FARMERS PROFITED BY FORMING ASSOCIATION.

The Eastern Shore of Virginia Produce Exchange is again this year more than ever before demonstrating that a lawful combination of farmers managed by competent men is the greatest protection ever instituted for their interests

The exchange is an association of about 2,500 prominent and enterprising farmers on the Virginia Eastern Shore. Its Central office is at Onley, about midway of the shore. It did a business of a little over $1,500,000 last year and already has done $250,000 more business than it did in the same time last year. It handled 30,000 barrels more white potatoes than last year and sold over 700 cars of sweet potatoes during the month of August. The exchange is conducted along Morgan's "community of interests" idea, and its greatest good is the opening up of new markets and distributing the shipments so as to not overstock any market.

The necessity of good distribution was clearly shown during the onion and white potato season, when Baltimore, New York and Philadelphia markets were flat, potatoes bringing $2.50 to $1.75 per barrel. The management of the exchange was selling the same potatoes at $2.75 per barrel to merchants in Chicago, Cleveland, Toledo and Detroit and other western cities. The eastern markets were low because of the immense arrivals from the farmers in the territories surrounding them, but the exchange, which spends during the six months season $10,000 on telegrams, could find another market.

The farmers of Somerset, Worcester Wicomico and Dorchester counties, of this state realizing the great benefits from an organization, have combined under the Peninsula Produce Exchange and are doing a large business. The central office is at Pocomoke City. It is stated that the average another year in potatoes in that community will be several times larger next year. A great many farmers from Accomac have moved to this neighborhood and brought with them the idea that potatoes are the best truck a farmer can raise.

WHEN YOU'RE "HITCHED"

Facts About Matrimony, And How To Find Happiness In That State.

BY GEO. H. LORIMER.

There are mighty few young people who go into marriage with any real idea of what it means. They get their notion of it from among the clouds where they live while they are engaged, and naturally about all they find up there is wind and moonshine, or from novels which always end just before the real trouble begins, or, if they keep on, leave out the chapters that tells how the husband finds the rent and the wife the hired girls. But if there's one thing in the world about which it's possible to get all the facts it's matrimony. Part of them are right in the house where you were born, and the neighbors have the rest.

It's been my experience that you've got to have leisure to be unhappy. Half the troubles in the world are imaginary, and it takes time to think them up. But it's these oftener than the real troubles that break a young husband's back or a young wife's heart.

A few men and more women can be happy idle when they're single, but once you marry them to each other they've got to find work or they'll find trouble. Everybody's got to raise something in this world, and unless people raise a job or crops or children they'll raise Cain. You can ride three miles on the trolley car to the stockyards every morning and find happiness at the end of the trip, but you may chase it all over the world in a steam yacht without catching up with it. A woman can find fun from the basement to the nursery of her own house, but give her a license to gad the streets and a bunch of matinee tickets and she'll find discontent. There's always an idle woman or an idle man in every divorce case When the man earns the bread in the sweat of his brow it's right that the woman should perspire a little baking it.

THE CORN CROP.

The general reports from all over the county are very gratifying about the corn crop. The average state of the weather during the summer has certainly been favorable to its growth. During the earlier and critical period of the season there was an abundance of moisture and a coolness in temperature which permitted the plant to get a good, vigorous start. As a consequence the yield, so far as the visible evidences would indicate, has been exceptionally large. Some of the farmers who failed to cut prior to the recent severe storm, have been handicapped somewhat by the fact that their corn was laid flat on the ground by the violence of the wind The misfortune, however, did not effect the condition of the ear. Many who have examined their shocks report fine large, full ears, with sound, solid grain. That seems to verify the belief that the yield will be materially above the average. There are some cases reported of where the fodder seems to be superabundant, without commensurate development of the ear. These cases are exceptional, however, and will play but small part in making up the general average of the year's yield.

TRADE MARK

After an experience of over 28 years and dilligent study in our business, coupled with the best mechanical devices that could be procured, we now offer you our and have much pleasure in calling the attention of the intelligent farmer to our unprecedented facilities for supplying the trade this Fall. Never did the agriculturist need more for the money than he does now and notwithstanding the fact that materials have advanced, with our Baltimore connection enabling us to obtain materials at rock bottom prices, we have determined to give you the advantage of it. But the greatest of all is the quality, for we have never heard better results from our goods than this year.

One customer from Dorchester claims to have gotten 53 bushels per acre from our Bone Super.

Another gentleman in Queen Anne's, who bought 104 tons last fall says on one farm he got a fraction over 40 bushels.

Another in Kent 34 bushels or 9 bushels more than from a cheaper goods, he used our Bone Super.

Mr. I. R. Leaverton, a gentleman who used to use Rock Goods says he has found that high grade goods pay him and has placed his order for 45 tons of high grade goods.

Messrs. Wright, McKenney & Lowe, of Centreville, say their men claim for mechanical condition, for action on crops, for a fertilizer that alright in every particular, Hubbard's is the goods and they buy again.

Mr. J. T. Anthony says it has always done well for him and that is why he buys again.

Another party who used 40 tons bulk of it, Hubbard's Bone Super, says that anybody could tell the difference and so we could go on but for want of space. We therefore say that when you are ready to buy we would be glad to quote you prices.
