Blood

Keep your blood clean as you keep your body clean. You don't wait until your body is foul before you cleanse it.

It is a matter of surprise that many people who are so careful to have clean bodies make no effort to keep the blood clean. Everyone knows that uncleanness breeds disease; that those who do not keep their bodies in a wholesome condition and who dwell in filthy surroundings are the first to fall when some epidemic of disease sweeps the country. But foul blood is more dangerous to the individual than a foul body. An unclean body is rather a passive than an active hindrance to health. But unclean blood is an active threat against the very life—it makes the body a prepared breeding place for disease.

It is part of Nature's plan for human safety that in many cases where the blood is impure or corrupt she sets a sign on the body in proof of the corrupt current that is flowing through the veins. Scrofula with its disfiguring sores and scars, eczema with its irritation, salt-rheum, tetter, erysipelas, boils, pimples and other eruptions are only the outward signs of the impurity of the blood. But often in the earlier or simpler stages of the blood's impurity there are no outward signs of this condition; only dull, languid, sluggish feelings, which are commonly attributed solely to the sluggishness of the liver.

Of all preparations for purifying the blood Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery easily takes the first place. It eliminates from the blood the elements which clog and corrupt it, and which breed and feed disease. It acts directly on the blood-making glands, increasing their activity, and so increasing the supply of rich, pure blood which is the life of the body.

Accept no substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery." There is nothing "just as good" for diseases of the stomach, blood and lungs.

CAVALRY HORSES.

English Military Method of Training Them to Swim.

The most interesting and amusing of all the sights of Aldershot, England, is the big reservoir, or lake, where cavalry horses from all parts of the world are trained to swim with a thoroughness that rivals even the Italian system of horse training.

It is well known, by the way, that cavalry horses in the Italian army go through almost as much training as though they were intended for a circus, and the writer has often been amazed to see patrician Roman officers riding their fine chargers down steep flights of stone stairs and down especially constructed precipices which look as though they were especially invented to encompass the destruction of both horse and rider.

Again, the writer witnessed the astonishing army maneuvers of the Italian troops in the river Arno at Florence and also at Spezzia, the great naval arsenal of Italy. The Count of Turin was seen leading his regiment "out to sea," the prince often dismounting and himself swimming with one arm about his charger's neck.

The newly received horses at Aldershot, however, coming as they do mostly from inland regions, have a deep seated objection to the water, and as their riders are for the most part scantily clad indeed the struggles between tutor and "pupils" are ludicrous in the extreme. If it is found absolutely impossible to coax the animals into water deeper than their knees or girths collapsible boats are used and the refractory animal dragged by main force beyond his depth, when he has to swim for dear life.—H. G. Roberts in Harper's Weekly.

MONKEY FACED OWLS.

A Queer River Cliff Colony In Southern California.

On the banks of the Santa Ana river, in southern California, is a queer colony. It is situated in the cliffs which rise above the surface of the river and has a multitude of inhabitants. In passing along the river by daylight one would not imagine that the cliffs were inhabited, for the members of the colony are fast asleep in the chambers of the cliffs. But at dusk there is a change. At every one of the openings with which the cliffs are perforated appears a countenance so human-like in its expression that the beholder is apt to imagine that these must be the faces of the pixies and elves of whom he delighted to hear in his childhood days.

The tiny faces belong to a family having a name nearly as large as the individuals are small. It is the family of Strix pratincola, or monkey faced owl. So much do their faces resemble those of human features that they are often called the human faced owl. In the holes of the cliffs they pass their days and rear their young. At night they emerge in flocks and search the fields for mice, gophers and insects, upon which they live. This owl does not hoot as do most owls, but utters a low, chuckling whistle as it flies about in search of prey.

Farmers and fruit raisers in southern California are warm friends of the bird, for it destroys many of the pests which annoy them and injure their crops. The eggs of the little owl are white, and five or six form a litter.—Los Angeles Times.

Bill Nye's Cow.

Bill Nye, the humorist, once had a cow to sell and advertised her as follows:

"Owing to my ill health I will sell at my residence, in township 19, range 18, according to the government's survey, one plush raspberry cow, aged eight years. She is of undoubted courage and gives milk frequently. To a man who does not fear death in any form she would be a great boon. She is very much attached to her present home with a stay chain, but she will be sold to any one who will agree to treat her right. She is one-fourth Shorthorn and three-quarters hyena. I will also throw in a double barrel shotgun, which goes with her. In May she usually goes away for a week or two and returns with a tall red calf with wabbly legs. Her name is Rose. I would rather sell her to a nonresident."

The Hen Did Her Best.

A truthful farmer relates that he put a porcelain egg in the nest of a hen and found that the eggs she laid were of increased size. Then he put a goose egg in the nest. The hen laid an egg just as large. He was so pleased with the scheme that he put a whitewashed football in the nest. When he went the next time to search for eggs he found one as big as a football, but no hen in sight. Securing the egg, he saw engraved on it by hen photography these words, "I'm no ostrich, but I've done my best." Later he found the hen inside the egg.

