Are You An Up-To-Date 20th Century Farmer?

IF SO, YOU WILL USE

T. R. HUBBARD & SON'S

MODERN FERTILIZER BRANDS

MANY cannot understand why, after so many years doing business here, that T. R. Hubbard & Son's Fertilizers are more extensively used year after year. But the mystery is solved by a visit to our factory, which is always open for inspection to the public, and those who go down to our works marvel at the pains taken in manufacturing the goods.

"First, the bone is shoveled in the crusher with a scoop shovel and prepared for the Denmead mill, then it is dissolved, and after getting in good mechanical condition, if making dissolved bone goods, so many pounds of bone is put in the mixer. The nitrate of soda, fish and high grade potash are added, the whole thoroughly mixed, passed through a phosphate mill and screened and thrown up in bulk, to remain until it is shipped, and then it is bagged in new treated acid-proof bags, and sent out in splendid shape. We are often asked, "Why don't you run the goods when first mixed, right in the bags, and not go to the expense of treating the bags, as do other manufacturers?"

"We are often asked if this is not a needless extreme, but we reply—it pays to make the best.

Whilst there is some loss by evaporation by bulking, an additional expense in rebagging and an expense to treat the bags, when we remember that a farmer appreciates a good goods and in first-class mechanical condition, it pays to go to extremes, as it is impossible to make a first-class fertilizer otherwise; and by treating our customers right in their purchases, making the time of payment of the bill to suit them, we have gotten a personal hold upon our trade.

"Now, in order that we might continue to be an up-to-date concern, it was necessary to have our own acid chambers and an acid phosphate plant, so as to be entirely independent of the trust, and we have gone in with another concern and erected one of the most modernly equipped phosphate factories in the East, located at Canton. This will make our and supply the Chestertown factory, and instead of closing up our old factory, as many supposed, we will be in better shape than ever before, and will be worked harder than ever. We tell you all this, for when you know what we know about our business, you will not buy any ordinary fertilizer, but

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

The New Commander.

General John C. Black, the newly elected commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, entered the army during the war of the rebellion as a private and left it a brevet brigadier general. He was born in GENERAL JOHN C. BLACK.

Mississippi, but removed to Danville, Ill., while a youth. He has long been considered one of the leading lawyers of the middle west. He has served a term in congress and has also been commissioner of pensions.

General Black was a candidate for commander in chief of the Grand Army last year, but was defeated by General Thomas A. Stewart. At the recent encampment held in San Francisco General Black was elected without opposition and by acclamation.

A Congressman Who Can Wrestle.

The Hon. Bird S. McGuire, Oklahoma's new delegate to congress, was not only one of the nerviest cowboys and broncho busters on the plains before he became a lawyer, but in his early days he made a reputation also as a wrestler which still sticks. There would not be much difficulty now in persuading him to participate in a bout provided it could be done so secretly as not to interfere with the dignity essential to his congressional position.

In 1884, when young McGuire was a student at the State Normal at Emporia, Kan., he was in the height of his athletic glory. He could throw and outbox everybody in school, including his roommate, the now governor of Oklahoma, the Hon. Tom B. Ferguson. He practiced this sport for several years after he left school and soon became known as the best man in Chautauqua county and in all southeastern Kansas.

In 1886 McGuire met and defeated at the county fair at Sedan, Kan., a professional wrestler of the name of Weber. McGuire acquired great fame from this encounter and afterward received challenges from professionals throughout the land. The notoriety of it impelled him to give up wrestling.

Optimistic Mr. Cockran.

W. Bourke Cockran, the famous Irish-American lawyer and orator, has recently returned to his home in New York from an extended visit to Ireland and England. In an interview the other day Mr. Cockran gave expression to the most optimistic opinions regarding the future of Ireland. "Ireland is saved to the Irish," said he. "An era of prosperity is about to set in following the passage of the Irish land bill by parliament that will put the 'old sod' where it has belonged for years."

The bill referred to by Mr. Cockran was introduced by King Edward himself, and it is thought that the influence of the brilliant Irish-American visitor upon those high in English counsels had something to do with the adoption of the measure. While enthusiastic over the benefits which will accrue to the Irish people through the new land bill, Mr. Cockran modestly denies that he had a share in securing its adoption.

A Smiling Magnate.

David Wilcox, the railway magnate and lawyer, has always been noted for his urbanity, and from time to time he indulges himself and his colleagues in a little philosophizing on the value of the "smile that won't come off."

Like other big railway presidents, he has a pass over the New York elevated system. While entering through the Fifty-eighth street station recently a companion noticed that he lightly touched the brim of his hat and nodded in his wonted smiling way to the gateman.

"Your smile seems as irresistible with ticket choppers as it is with railroad directors, and as it used to be with juries," observed a friend.

"Let me tell you," was the reply, "that I'd have to show my pass to that gateman every time I went by if I didn't offer the salute. And it is a safe rule of life—give a man a smile and he's much less inclined to give you the 'ha ha.'"

Ten Thousand Churches

In the United States have used the Longman & Martinez Pure Paints.

Every Church will be given a liberal quantity whenever they paint.

Don't pay $1.50 a gallon for Linseed oil (worth 60 cents) which you do when you buy thin paint in a can with a paint label on it.

8 & 6 makes 14; therefore when you want fourteen gallons of paint, buy only eight gallons of L. & M., and mix six gallons of pure linseed oil with it.

You need only four gallons of L. & M. Paint, and three gallons of Oil mixed therewith to paint a good sized house.

Houses painted with these paints never grow shabby, even after 18 years.
