ROUSING MEETING!

Mr. Warfield commented severely upon the course of President Roosevelt in meddling in the Maryland affairs, and expressed his confidence that the white people of this State will administer a stinging rebuke to this policy. In conclusion Mr. Warfield paid high tribute to the eloquence of Mr. Raynor and urged united support for all the local candidates.

Negro Domination In Somerset.

Dr. Gordon T. Atkinson said that, unlike his colleagues on the ticket, he was not accustomed to stump speaking. His nomination as Comptroller had come as a big surprise to him, but he had accepted it and, if elected to the high office of Comptroller of the State of Maryland, would do his utmost to perform the duties honestly and well, with credit to the State as well as to himself. He eulogized the record made by Dr. Herring during the past four years and cited the fact that under the present Democratic administration the public debt of the State had been practically wiped out, the assets of the State being more than sufficient to pay the last dollar, if it choose to realize upon them. Dr. Atkinson said that wherever he had gone during this campaign he had found the Democrats united and confident. He believed this was a Democratic year, and that sweeping majorities would be given the ticket. He told something of the negro domination in his own county of Somerset, where the Republican county convention was composed of one-half white men and the other half negroes. Conditions were such in Somerset, Dr. Atkinson said, that a very few white men in the county by combining with the solid negro vote could control the entire community and manage the affairs of the county Negro domination in his county, he said, was a condition and not a theory.

Mr. Vickers' Strong Words.

H. W. Vickers, Esq., was called for at the night meeting and responded in an address of remarkable force. He put in his words his characteristic enthusiasm and stirred his audience to an enthusiastic pitch. He dwelt particularly upon the race issue and upon the reception of Booker Washington by Roosevelt. "If this was all of it," said he, "I would not care. He could have slept with him if he had cared! But, what I dislike and what makes the act so reprehensible is that every negro in Kent county thinks he dined with the President!" Mr. Vickers called upon the white men to vote the whole ticket. Said he, "I thought the world was coming to an end when I was defeated, but I am here tonight doing all in my power to elect the whole Democratic ticket and shall vote for every man on it!"

Mr. Barroll at His Best.

Hope H. Barroll, Esq., was urged to say a few words and consented. He was at his best, and from the start captured his audience by his happy remarks about his personal relation with "Billy" Bryan. He compared the local candidates on the Democratic ticket with their opponents and proved them to be men of ability and in every way fitted for the office to which they aspire. His scathing rebuke to the men who had left the party for a mess of pottage met with outbursts of tremendous applause and throughout his address his sentences were punctuated with evidences of hearty approval from the large audience of white men.

Dr. G. Allen Jarman presided over the night meeting in the absence of Mr. Harris.

The Galena Band under Prof. Godwin,s leadership rendered excellent music.

The letters in the catalogue of Goldey College are very interesting.

Not Three Tickets.

The ticket to be voted in November is arranged in three columns. Unless care is taken in instructing, many will make their marks in only one of these columns, that being the arrangement of the ticket in former years. Voters—YOU ARE TO GO OVER THE WHOLE SHEET and select the names you want to vote.

COLLEGE NOTES.

Our esteemed friend, Mr. H. H. Barroll, drove up to the college with his guests Mr. W. S. Bryan and Dr. Atkinson, candidates for Attorney General and Comptroller respectively, and our renowned statesman, Hon. Isidor Raynor. All the boys that were present gathered themselves into a circle and gave them several appropriate yells, after which these four gentlemen conversed a short while with the boys.

Mr. Raynor mentioned the fact of his being, several times invited to deliver the address at the anniversary of the Mt. Vernon Literary Society in June. "I am sorry" said he "that it has been and still is impossible for me to accept this honor, as I am always away from home at that time of the year; but if you desire it, I will promise to get you one of the best members of the Baltimore bar to assist you this." It seems that "Old Mt. Vernon" is known and appreciated by nearly all of the most prominent men of the State.

The annual chestnut hunt took place last Tuesday. About sixty or more young ladies and gentlemen were present on this pleasant expedition. Owing to the crowded work of the farmers, it was impossible to procure wagons, so it was necessary to make this a pedestrian excursion. The chaperons were Dr. Micou, Prof. Jones, and Misses Hardcastle and Burchinal. The large chestnut trees on the Stewart farm, about two miles from the college, were made the objects of attraction. But when the "hunters" arrived there, they found but few chestnuts; so those who were looking for chestnuts were, of course, disappointed.

The foot ball team manager, Mr. Porter, has had very ill luck in procuring games at Chestertown. Three teams have cancelled, thus leaving his home schedule entirely void.
