Plenty of Applicants.—The advertisement of a cook wanted in last week's NEWS met with a hearty response and one insertion was sufficient. We cull the following from Jane Smith, Millington: "Saw your adv. in the NEWS of July 9, 1910, and would like to apply for the position. I think you would find me thoroughly satisfactory, honest and reliable. I consider myself experienced in all branches of cooking. Have been looking for such a position for some time and am sure that I am the one that you are looking for. You failed to state in your adv. when you paid the salary. Would say that my price is ten per week, and I consider that very reasonable. Should expect my wages every Saturday at noon."