She Gave Him the Hint.

Mother—I can't have that young man staying here so late at night. You must give him a hint of some kind. Daughter (in the evening)—I am very much afraid something will happen to you on the streets at night. You must be more careful of yourself and not be out so late. If anything should happen to you I'd—I'd die. (They are engaged.)

Marital Amenities.

Dragging Pains

2825 Keeley St.,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct,, 2, 1902.

I suffered with falling and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groins. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.

Mrs. Bush

Mrs. Bush is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down pains and blinding headaches when all other remedies failed to bring her relief. Any sufferer may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home. The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.

HOW WE CATCH A COLD

A cold is sometimes contracted while remaining enactive for a while in an uncomfortable room or a cold draft and by failing to sleep under like conditions. But most colds are caught while sleeping too cold at night. Deep sleep causes sluggish circulation which renders the system susceptable to change of temperature. To prevent colds, sleep under plenty of cover. To cure colds use Rydales Elixir, it lessens the severity and shortens the duration of a cold and prevents pneumonia Bronchitis and Consumption.

THANKSGIVING FANTASTICS

A Survival of the Guy Fawkes Day of Old England.

Those who are not satisfied unless everything is explained have puzzled not a little over the growing custom of celebrating Thanksgiving day by parades of curiously clad boys and girls, tooting horns and accosting passersby.

The theory most favored is that the custom is a survival of the English annual rejoicings over Guy Fawkes day. This is the explanation adopted by Professor Brander Matthews and other scholars.

Guy Fawkes lived in the last years of the sixteenth century and gained fame by being the best known member of a conspiracy which was formed to blow up the houses of parliament by firing nine barrels of gunpowder hidden in the cellars. When the plot was revealed by treachery the members of the plotting group were, in the pleasant manner of the day, hanged, drawn and quartered, Fawkes being the last to die.

Parliament then decreed that the 5th of November should ever after be kept as a day of thanksgiving, because it was on the 5th that the powder was to have been exploded.

It was the custom to build bonfires, to ring bells, to toot horns and especially to rig up a fantastic figure in gay rags and hang it as an effigy of Fawkes. This was paraded through the streets and consumed, after it had been hung up and well pelted, in the evening bonfire. In time the custom was added of selecting a party of young people to dress in ridiculous disguises to personate Fawkes, Rookwood, Winter and the other conspirators.

Fawkes day has almost died out of observance in England. It is curious that its customs should live in this country by the mere accident that two national holidays come at about the same time.

But, after all, it isn't necessary to have things explained. The boys parade on Thanksgiving day, as the girls do so many things, just "because."—New York World.

THANKSGIVING IN CAMP.

How the Army at Valley Forge Celebrated Burgoyne's Surrender.

The first national Thanksgiving day was authorized by congress for Thursday, Dec. 16, 1777, in view of the surrender of General Burgoyne. The manner in which the day was observed, aside from religious exercises, by the army at Valley Forge is thus described by an officer of Washington's army:

"Last Wednesday was set apart as a day of general rejoicing, when we had a feu de joie, conducted with the greatest order and regularity. The army made a most brilliant appearance, after which his excellency dined in public with all the officers of the army, attended by a band of music. I never was present where there was such unfeigned and perfect joy as was discovered in every countenance.

"The entertainment was concluded with a number of patriotic toasts attended with huzzas. When the general took his leave there was a universal clap, with loud huzzas, which continued till he had proceeded a quarter of a mile, during which time there were a thousand hats tossed in the air. His excellency turned around with his retinue and huzzaed several times."

Some intelligence offices encourage even the greenest girls to abandon general housework and try for the place of cook, parlor maid, etc., for it increases the fee, many offices basing this upon the amount of wages paid. This is one explanation of the decreasing number of general housework girls.

They are also responsible for some of the restlessness of employees. Girls are placed in positions and removed when they are needed for others. Some use employers as training schools. Green foreigners are sent, and when they have learned enough English and housework they are sent to others for higher wages, the office not neglecting to collect the extra fees.

Then they inform the long suffering employer that they understand her girl has left and that they can supply her need.—Atlantic Monthly.

His Portrait.

A tramp of some little respectability appeared at a gentleman's door asking alms. "Not today," said the interrogated one. "When may I call?" responded the tramp. "Why don't call at all. I know what you are. I saw your picture on a tin can at the grocery store at the corner." The applicant for a loan sauntered leisurely down to the place and stood viewing the goods in the widow. Soon his eye came upon a can of crustaceans from the Maine coast. Then the joke flashed on him. As he meandered away he mumbled to himself, "Well, that's the neatest way of calling a fellow a lobster that I've struck yet!"
