E. S. Valiant & Son, of Church Hill, March of last year.

TURTLE DELAYED WEDDING.

Caught With Engagement Ring, the Loss of Which Had Engaged Jealous Lover.

Cupid is a theosophist, and forty years ago his soul transmigrated to the astral shell of a turtle. If you don't believe it ask Miss Freda Olmstead and John Martin, who were married in Augusta last Saturday night, and they will attest to the following true tale:

Martin had been educated in the universities of Berlin, and when he came to this country in 1865 he was employed as a constructing engineer on the Grand Trunk Railroad. Miss Olmstead was a belle of the town, and fell in love with the handsome young engineer. A beautiful diamond ring pledged their betrothal, and Martin left on a fortnight's tour of inspection.

An Unfortunate Boat Ride.

In his absence Miss Olmstead accepted an invitation for a boat ride on a little lake near Augusta. A turtle swam near the boat and Miss Olmstead caught it. She called attention to the diamond markings on its shell, and this suggested that she slip her diamond ring over its mottled neck. The next instant it flopped out of her hand into the lake and sank.

On Martin's return he was told of the boat ride and of the loss of the engagement ring. His jealously was aroused, and, breaking his betrothal, he sailed back to Germany. All Augusta heard of the tale, and always remembered it.

Sent Word To Lover.

A party fishing on the lake this spring captured a turtle, and encircling its neck was a diamond ring. It was taken to Miss Olmstead, and she identified the jewel which was lost forty years ago. She learned that Martin had never married, and immediately communicated to him news of the recovery of the ring.

He took the first steamer to this country, again placed the diamond on his sweetheart's finger, and they were married. The honeymoon will be a trip to Germany, where Martin will settle his business interests and return with his bride to this country.
