Horse Health

Depends Upon the Animal's Ability to Resist Disease

The food given your horse during the winter is difficult to digest because the "Curing" process has robbed it of the digestive elements contained in the natural saps and juices.

This taxes the animal's digestive organs to utmost and makes necessary an increased expenditure of vital energy.

The digestive organs become over-worked, the Vitality lowered, and the blood filled with poisonous wastes resulting from undigested and fermenting food-stuff.

LOWERED VITALITY

lessens your animal's ability to resist disease, and the poisons slowly accumulating in the blood make DISEASE CERTAIN unless proper precautions are taken. An extra cold night, a draft in the stable or exposure to inclement weather, while the horse is in this condition (and 99 horses out of every 100 ARE at this season) and the animal has a "Cold"—which may develop into PNEUMONIA or INFLAMATION OF THE LUNGS and END IN DEATH.

Don't wait until this occurs. Keep the Vital energy of your horse at top notch and insure him against all forms of disease by the regular use of

GRANGE NOTES

Shall We Advise Our Daughters to Become Farmers' Wives And Why?

The following paper was read at Sassafras Grange:

In the first place it seems little use to advise on this subject, for when that time comes the daughters usually do as they please.

A girl needs a good background as much as a picture needs a frame. Her parents must not seem pushing, nor overdue matters by continually sounding her praises. Men do not enjoy being pursued; they should be the pursuers. But every girl whether she is attractive or not, needs the back-ground of a pleasant home. To me there is no life on earth that is as attractive and independent as farm life; it is there we are brought close to nature's heart—and thereby made to realize more fully the wonderful working of God.

No doubt city people riding on a railroad train through a farming community and seeing the isolated farm buildings, at once draw for themselves mental pictures of the shut-inness of agriculture life. They do not know that each farmstead is in itself a little independent community, depending far less upon the world outside than the more helpless townspeople. The farmer's wife and children, the tenants on the place, and the cousins and uncles and aunts, who seem to be more numerous in the county than elsewhere, make up a circle at once sympathetic and congenial.

There is also the teeming life of the farm with its variety of interests—the horses, the cows, the sheep, and even the poultry offer a companionship that is not to be lightly esteemed.

We know there are circumstances and conditions that make farm-life a drudgery—first, the question of help is the most serious, second, the thoughtlessness of our forefathers in planning the homes; they had little thought for conveniences for the housekeeper. Today where we have city conveniences in country homes woman's work is not such a drudgery. May the day soon come when we shall see every farm home in the land fitted out in the most modern conveniences that science can give them, such as telephones, bathrooms, electric lights, hot and cold water in the kitchen and an electric button which we can touch and have the dishes washed.

With these conveniences there is yet the most important thing to be considered, and that is that the sons who expect to marry the daughters should not neglect one very important part of their education (and by the way I notice that our brothers have not merited that branch) that of domestic science. It is right that men should have some knowledge of cooking and housework, for today help is so inferior that times might come when it would be necessary for them to lend a helping hand, and then they would be able to do so more gracefully. Whether happiness comes by way of marriage or through the single life, we owe it to our children that each should have his or her chance. To have brought our children into the world is not enough, our debt to them is a large one; and if we expect love, respect and obedience from them, we must do our part to deserve it.

Let our daughters make their own choice whether a farmer, a doctor or a lawyer, so he is worthy of them. I was left to make my choice and married a farmer, and at no time of my married life have I ever regretted it.

Board of Stewards Resolutions.

At a special meeting of the Board of Stewards of Christ Methodist Protestant Church of Chestertown, Md., held in the church January 10th, 1910, the following committee was appointed to draft suitable resolutions relative to the death of the late Wm. B. Usilton. The following preamble and resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God, our All-wise Heavenly Father, to remove from our midst our late beloved brother, William Barger Usilton, on Jan. 5th, 1910, and

WHEREAS, We the surviving members of said Board of Stewards desire to bear testimony of his sterling worth, his upright life, unquestioned integrity, spotless business career of many years and his unfaltering loyalty and devotion to God, our Heavenly Father, to the church he loved so well, and the Sunday School which he guided and directed for the past forty years so successfull, as also his strict attention to the business affairs of the church as a member of the Board of Stewards for the same period, also as co-members we shared in his wisdom and amiable peace making qualities in our church affairs. Therefore, be it

Resolved:—That we, the surviving members of the Board of Stewards, at the sad news of the death of our esteemed Brother—WILLIAM BARGER USILTON, express our profound grief and sincere regret and tender to his family our heart-felt sympathy, and trust that the same Providence which in His inscrutable wisdom has removed from our midst, our loved and honored brother colleague and friend, may comfort them and us in our ir-reparable loss and bereavement. And be it further

Resolved:—That a copy of these resolutions be sent the family of our late faithful and valued brother, also to be spread upon the records of the church and published in the county papers.

What To Do With the Holiday Books

Just now this is a leading question in many thousand American homes.

How can all the new books, with their attractive bindings, be displayed to the best advantage, arranged and classified so as to always be accessible.

Now is the most propitious moment of the entire year to settle this question for all time to come by procuring GLOBE-WERNICKE "Elastic" Book Cases which are graded as to height to fit the books of any library, and in lengths to fit most any room.

Made in dull and polish finish, quartered oak and mahogany—with plain, leaded and plate glass doors—controlled by the only patent equalizer that absolutely prevents binding.

Three different styles are described in the catalogue—Standard, Mission and Ideal—each one a distinctive type.

We carry the goods in stock and sell at catalogue prices
