HOW ABOUT YOUR SHOES?

Have you an extra pair to give relief to the feet by changing off?

OUR PRICES FOR SHOES are so low that you can be the possessor of many pairs—not of shopworn or out of date footwear, but of stylish, well-made, handsome shoes. My line of spring and summer footwear is now very complete, consisting of Men's Ladies' and Children's Shoes and Oxford Ties, in all the new shapes and kinds of stock. Russia Calf, Pat Leather, Vici Kid and an inspection of them will convince you that you can do as well to buy your Shoes of me as in the city, both as to quality and price, and in doing so you will encourage home industry. We sell nothing but Standard makes No auction goods sold from this store, but good goods at a small margin of profit is our motto Come in and take a look before you buy and be convinced. What we want is a large volume of business with small profits rather than a small business at large profits. This is he way we have done the business in the past and hope to do it in the future.

Men's Shoes and Oxford Ties from - $1.00 to $5.00
Ladies' Shoes and Oxford Ties from - .50 to $3.50

"The Shoe Man." Under Stam's Hall.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY

and the Republicans too, have their platforms, but our platform for giving honest bargains at the lowest prices, is in a class by itself.

Our new stock of goods has just been received, direct from the manufacturers. (That is our secret of selling so cheap). Our shelves are loaded down with goods of excellent patterns and tempting styles. These goods are "goods" in the real sense of the word. Goods that can be depended upon for their reliability and durability.

Our prices too, are eyesores to our competitors and justly so, for haven't we shown our ability to undersell all other stores?

But all this newspaper talk don't amount to a row of pins. What the people want are "bargains," and genuine ones at that. So without further talk, we quote as follows:

EVILS OF "GET THERE."

The Dangers That Lurk In Our Modern Hustling Methods.

If we may judge by its effects on those who obey its command, our slang motto, "Get there," is not an elevating or ennobling one. On the contrary, it is brutalizing. It appeals to the lower and not the higher instincts in man.

Yet this motto is quoted all over our land. It is demoralizing the law, it is creeping into the pulpit, it speaks from our schools, it looks out of the eyes of the ambitious, it undermines health, and it frequently destroys all nobility of character.

The old fashioned slow and sure methods of attaining a competency are tabooed. The man who spends half a lifetime in making a fortune is regarded as "slow." Short cut processes, at any cost, are the demand of the hour. From the time a boy enters school he is goaded on by unnatural ambitions. He is not satisfied with steady, permanent growth. He must progress by leaps and bounds. Boys and girls are encouraged by their parents to get ahead in their classes, even if they must burn midnight oil and risk their health in order to do so.

It is pitiable to watch a typical American going to business in the morning. He is not content to sit quietly and relax until the train carries him to his destination in the city. Long before that he leans forward in his seat and makes ready to leap off while the train is moving. With every muscle tense, an anxious, worried expression in his face and a nervous twitching of the hands, clutching his cane, umbrella, parcel or the back of the seat in front of him, he wastes enough energy and strength before he reaches his office to execute the labor of half the day.

The life of the average American is feverish, unhealthy and unnatural. We are in too great haste with everything and consequently lack poise. In the perpetual rush to "get there" we are in very great danger of losing our equilibrium.—Orison Swett Marden in Success.

PITH AND POINT.

It is easy to "make fun" of people.

We all promise more than we can perform.

Consider the other side. You may be unreasonable.

Don't forget that you are not as clever as you think you are.

Somehow the applause given at amateur entertainments sounds terribly like relief.

You know how selfish you are? Well, you can judge from yourself how selfish others are.

When a man says impressively and confidentially, "The facts are," etc., how often does he tell the facts?

When the baby keeps a man awake at nights, he "casually" mentions it to every one he meets on the way downtown.

If the pictures in the family album were taken as long as thirty years ago, looking through it is almost as interesting as seeing a different tribe of the human race.—Atchison Globe.

Girls With the Cab Habit.

One of the curiosities of New York city travel on Sunday afternoons is the number of young women riding in hansom cabs. Sometimes there are two in a cab, but more often they travel alone, and in almost every case they are the sort of young women to whom riding in vehicles of any kind is a novelty. Two of this type approached a cabman last Sunday and, after trying vainly to make a bargain with him, walked away with their noses high in the air.

"They're just another pair of would bes," said the cabman in disgust. "They're the kind that think riding in a hansom is the real thing, and they save up all week to blow themselves to a ride on Sunday. They always try to beat us down, and sometimes we let them do it—when business is bad."—New York Press.

Edible Birds' Nests.

Coron, a little island of the Philippines, is one of the chief sources from which come edible birds' nests. It has sheer walls of rock fronting the sea, in which are deep holes where a certain sea swallow builds its nest. The wild aborigines, Tagbanounas, collect the nests from the cliffs by means of long vine ropes, selling them to Chinese traders, who export them to their own country, where they are considered a great delicacy. The nests are three inches long and bring $12 (Mexican) for bunches of ten or twelve, according to size. The gum of which they are largely composed is a secretion from the salivary glands of the swallows.

A Good Time to Stop.

When you have said what you intended to say, stop; when you have written what you intended to write, stop. A practice of this habit will render many after dinner speakers tolerable and many literary persons readable. Verbosity is the ruin of much that might otherwise be endured patiently.—Schoolmaster.

All the Essentials.

"Do you think they'll be happy now they're married?"

"Well, I don't see why not. They eat the same kind of breakfast food, take the same brand of dyspepsia tablets and wear the same make of hygienic underwear."—Town Topics.

A Hard Life.

Mrs. Hatterson—I hope your boy's college life hasn't injured him physically.

Mrs. Catterson—In what way?

"Why, I heard he had been dropped several times."—Life.
