CHESTERTOWN, MD., AUG. 22, 1903

Democratic Primaries.

Pursuant to the action of the State Central Committee, the Democratic voters will meet in their respective election districts and precincts on Saturday August 22nd, 1903, between the hours of 2 and 6 o'clock p. m. for the purpose of appointing six delegates from each district to meet in Chestertown on Tuesday, the 25th day of August, 1903, at 11 o'clock a. m., to elect six delegates to Democratic State convention to be held in Baltimore on a date to be named for the purpose of nominating a Governor, Comptroller and Attorney General. If there be any contest for the election of delegates and a desire is expressed for a vote, each district shall select judges and two clerks and shall open and close the polls at the hours herein prescribed, and when the polls are opened, shall receive the votes of all Democrats offering to vote, whose names shall appear upon the registration books and who shall vote in the districts where they are registered, and shall also receive all the votes of all young Democrats, who, on account of their age are not now registered but who will be entitled to registration and to vote at the ensuing November election. And, upon the closing of the polls at the hours herein directed, the judges shall proceed to count the votes cast, and shall certify to the person receiving the highest number of votes as delegates. Whereupon it shall be the duty of said delegates to proceed to Chestertown on said Tuesday in August, and cast the vote of the district in convention and elect 6 delegates.

Should no desire be expressed for a ballot, then the district meetings may select delegates by a viva voce vote, or by committee nominations. The mode of procedure here in prescribed will be strictly followed, any other method will not be legal, as this committee has full power so to decree.

Warfield and Baseball.

Fully 1,200 persons were at the Centreville baseball Tuesday to see the double attraction of the probable Democratic nominee for governor—Edwin Warfield—and a game of ball between the Centrevilles and Ironsides team, of Sparrows Point. The local team had their glory dimmed and in the presence of such a distinguished visitor too. Why not try a game with Betterton and have Hon. Edwin Warfield over to Kent to see the bayside resort do the same trick? The Sparrows Point aggregation came to Centreville on the steamer Talbot, and brought about 200 excursionists with them. While not a one sided game by any means, the Ironsides team won by the score of 10 to 3, evening up for the game they lost three weeks ago, when Centreville defeated them on their own grounds 5 to 2.

THREE WANTS.

"The people want three things politically—they want Mr. Warfield for Governor, Hon. John Walter Smith for United States Senator and Senator Gorman in the Presidential chair, and the people are going to get what they want. First comes the Governorship, and as this is going to be a Democratic year there will be no trouble about that and the election of a Democratic successor to McComas will follow. Next year Mr. Gorman's time will come, and with Mr. Carter Harrison as his running mate the East and West can both be captured from the enemy. The South is already solidly in line for our candidate, New York will surely give him her votes and New Jersey, Connecticut, Maryland and Indiana will join the procession."—Snow Hill Messenger.

GIRLS, IT PAYS TO BE MODEST.

MARENGO, IA., August 18.—Miss Eldora Sinks, of this city, has been notified that she is the sole heir to an estate of $500,000, bequeathed by H. J. Thompson, of Colorado Springs. Thompson was a wealthy mine owner and bachelor.

Three years ago Miss Sinks and a party of friends visited Colorado and became acquainted with him. He was attracted to Miss Sinks because of her modesty and unassuming manners, frequently remarking that fact.

She spent the entire summer in the West, and when she returned had no idea she would ever again hear of her middle-aged admirer. To-day she received notice of his death, together with the statement that he had willed to her his entire estate, there being no other heirs.

TOMATO SEASON COMMENCED

The Crop Said to be Light—Foreign Labor to be Used—Other Fruit Notes.

First shipments of tomatoes in large quantities are being made this week. The tomatoes are ripening very slow and growers are unanimous that the crop is rather light on account of the rains. Few buyers are in Kent as yet.

Foreign labor will be used by the canning houses in Kent this year more than ever before. Local labor is unreliable and troublesome. The Robinson factory at Chestertown have had a colony of Bohemians for a week and no work for them and it will be a week longer before they will get to canning. But it is said they insisted upon coming and the company had to acquiesce.

Mr. Igelhart, from Howard county, has removed his canning machinery to the Rock Hall cannery and will soon be at work canning tomatoes. Joseph Downey, will also can this season. Mr. Igelhart has erected shanties to house the Bohemians from Baltimore, who are to work in the cannery.

