DIGGES' NEGRO BILL.

It is certainly strange that such men as Pinkney Whyte, John P. Poe, Arthur P. Gorman and others did not adopt just such a measure as the Digges Bill, as the negro was a greater menace some years ago than now under the Wilson ballot law. However, when United States Senator Rayner gives his opinion that it will stand the test, the Democrats have an able defense. Governor Crothers puts the matter very clearly as follows :

"The Digges bills will present the question of negro franchise squarely and honestiy to the white people of the State. It will not be complicated at the election with any question about foreigners or illiterate whites. Under this law there will be no excitement. It is an orderly and legal method of testing the Fifteenth Amendment. The State officials who will be elected under the Digges law will hold their respective offices until their successors qualify and the State government will go in an orderly and legal manner, even if the Supreme Court should decide the law to be invalid. The State will bow in quiet submission to the decision of the court, and, if that decision is adverse to the State, we will be just where we are now and no worse off. There is no occasion for excitement. The negroes will vote this fall and at every congressional election, and I believe they will be satisfied here as they have been elsewhere, and that the law will result to their advantage as well as to the advantage of the white population."

MOODY & LUSBY request us to state in this issue that their spring lines are now complete and ready for inspection. Call on them early while the assortment is complete and get first selections.

FRUIT TREES IN FULL BLOOM.

Peach Growers Not at all Comfortable Over The Present Conditions.

March, 1910, will go on record as the warmest March, as a whole, ever known. Wednesday was an ideal spring day, the thermometer registering 76 in the shade. The warm days of the past week has brought forth bloom—peaches, apples, pear, plum and strawberries being, it is said, in danger of the April frosts and freezing weather. Many varieties of the peach are in full bloom, and some of our largest growers are not feeling at all comfortable over the situation. Messrs. J. S. and Carson Harris who have many thousand peach trees in bloom fear a freeze. It is said the largest peach crop for many years came in full bloom on the 5th of April, several years ago. The cold of Thursday scared many fruit men. Peas planted ten days ago are coming up in all sections, some standing two inches high already. Mr. C. G. Hadaway thinks the yellows will soon put an end to the peach worry as trees are dying rapidly with this disease.

SURPRISE PARTY.

DIDN'T WRITE IT.

April 2nd, 1910.

THE EDITORS OF THE KENT NEWS :

GENTLEMEN :—Dr. J. Horton Kelly states in a letter to the NEWS on Saturday last that I was either misinformed or had misrepresented facts in a letter written by me about the new county Road Law, in the Chestertown Transcript on March 26th. There was no letter in the Transcript written by me in reference to the Road Bill. I assume Dr. Kelley refers to the letter signed by a "Democrat" dated March 20th, 1910 and published in the Transcript of March 26th. I did not write that letter nor did I have any more to do with the writing of it, or of any other article of any character published in the Transcript, than did you.

It will be idle to try and contradict wild statements made about me by Dr. Kelley or by any one else. But when writers, who make mis-statements, have the courage to do so, over their signatures, as did Dr. Kelley, they will be replied to by me.

I assume he presumed I wrote it and he therefore made the mis-statement.

Will you please give this letter equal publicity to that which you gave Dr. Kelley's in order that the readers of the NEWS may know how groundless his statements were ?

When I desire to discuss the new Road Law, I shall do so over my signature. Do not understand that I do not approve of the views expressed in the letter in the Transcript.

Very respectfully yours,
HOPE H. BARROLL.
