EYES.

BY HELENA M. JOHNSON.

Gaze into her eyes of brown,
Winning eyes;
Where the shadow always lies
Sweet and cool;
Where the soft light comes and goes,
Sweeter far than any rose—
Eyes of brown.

Gaze into her eyes of blue,
Starry eyes;
Where the starlight never dies,
Bright and clear;
Some stars lose their beauty soon,
Some are cold like waning moon—
Eyes of blue.

Gaze into her eyes of gray,
Dreamy eyes;
And 'tis here the angels fly
For a rest;
For 'tis here the angels dwell,
Here their sweetest stories tell—
To eyes of gray.

Gaze into his hazel eyes,
Merry eyes;
Where good nature never dies
All the year;
Full of mischief, sometimes wise,
Always flecked with glad surprise—
Hazel eyes.

SLAUGHTER BEACH.

Some People Wish to Change the Name of the Resort—Suggestions of Dr. Yan Phou Lee.

Kent and Sussex countians, in Delaware, are seeking a new name for Slaughter Beach, which name, though possessed by a prominent and useful Delaware family, has a gory significance when applied to a restful, bayside pleasure resort.
Dr. Yan Phou Lee, the Chinese scholar and Delaware farmer, has been called in for an opinion as to whether or not the name should be changed and for a suggestion as to what it should be. Lee suggests that Slaughter Beach, Butcher Beach or Shambles Beach may not carry the growing Delaware resort into far fame and suggests either Bayside Beach or Mispillion Beach. The latter name, he suggests, would be taken from the stream "which enables Milford and its environs to escape from exorbitant freight charges." Lee, who is somewhat of a wag as well as successful farmer at Lincoln, threatens to visit the beach and give it a name next week, probably "Big Thursday," which will draw thousands there on that day. At least, he will go over and settle the name trouble as umpire for the well-wishers of the resort, "some day when the middlemen and the railroad company cease to get all the alleged profits of my farm."

IF WOMEN WERE MEN.

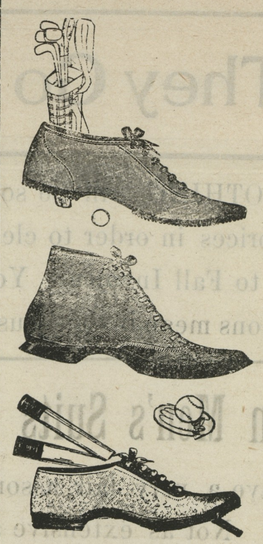

BY W. D. HOWELL.

One often hears the expression in women: "Oh, if I were only a man!" "I should just like to be a man, once!" "I would give anything to be a man!" In all honesty, then, or in as much honesty as she is obliged to have, is not woman, when she is thinking of living her life over again, thinking of living a man's life? Is she not wishing to set an example to her husband, who has shown himself so little able to set an example to her, and for whose discipline she is believed oftenest to indulge what seems a vain aspiration? A very strange thing in regard to this is that men are never heard sighing to be women. The weakest, the unhappiest, the most abject of men is not known to wish himself a woman, and when he considers living his life over again it is certainly a man's life that he has in mind. He is perfectly willing to allow that a woman is much better by nature, wiser by teaching, sweeter, lovlier, gentler, and yet he does not ask to change his lot with hers; if he were a beggar, and she a queen, he would not. He is found saying, in print and out of it, that women have by far the safest, easiest and pleasantest time of it, but still, somehow, he does not envy them enough to offer changing places with them. He will tell them, as he has often told them, that they are the real rulers of the world, and that in the sacred quality of daughter, wife and mother they are the holiest beings on earth; he bows down in worship of them, but he leaves them their altar. He does not think it any great thing to be a man, but he is not surprised that the objects of his idolatry should sometimes declare themselves eager to descend from their high places and be men, in the dust and grime of affairs, the din and heat of battle, and the wild, useless efforts to escape from the struggle of life. He understands that they wish to be men in order to show men what men ought to be, and would be if they were women, and that they are not meaning permanently to be men, and he forgives to their ignorance and inexperience what ne could not otherwise account for. He forgives it with a smile and possibly with a chuckle.

TWO CURES.

FLORENCE, S. C., Aug. 16, 1902.
Gentlemen:—I began to suffer from rheumatism about three years ago, and had it very bad in my limbs. At times I could hardly walk. Was treated by a physician without benefit. More than a year ago, Mr. George Wilson, an engineer on the Coast Line, living in Florence, told me that "RHEUMACIDE" cured him. I got a bottle and it benefitted me. I took five bottles and am now as well as I ever was in my life. I regard "RHEUMACIDE" as a great medicine. I know of others it has cured.
Truly,
S. T. BURCH.

DARLINGTON, S. C., Aug. 19th, 1902.
Gentlemen:—About two years ago I had a very severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism. I suffered great pain and was confined to my bed for five weeks. During the time I was treated by two Physicians without permanent relief. Capt. Harker, a conductor on the Atlantic Coast Line heard of my condition and sent me two bottles of "RHEUMACIDE." I began to take it and in a week I got up and walked on crutches. After taking three bottles of the remedy I got entirely well and went back to my business.
I personally know of a number of other bad cases that were cured by the use of your medicine, in this town and vicinity. It is all that you claim for it.
Truly, J. L. SISKRON.