Mr. John Westerway is overhauling the Numsen cannery at Chestertown. He says Mr. George Numsen, who has been very ill, is improving, but will not be able to give any attention to canning work this season. His son, Newnam, a chip of the old block, will be over and assist Mr. Westerway Mr. W. H. Brown will attend to the buying of tomatoes. The other canning establishments in Kent are also overhauling their plants and operations will begin next week.

John R. Wilson, of Smyrna, a few days ago shipped 4 baskets of tomatoes to New York and secured $5 for the same. The sum of $1.25 per basket is a handsome price for tomatoes and is the best we have heard. They must have been beauties or the demand in that section was very active.

The price of canned tomatoes during the coming winter will likely be high, for, besides the failure of the Western crop, the tomato crop in Maryland is not produced under favorable circumstances this season. The yield will be about the same as last year, owing to the increased acreage, but the rainy weather has had a bad effect on the crop, making it an expensive one for the farmers.

In many localities canneries have been established and the farmers find it more profitable to sell their product to them or to pack the tomatoes themselves rather than send them to Baltimore. Instead of bringing tomatoes to the packers in Baltimore the steamboat companies are carrying cans, supplies and Bohemian laborers to the fields where the tomatoes are grown. This means a decrease in the freight received from the tomato trade, as the fresh, perishable vegetables command a higher freight rate than the canned goods. Along the routes of several lines the canneries have not gone into operation, or there are none to start up, so that these lines are bringing tomatoes to the local market. Most of these are finding their way to the retail markets, for the local packers will not begin to buy in any quantities until about a fortnight.

When the farmers found they would have few or no peaches, they turned their attention to tomatoes. Another cause accounting for the large acreage this year is the fact that large profits were made out of tomatoes last year, and particularly by those who canned them before they were hauled to the city.

County Treasurer B. T. Conwell, who is a fruit grower in the lower part of Kent county, Del., believes that there will be a partial failure of Delaware's big pear crop. The fruit was retarded by the spring frosts, followed by the unprecedented drought, and the pears are small in consequence.

FROM CLIFF CITY.

We are now in the midst of peach season, but where we were shipping a thousand to fifteen hundred daily from our wharf last season at this time, we are now shipping less than one hundred. A short crop of pears confronts us. Tomatoes are now going freely, growers realizing good prices.

The influx of summer visitors is greater than usual, and why not? Everything here to cater to the most fastidious taste—good fishing, crabbing and boating. We have many old friends with us now. Among them are Mrs. Marian Chambers and daughter, Ella, visiting her sister, Mrs. Caroline Stoops; Mr. Chas. Brown, her brother, from Baltimore, and others from that city. Mrs. Nora Johnson (nee Goodman) and husband, Mr. Brown and family, are stopping with Mr. John D. Carter; very pleasant people. Rev. D. W. Johnson, wife and son, are visiting his uncle, Prof. Chas. T. Stratton. Mr. Johnson is pastor of Bethany M. E. Church, Camden, N. J., and a very popular preacher. Among our recent visitors was Mr. John Jordan, of Wyoming, at the home of his sister, Mrs. Chas. T. Stratton. He is one of the great cattle ranchmen of the West. We had a very pleasant interview with him on cattle growing; indeed it is amazing at the vastness. I called on him at his sister's and he was very affable and pleasant spoken, though his face bore the stamp of exposure. I asked him if he would give me a little of his experience and he kindly assented.

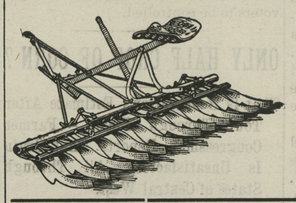

Here is what he gave me verbatim: I went to Iron Mountain, Wyoming, in 1885. Mr. John Collins and Brother, natives of York county, had established a ranch at this place. I hired to them as cow boy. Was with them in the capacity for two years. Mr. Collins promoted me to the superintendency of the ranch. His health failed him and I bought the ranch for $20,000, with the help of my father and what I had saved. I paid $6,000, the first payment. I then had 700 head all told, 500 cattle and 200 horses. The business prospered and my stock to day approximates 1500 head of cows and not horses. I have reduced my stock of horses, as there is not the money in them as in cattle. My beaves are driven to Cheynne, they weigh from 1100 to 1300 pounds. Our life is very isolated; no store within fifty miles; no churches, no schools, hardly know when Sunday comes, except it seems to be the day when the ranch men meet to discuss cattle affairs. I married an Eastern lady, she seems very contented and happy, except the education of children and absence from church and Sabbath schools. I am much obliged to you, Mr. Jordan, and I left him. FINIS.
