GREAT SALE OF

SAMPLE SHOES

What are Sample Shoes? Sample Shoes are a superior product from enterprising Shoe factories, used to show their output by salesmen in the securing of orders. We buy these at a very liberal discount, owing to their slightly soiled condition and odd sizes. We have just secured the entire stock samples from one of the best makers of fine Shoes. Some haven't been out of their boxes—reserve samples. Others have been with the salesmen on their rounds—but refinished and as good as new. All sizes for Men, Ladies and Children. Come, see what you can get for your money by buying SAMPLE SHOES.

LACK OF APPETITE.

Nature's Method of Telling Us That We Should Not Eat.

A man who retires at 9 o'clock should have his dinner at 5. As our business methods prohibit this way of living, the next choice for this class is a noonday dinner, a light meal at night and a more substantial breakfast. The man who eats a dinner well proportioned, served in courses, at 6 or half past will find a light breakfast all that is necessary. Most persons have been brought up to think it necessary to eat three good meals a day, which few Americans can do for any length of time. To prick up the stomach, to bring the gastric secretions in that it may receive the food in a welcome condition in the morning, an "appetizer" in the shape of the juice of one or two oranges is taken, or other acid fruits. At dinner, condiments or large quantities of salt are eaten. The irritation these create we call "appetite."

It must be understood that the lack of appetite is nature's way of telling us that we should not eat. Those who insist on eating without appetite live for awhile, but go about their daily toil with languid movements and an expression of stern duty, making every one around them feel that life is a burden rather than a pleasure. This class also go from place to place wishing for new dishes, new ideas, new ways of dressing the ordinary things they are so tired of eating. Their sense of taste has got into revolt, and to keep the appetite at all alert new and highly seasoned dishes must be constantly concocted. The oyster cocktail, enough to ruin the finest stomach, is seen on their tables. A natural appetite to them is but a remembrance of childhood. Their names swell the list of sufferers from dyspepsia, rheumatism, gout, Bright's disease, biliousness and "sick headache."—Woman's Home Companion.

NATURE'S HANDIWORK.

The Wonderful Bridge That Spans a Canyon In Utah.

Writing about the colossal bridges of Utah, W. W. Dyar says in the Century:

Across a canyon measuring 335 feet 7 inches from wall to wall nature has thrown a splendid arch of solid sandstone sixty feet thick in the central part and forty feet wide, leaving underneath it a clear opening 357 feet in perpendicular height. The lateral walls of the arch rise perpendicularly nearly to the top of the bridge, when they flare suddenly outward, giving the effect of an immense coping or cornice overhanging the main structure fifteen or twenty feet on each side and extending with the greatest regularity and symmetry the whole length of the bridge. The majestic proportions of this bridge may be partly realized by a few comparisons. Thus its height is more than twice and its span more than three times as great as those of the famous natural bridge of Virginia. Its buttresses are 118 feet farther apart than those of the celebrated masonry arch in the District of Columbia known as Cabin John bridge, a few miles from Washington city, which has the greatest span of any masonry bridge on this continent. This bridge would overspan the capitol at Washington and clear the top of the dome by fifty-one feet. And if the loftiest tree in the Calaveras grove of giant sequoias in California stood in the bottom of the canyon its topmost bough would lack thirty-two feet of reaching the underside of the arch.

This bridge is of white or very light sandstone, and, as in the case of the Caroline, filaments of green and orange tinted lichens run here and there over the mighty buttresses and along the sheltered crevices under the lofty cornice, giving warmth and color to the wonderful picture.

Jovial on the Scaffold.

Sir Thomas More, who was beheaded in 1535, was famous for his wit. "He died," says the chronicler, "with an unconcern that in others would have appeared to be levity, but in him was nature." He jested on the scaffold, and he had been just as humorous during his imprisonment. With a pathetic touch which is never absent from the true humorist he closed all his windows when they took his books from him. "It is time to shut up shop," he said, "when the wares are all gone."

The Angel In Him.

Rev. Dogood—No man is so bad that there is not a little of the angel left him. Bobson—Yes, that's so. Remember Spilkins? Everybody thought he was about the worst man on earth. Why, his own mother wouldn't come to his funeral. Well, sir, I've been told a thousand times a month for the last five years that Spilkins was the only real saint that ever lived. Rev. Dogood—My goodness! Dobson—I married Spilkins' widow.

How It Hurts.

Tommy—Smokin' cigarettes is dead sure to hurt yer.

Jimmy—G'on! Where did yer git dat notion?

"From pop."

"Aw, he wuz jist stringin' yer."

"No, he wasn't stringin' me. He wuz strappin' me. Dat's how I knows it hurts."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Ideal Laborers.

She—What gave you nervous prostration? Weary Will—Overwork, mum. She—I never heard of a tramp overworking himself. Weary Will—I s'pose not, mum. They be generally too tired to tell of it.—New York Times.

Something to Draw On.

Jones (who is broke)—I have one faithful friend left.

Brown (also broke)—Who is it?

"My pipe. I can still draw on that."—Town Topics.
