Hochschild, Kohn & Co.

Howard and Lexington Streets.

1897. THE STORE'S FIFTH ANNIVERSARY. 1902

We have a Past only five years long, and a future that reveals no limit as to extent. And as to potential growth, think what the Store was in 1897 and what it is in 1902. The only things that have'nt changed are our First Enduring Principles—the giving of the most for your money, and treating you right.

We would like to see you here; come for the sake of sentiment you who have known us since the doors opened; come for the sake of the wonderful offerings we make, you who may think some other store nearly equal to this—but come! This is tne People's Store, the store that is broad in its ideas and country-wide in its capacity and willingness to serve all who come to it. Of course it is Baltimore's Best Store.

CAN MAN FORGIVE SINS?

Rev. Dr. Grise Negatives the Proposition.

Dr. C. A. Grise preached a special sermon in Ebenezer M. E Church, Easton, Sunday morning on "Can Men last Forgive Sin," taking for a text Mark 2, 7: "Who can forgive but God alone."

He stated at the outset that he had no idea of stirring up controversy, but to calmly inquire into what the Bible and church history had to say on the subject.

Sin is a crime against God. A fundamental principal is that only the offended, or wronged can remit and forgive. Cordial fellowship cannot be established by pardon or proxy. The Jews, God's chosen people, did not believe man could forgive sins.

Although Christ had established his divinity by many miracles, they would not believe Him to be more than a man possessed of extraordinary powers. Hence they said he blasphemed when he spoke the word of pardon to the sinner.

Dr. Grise quoted numerous texts to show that the Apostles themselves, whether during the life of the Master or after the Ascension, utterly disclaimed power or authority to forgive sins. They did not believe nor practice that man could forgive sins.

In the early centuries of Christian history there is no trace of it. The true church taught them as it does now that men anointed by the Holy Ghost to preach the Gospel were to convey the message of God's pardon to penitent sinners when they exercised saving faith in his Son. As the centuries went on this idea became exaggerated and gradually an ecclesiastical machinery grew, apart from the true church. Spirtuality gave way to human dogma.

In the 16th century Pope Hildebran made an attempt at reform, which really made matters worse. Leo X brought the situation to a climax.

In 1571 he sent three monks into Germany and the north of Europe to sell Indulgencies to raise money for his family use. The most enthusiastic of them John Tetzel, a very learned, brazen, strong voiced monk. To give you the clearest idea of what was then taught, I will quote you a few paragraphs from one of his speeches. He said:

"Indulgencies are the most precious and sublime gifts to God. This cross," pointing to a red wood cross which hung before him, 'has as much efficacy as the cross of Christ itself. Come and I will give you letters, furnished with seals, by which even the sins you may have a wish to commit hereafter shall be forgiven you. I would not exchange my privileges for those of St. Peter in Heaven, for I have saved more souls by my Indulgences than the apostle by his discourses. There is no sin so great that an Indulgence cannot remit it. Repentance is not necessary. But more than this, Indulgences not only save the living, they save the dead also. Priest, noble, merchants, woman, young woman, young man, harken to your parents and your friends who are dead, and who cry from the depths of the abyss, 'we are enduring horrible tortures; a small alms will deliver us; you can give it and you will not.' The very instance your piece of money chinks at the bottom of this strong box the soul is freed from purgatory and flies to Heaven."

But the better element of the church was stirred in opposition. Martin Luther, one of the most devoted and learned of the theologians of the church, one of the greatest it ever had, professor in one of the great colleges, also the confessor of Frederick of Saxony. Such a man may be supposed to be able to say what the church in its purity really taught. The fifth and sixth of the thesis which he nailed to the church door, so that all could read them, spoke as follows: "The Pope has neither the will nor the power to remit any penalties, except those which he has imposed by his own authority, or by that of the canons. The Pope has no power to remit any guilt except declaring it to have been remitted by God."

MRS. ROLAND B. MOLINEUX, whose husband was last week declared "not guilty" of murder in New York, a case which has attracted world-wide attention, as a young girl was a Miss Chesebrough and lived in Easton for a short time and was an intimate friend of a number of ladies now living here. She is remembered very clearly.—Easton Gazette.

THE Wilmington Business School, under the management of Messrs. Beacom & Dutton, is an institution of its kind that proves that thorough, conscientious instruction is sure to win. This school is in its third year. The enrollment the first year was 208, the second year 333, while the enrollment to date, is 100 ahead of the corresponding period of last year.
