TWO ENTERTAINMENTS

This store is now conducting in the interest of Education. There is no admission charged to either.

First—

Prof. Caledon Cameron's Marvelous Painting

"Vesuvius In Grand Eruption"

Bringing this wonderfully realistic picture to our store so that all who desire may see it, is highly appreciated by the public. It is history and geography presented in the most impressive way.

The point of view is on the housetops in the heart of the City of Naples, which the artist selected as affording the most comprehensive, picturesque, and magnificent view of this great wonder of the world. The spectator, standing at an elevation of nearly 350 feet above the sea, looks over the city which slopes away to the harbor in the foreground, and over the beautiful Bay of Naples, in whose waters the fiery glare of the eruption and the cold glimmer of the rising moon are reflected.

This picture represents the culmination of the great eruption of April, 1872, which was the grandest of modern times, and lasted about twenty-three days. Every man, woman and child should see it. The exhibition will be continued two weeks longer. It is entirely free. On Fourth Floor.

Second :—

The Pure Food Exposition.

This is the greatest Exposition thus far made in good things for the table.

Imagine an acre of floor space covered with gaily decorated booths! It is a veritable Fair. Each booth is in charge of a woman demonstrator who will tell you all about the good things she is showing. And, better still, she will ask you to sample them by tasting. There are twenty-two different Exhibits—and samples to be had at each. The world's foremost manufacturers are represented.

As an Educational Event, this Food Show is unsurpassed.

There's Music All Day by a Fine Orchestra.

You are invited to come as often as you please and stay as long as you want. No charge. Whether you buy or not is your business—you are very welcome either way. This show is on the fifth floor.

When you get ready to go, let us suggest that you walk down stairs, if you can. On the floor below—the Fourth—you can view the marvelous painting, "Vesuvius in Grand Eruption," and see a wonderful exhibit of fine Furniture—the greatest assortment in town—and a collection of Toys and Games—as great as that usually shown in the average store about Christmas time.

On the Third Floor—there's the beautiful picturesque Rug Room in Moorish grill, with its valuable stock—the artistic Picture Gallery in Grecian and Corinthian effect, with its unsurpassed assortment of pictures. Beautiful Draperies, Decorative Goods and Men's and Boys' Clothing and Shoes are also on this floor in great profusion.

Then, on down to the Second Floor, through the beautiful Millinery and Cloak and Suit Departments, with their lavish display of the best and most artistic goods. Muslin Underwear, Corsets and Women's Shoes, than which none better or more desirable are shown anywhere, are also to be seen on this floor. It's but a short step to the First Floor, with its wealth of Dress Goods, Silks, Laces, and what not? And don't fail to take in the great big basement with its mines of exquisite Bric-a-brac, Cut Glass, Chinaware and Housefurnishing goods. By walking down from the Fifth Floor you really enjoy a panorama of the world's industry, for every clime has contributed to make this store what it is—the best, largest and most complete mercantile establishment South of New York.

When ever you are in Baltimore feel that you can make yourself perfectly at home in this beautiful store. You are always welcome.

OCTOBER TERM OF THE CIRCUIT COURT

Messrs. J. F. Wilson, George Z. Roland and A. S. Turner Excused From Jury Duty—Some of the Civil Cases to Be Tried—The Lusby Case Before the Orphans' Court Removed to Circuit Court.

The October term of the Circuit Court for Kent county, will commence Monday, October 20. Some of the most interesting cases to come up will be :

Albert Godwin vs. the County Commissioners. Mr. Godwin charges that in the working of the public road along his farm, water was backed on his lands and he suffered damage. His claim is for $1,000.

The peach brandy case of Bosley vs. Ex-Sheriff John C. Davis, will come up at this session. This case will involve an interesting interpretation of a point involved in the prohibition statute of Kent county. Sheriff Davis levied on some peach brandy down the county but when he attempted to sell it he was told that he would violate the local option law.

The damage case of W. W. Needles vs John Bartley will not likely come up at this session.

The damage case of John S. Vandegrift vs. William A. Burke will involve the question of the closing up of an alley way between the properties occupied by these gentlemen in Chestertown.

Charles Gaithers vs. the P. W. & B. Railroad is an interesting damage case brought to the local court from Cecil county.

Albert S. Groves vs. Mrs. Lydia C. Shaw, is a suit for claimed illegal distress on property occupied by Mr. G.

Joseph Davis, col., vs. Mrs. Lydia C. Shaw (2 suits) damages, appeal.

Isaac Robinson Company vs. J. F Snodgrass and J. Frank Connelly ; appeal from Justice Melvin. This is a suit for storage of machinery.

John T. Caulk, colored, vs. George W. Walker. This case is to decide a disputed line.

The case of William Numsen vs. Rufus Parks is a suit for a claimed breach of tomato contract and involves several legal points of more than ordinary interest.

The case of Katharine J. Hatcherson vs. Thomas Colyer is a suit to establish title to land.

Another of the series of the interesting damage cases is that of William A. Blakeney vs. Wm. A. Burke for slander.

R. F. Parks vs. George Bramble, is an attachment for credit in the hands of C. H. Skirven.

Martha J. McWhorter vs. Annie Rolph and W. C. Rolph ; appeal from Justice Townsend.

Adam Express Company vs. John R. Willson ; appeal from Justice Russell.

The last two sessions of the Orphans' Court have been more than ordinarily interesting, because of the application made by the residuary legatees to have certain personal property brought into Mr. Lusby's estate which was claimed by Robert W. Lusby, a nephew, and by Mrs. Wooters, the sister by marriage, of the late William T. Lusby.

It will be remembered that Mr. Robert W. Lusby advertised at the time of the sale made by Mr. Garrett Foxwell, the executor, some four horses and colts, 8 cows, and other personalty. The appraisers, Messrs. John M. Comegys and Clarence Cochran, did not include this in the estate of William T. Lusby, because Mr. Robert W. Lusby claimed it as his individual property. Certain household furniture was not included in the appraisement because Mrs. Wootters stated that the same belonged to her. On Tuesday of last week as mentioned in the NEWS it was contended by the residuary legatees that the Orphans' Court had the right to try in whom the title to this property really was, and the executor as well as Mr. Robert W. Lusby, contended that this question could be decided by the Circuit Court alone. Without deciding this point further than expressing their opinion that the whole could be gone into by the Orphans' Court, the court continued the case until Tuesday.

On Tuesday after taking testimony, the Orphans' Court directed that the executor, Mr. Foxwell, should return an additional inventory of the personal property advertised by Mr. Robert W. Lusby, and of certain personalty, claimed by Mrs. Wootters. The effect of this would be to have the executor return an inventory of each article claimed by both parties when the question of title will be immediately determined by the Circuit Court. It is likely the case will be brought at the October term of court, and tried in April next, when the rights of the parties will be decided. Mr. Robt. W. Lusby and Mrs. Wootters offered no evidence whatever, claiming the Circuit Court, and not the Orphans' Court was the proper court to try the question of the property in dispute.
