Weather Freezing Prices Thawing

BUT ANOTHER BLIZZARD PREDICTED

Come get a Suit, Overcoat, extra pair Trowsers, Couple Suits Underwear, or whatever you may need in winter stuff, either Men's, Boys' or Children's, all go in this bona fide Cut Price Sale, and if not in immediate need, it will pay you to lay aside for future use; for the prices we have pinned on will be an extra incentive.

By displaying a reliable attractive line of up-to-date merchandise we have demonstrated beyond question to a larger aggregation than ever before, our ability to sell them 15 to 20 per cent. less than can be had of city houses, and to those who think of the vast differences in expenses, being on an equal footing in purchasing, etc., this fact is plainly evident.

We Now Offer

you a chance at the Odds and Ends and if you get here early enough, there's a very good assortment. —But don't delay—as all winter merchandise, Men's Overcoats, Boys' and Children's Overcoats, Suits, Underwear, Gloves and all winter merchandise will now be cleaned up at our well known cut prices. That are cut prices. A few words to the wise on this score is sufficient.

MOODY & LUSBY,

This lad is about twelve years old and as a second "Peck's bad boy", having had a new home weekly. He is a "dandy" and should be sent to a place of reformation. His pranks and visits to Kent farmers have been remarkable.

COLLEGE LOCALS.

Examinations are over.

The inclement weather has kept many students digging.

Our steam heat plant works all right when the wind is asleep.

We are glad to announce that the examination record of Washington College shows that "West Hall" to be far in the lead of former years. West hall rooms will be at par next year.

The young men of Washington College, who are interested in dancing, will give a hop in Stam's Hall next Friday night from 8 to 11.

Miss Lolla Crew has been suffering severely the past week with a cold.

It is "hard for an empty sack to stand alone." The recent excommunication of Chestertown caused many empty sacks on the hill, but somehow hope held the sides out.

The literary societies have things in order for a good term's work. For the past week or two the programmes have been dispensed with, owing to examinations.

There is no wealth like health; there is no happiness like that which follows duty. Health and duty go hand in hand. Lean on the arm of industry and frugality and you will gain wealth, cling to the garments of your Christ and you will have happiness.

Any fool can make a wad, but to most it is like the gun-wad, made to shoot.

If early to bed and early rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise, what does late to bed and early to rise do? Makes the mind sluggish and the arm slow.

Baseball will soon be along. Strike three, you're out.

Is it wise to give to the church when you are in debt?

Is it wise to state emphatically what you think or intend to do?

Is there no way of helping the poor but to give them coin, clothes and bread?

There appears to my mind one thing evident:—Any young man who is desirous of a college education, any young man who wants to improve himself, any young man who has the right material hung to his bones, can get what he wants, if he looks the world squarely in the eye and keeps pegging away.

It is not wise to find fault, for to find fault means to judge others and if you are observant you will always find the thief's door bolted.

It is best to drive our own nails, to hold them while others drive, gives occasion for broken fingers.

You must be accommodating yet you must neither borrow nor lend, you must be frugal, yet you must not steal even your own happiness,

Little pigs like cream, shotes will take milk, hogs take all.

As birds and spiders, flowers and snakes, willows and briars feed upon the wandering brooks, so do blossoms and parasites feed from the meandering streams of most of our lives.

Mr. Brittingham, whose arm is getting near well, finds difficulty in maintaining equilibrum.

I wonder if Carnegie knows of Washington College. Remember it has the prayers of Father George. Oh! what would the dollars of Uncle Andrew do!

An Owl Story.—A remarkable instance of bird instinct and devotion is shown in the following incident: Mr. Henry Brown, of Quaker Neck, set some jump traps about his farm to catch prowlers, of whatever nature, that had been playing havoc with his flock of fowls. On Jan. 21st he found that one of the traps was missing. More than a week later, Mr. Bartus Trew, residing on the adjoining farm, noticed a large owl perched in an apple tree near his dwelling, and upon closer investigation discovered not one but two owls. One, a large horned owl, was dead, with the other hovering about it in evident distress and trying to shield and warm its mate. To one of the legs of the dead bird was hanging Mr. Brown's jump trap with chain attached.

Sales of Real Estate.—Dr. W. F. Hines has sold his "Lamb Farm," in Quaker Neck, to Mr. Thomas Maslin for $11,500. This farm contains 401 acres and was purchased by Dr. Hines in 1902 for $9,323.25. A part of the wood leaf has been sold to Mr. J. D. Bacchus for about $800.

Mr. Samuel E. Cooper has purchased of Mr. Thomas P. Bradley four small tenement houses in Lynchburg for $850. He has since sold to the Misses Wilkens a double dwelling for $500.

Mr. C. L. Turner, of Millington, has purchased the mill property situate between Millington and Golt's including 60 acres of land.

Cyrus P. Oears, proprietor of the Smyrna House, has bought another nice farm. Last week he purchased the farm belonging to the Thomas Cavender estate known as the "Wilson T. Cavender Farm" for $11,000. The farm is situated about a mile and ahalf from Smyrna, between Smyrna and and Brenford, and contains 196 acres under high cultivation. The farm is now tenanted by Mr. William Raisner who will doubtless be retained. Mr. Gears it is understood will convert it into a fruit farm and with the "Massey Farm" which he purchased last year will have two of the best paying and most prolific farms in this vicinity.—Smyrna Times.

He says he does not know what indigestion is, and has frequently eaten four dozen of eggs at one time. Once he ate the greater part of a large roasted turkey.
