CHESTERTOWN, MD., SEPT. 20, 1902.

THE Cecil court is in session with all three judges present.

MUDD'S campaign is soon to commence. Will McComas speak for him?

THE prohibition campaign mass meeting in Kent will be held in Still Pond on Sept. 25.

COAL is quoted at $10 in Baltimore. One man says he paid $13 for one ton this week.

"MANHOOD SUFFRAGE AND NO BRIBERY" is Ellegood's battle cry. Will the people of the Eastern Shore sustain him?

HON. HENRY HOUSTON has been nominated for Congress in Delaware. Mr. Handy was defeated by only four votes.

THERE was a free fight among negroes on the Queen Anne's train last Sunday night and many were badly hurt. Several arrests have been made.

THE Cumberland Evening Times has issued an industrial edition of the date of August 30, 1902, which is a gem. We congratulate you, Col. Avirett.

THE Democrats are greatly pleased with the first day's registration in Baltimore. Even the Herald says "the Democrats make much the better showing."

THE Republican convention of Alabama excluded the negro! Every colored delegate was shut out by the credentials committee. Will the negro exclude the white man on election day? Why not?

SPECIAL ATTENTION is called to the advertisement of the Supervisors of Election in another column. Young men should attend at the first sitting of the Registers and make sure of obtaining the right to vote. That sitting will be on Tuesday, Sept. 30. Party workers will do their best service by attending to this matter.

IN another column we give the proceedings of the Prohibition Congressional convention at Salisbury last week. The strangest action of that convention was its refusal to pass a resolution against bribery! The reason given was that the passage of such a resolution might be considered favorable to the Democratic candidate. This was certainly a high compliment to Mr. Ellegood.

HON. JAMES E. ELLEGOOD was formally notified of his nomination last Tuesday, and he made an earnest and telling speech. One sentence will show its import: "Not only our Democracy, but civic righteousness in this congressional district is on trial." He closed his remarks with these pertinent words:

"That there are enough sincere persons and enough of civic virtue in the community to enforce this law none will dare to deny. It would be more becoming if these Republicans would take to the Democracy at its word, and offer their co-operation with it and all good citizens looking to organization for the law's enforcement."

SMYRNA, DEL., has the gold fever and $10,000 has recently been invested by various citizens in stock. One of the local papers says: "Two of Smyrna's young ladies invested in Tonepah mining stock several months ago, believing that it would evidently become quite valuable. One invested $50 and the other put up $100. Last week they decided to unload their stock. They received $800 and $1,600 respectively. It is understood the two young ladies above referred to have invested in another mine that will prove a bigger bonanza than Tonepah." It is just as likely to prove their ruin!

The Lesson Of It.

Enough is learned by the examination of the ballots in the second precinct of the second district to safely predict that the completion of the examination of all the contested districts will give no advantage to the contestants. On the contrary, the sitting officials will likely be found to have an increased majority. This is not surprising. It is generally the case. Nothing is made by election contests. It is the old lesson again learned. In this case especially impartial minds will admit that the work of the judges on election night was remarkably correct, as shown by the careful scrutiny of the contested ballots. Another lesson learned is the unreliability of most of the testimony taken to sustain a contested election.

No one now expects any advantage of this contest to the contestants, nor to any one else except it be to show the ordinary fairness and reliability of an election night count of the ballots. We have always urged the acceptance of such verdicts, and the present investigation further emphasises the wisdom of such a course.

THE building of a trolley in Kent county is assuming a seriousness not anticipated. The owners of property along the route are certainly standing in the way of progress not to encourage this enterprise.

Chestertown Should Now Respond.

One of the greatest improvements ever secured to Chestertown is the new public school building. No one, be he ever so favorable to the system of public education, can too highly appreciate the advantages to a community of such a structure as that now about to be completed—indeed is completed and ready for occupancy as soon as the seating can be secured for the same.

No less advantageous than the building itself is its eligible location. The lot is an ideal site—elevated, easily accessible by the youngest scholars from every section of the town, and healthful in the highest degree. The advantages and beauty of such a location, so generally understood already, will be still further appreciated as the years go by.

The building itself is a model. It has been admired by distinguished educators as most pleasing in all its arrangements and specially well adapted to the purposes intended. No more beautiful or well lighted recitation rooms are to be found anywhere than those on the main floors of this building. The members of the building committee certainly have done their part faithfully in the use of the county's money to the best advantage possible. The house now stands before the community as a monument to the county's liberality and intelligence.

But the work is not quite done. Something remains for the citizens of Chestertown to do. Very little, it is true, in comparison to what is secured, yet this duty is plain and pressing. It is to raise the sum needed to equip the building with new seats, beautify the grounds, etc. The county has nobly responded to the sore need of the town in this matter. It is now for our citizens, who are to be the direct beneficiaries, to cheerfully and promptly do their part. If this is done the building can be occupied at once, and the school children of the town be in possession of the splendid facilities offered in the new quarters.

Our people will surely measure up to the duty suggested. To this end a committee of three, consisting of Messrs. Jeff. D. Bacchus, M. Wilber Thomas and Prof. J. L. Smyth have been appointed to call upon every one of the citizens of the town and given the opportunity to contribute to so worthy a cause.

We trust we shall be able in our next issue to announce the full amount subscribed. Aid the committee by liberality and encouraging words, as they do this work for the benefit of the community and not for themselves.
