BOYS AND CIGARETTES.

A competent investigator, Dr. Shaw, Indianapolis, has found out that of the boy pupils of nine grammar schools in Providence 90 per cent smoke cigarettes. He says also as one speaking with authority, backed up by personal examination, that other schools elsewhere are about as bad, and that the habit has laid an appalling hold on American youth beyond anything which the public at large has dreamed of. The small percentage exempts found by Dr. Shaw not only in Providence, but in other places, is hardly enough to stand against the practical universality of the habit, so far as our tremendous army of schoolboys is concerned, at least in the cities and larger towns, where such a habit has a chance of escaping the attention it would infallibly receive in the schools of smaller communities. The boys of a county district could not all come home smelling of tobacco without some domestic inquisition into the causes of the phenomenon and a due and unhesitating district agitation thereon to the extent, if necessary, of up the schoolhouse and all the rural tobacco joints and quarantining the boys, birched to a proper mood of penitence, under their respective trundle beds.

The situation is one which seems to challenge public attention and invite some form of correction, though how it is to be applied presents the serious difficulty which Indiana in her robust pioneer efforts against it has already discovered. It has not there been found that severe and radical legislation on the subject, going as far as to forbid the admission of cigarettes into the commonwealth or their exposition for sale therein or use in any way, has produced the deterrent effects expected of it. The crusade embarked on with such superheated zeal has in reality left the tobacco question there very much as it was, those, young and old, who wish to smoke the weed en papillotte finding no difficulty in obtaining it. If corrective efforts in this direction are to have any value, it would appear that they must proceed along different lines from those which Indiana has marked out for them. What these ought to be nobody as yet seems to know, except a lot of antitobacco enthusiasts, and these only think they know. Publicity is the best thing to be thought of for a beginning, and from this point of view the efforts of Dr. Shaw, and perhaps others like him, are what the situation most urgently requires. If so large a proportion of American schoolboys are secretly saturating their tender systems with the essence of that poisoned preparation of tobacco which the cigarette makers are alleged to use, the sooner the public knows all there is to be known about it, that the rational and not the hysterical remedy may be thought out and applied, the better.—New York Times

Burglar Got The "Dough."—Tammany workers in the Tenth Assembly district gnashed their teeth Tuesday when they learned that a burglar had entered the home of their leader, Julius Harburger, during the night and carried off his share of Chief Murphy's "dough"—$900—with which they were to be paid this morning.

Mr. Harburger intended to pay off the workers last night, but becoming occupied with political matters he considers of greater importance, postponed the distribut on until today.

About 2 o'clock Harburger's son Benjamin awakened his father with a cry of "There is somebody in the house!" "Oh, I guess not," said the elder Harburger, with a wide yawn, taking a fresh grip on his morning's nap.

At 5 o'clock he reached for his watch and found the timepiece missing. Feverish search of his trousers disclosed a painful vacancy where last night had been a bulge caused by the thick package of money received from Tammany.

GOVERNOR MICKEY

Appoints Nobody To Office Who Swears Or Drinks.

Office-seekers who indulge in "big, big D's." or who "look upon the wine when it is red," or any other color, might as well keep away from the Executive office at Lincoln, Nebraska, for, says Leslie's Weekley, Governor John H. Mickey has announced his determination not to appoint any man to office in the future who drinks or swears In taking this stand Governor Mickey is acting in entire consistency with his own profession and practice. He is of Methodist parentage and training, and himself has been for years an active and prominent member of that church. He has frequently made large gifts to the various enterprises of his denomination, and his beneficence has been largely responsible for the creation and prosperity of the Nebraska Wesleyan University, in the suburbs of Lincoln, where 1000 students attend. When he was elected Governor for his first term he revoked the arrangements for the inaugural ball at the State Capital.

He said simply that he could not consistently maintain his standing in the Methodist Church if he c untenanced such an affair. At his second inaugural nothing of the kind was attempted. In a recent interview Governor Mickey said: "As Governor I am doing what I can to run the affairs of the State the same as if they were my own private business. I have never knowingly employed a man, either on my farm or in my bank, whom I knew to drink or swear. I made it a rule to engage only those of good moral habits, and I don't consider that any person can claim to possess good morals if he drinks or swears."

A Texas girl advertised for a husband and got him. The total expense for advertising, wedding outfit, etc., was $11. Within a year he died, leaving her an insurance policy for $10,000. And yet some people say it doesn't pay to advertise.
