either reach interior sections, and travel thence to the Lakes and St. Lawrence, causing high temperature and heavy storms of rain, wind and thunder over most of the country, or they will move up the Atlantic coasts, causing danger in those regions and bringing high barometer, northerly winds and quite cool weather over all northern and central parts of the country. The chances are that frosts will occur northward about the 4th to 7th.

The elements will react into storm conditions of more or less energy, progressing from west to east about the 7th to 9th. The center of the Mars period falls on the 11th, and on and about this date.

Electrical storms, earth currents, auroral lights, seismic shivers and all similar manifestations are common and natural about this time.

The regular storm period central on the 13th will almost certainly bring on a state of stormy and unsettled weather that will continue in a general way into the reactionary storm days centering about the 17th and 18th. One of the danger periods for September, especially in localities exposed to equinoctial storms, will be about the 17th, 18th and 19th. Watch all indications at this time, and do not be surprised by very cool nights and frost, as the low barometric area and storms move out of the way.

The last regular storm period for September is central on the 24th extending over the 22nd to 27th.

The month closes in a reactionary storm disturbance, excited by the passage of the Moon over the equator on the 30th. On that date and into October 1st, autumnal thunder storms will touch many localities.

LISTENS FOR $20 AN HOUR

Pastor Raymond Carries Out Queer Bargain For Church Site.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN., Sept. 5.—A new species of martyrdom is being undergone by Rev. Royal W. Raymond, pastor of the Stratford Methodist Episcopal Church. At least, his fellow-townsmen consider it martyrdom. The queer contract he made was printed in the Sun some days ago.

Two weeks ago the church society of which Mr. Raymond is pastor decided to enlarge its church edifice. The land adjoining the society holding is owned by Thaddeus E. Peck, a chemist and inventor, and by some styled a philosopher. When the trustees of the church, accompanied by Mr. Raymond, approached Mr. Peck with a proposition to purchase from him, he asked $250, but suggested a peculiar method of payment.

"I've spent years in divining the only sane religious system, and I've got it," he said. "I would have hundreds of converts in a few weeks if only I could get a hearing. I find here an opportunity to be heard. If Parson Raymond will listen to me I'll allow the church society $20 for every hour I talk in his presence."

Before the trustees had a chance to express their surprise Mr. Raymond said:

"I agree."

It was thereupon agreed that Mr. Peck was to talk on his topic for 11 hours, allowing the church society $220. He was then to give a clear title to the land for $30 in cash, agreeing to spend the cash for a dinner to the preacher, and the trustees to be his guests.

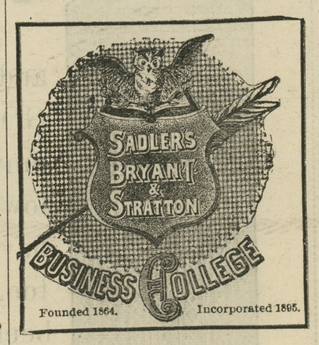

Mr. Raymond paid the first installment on the price of the land last night. The church now has $45 to its credit toward the whole price, Mr. Peck's talk lasting 2¼ hours.

AN OLD SOLDIER.

Every old soldier likes to review his career and tell his exploits, on land or sea. And young people sit for long hours, wide awake, in wrapt admiration of his former valor and distinction. The following is a true story told by Daniel Sturgis, Laomi, Ill.. He says: "I am an old soldier and being troubled with Constipation, I need some more of your Victor Liver Syrup It is the best medicine I ever tried. It tones up the system and regulates the bowels." Multitudes bear like witness. Your Druggist has it
