The steamer Gov. Wolcott, Capt. William W. Verdon, is advertised to leave Baltimore every Thursday morning at 9 o'clock for Chestertown via Rock Hall and Corsica Wharf. Returning will leave Chestertown every Friday morning at 8 o'clock for Baltimore. The Wolcott is calculated for freight which will be taken on moderate terms.

The steamer Maryland is noted to leave Baltimore every Monday at 6 o'clock for Chestertown, calling at the Company's wharf on Corsica creek ; and returning from Chestertown to Baltimore the same day calling at the wharf on Corsica creek. Lemuel G. Taylor, commander.

REMEMBER THE WIDOW—Mrs. Morgan, residing in the house lately occupied by Mr. George Watts, (upper end of Chestertown) informs the citizens of town and country, that she takes in, and executes in the best manner and on reasonable terms, sewing, knitting, dying, etc. Straw hats and leghorn bonnets, as well as other articles of clothing, will be colored and neatly and with dispatch. She will take country produce for work. A portion of public patronage is respectfully solicited.

NOTICE.—The subscriber begs leave to inform his friends and the public generally, that he has commenced keeping a house of public entertainment in Chestertown, the one formerly occupied by Edward Browne, Esq., near the market house. Without making any promises, he respectfully solicits the company of his friends, acquaintances and strangers, and flatters himself that he will be able to entertain those who may favour him with their patronage, in such a manner (bills moderate) as shall induce them to call again whenever occasion may require.—THOMAS H. BOYER.

HARD WINTER, SAY MUSKRATS

Muskrat trappers made a statement that caused chills to run down the backs of spectators who love the good old summertime and that alone.

"This will be one of the most severe winters in recent years," said the trappers, who are engaging in business on a large scale because of the demand for all kinds of fur-bearing animals made more insistent by the increasing use of automobile togs.

"There is one infallible way to tell. The muskrat, like the beaver, is a cunning aquatic animal, possessed of superior foresight and when a winter of unusual length and severity is approaching, he builds his house with unexcelled skill. He builds it high and dry. Reeds, cat-tails, grass of the lands and marshes, and then a sealing of mud and clay are all used by the wise little builders until cold air and raindrops are effectually barred. Then he makes his house high, so he can go in and keep above the rising tides. When a mild winter approaches, the muskrats spend very little time on house construction and build small houses. This year, however they are high and large, and can and do accomodate at least twenty muskrats," explained one of the experienced trappers.

Muskrat men are stepping high and an army of men now follow the business of trapping, as the muskrat furs or pelts for years worth only twenty to thirty-five cents, are now in great demand at eighty. Some of Kent's trappers have even received quotations and requests from England and Russia.

Now is the time for the farmers to look after the partridges. With the deep snow it is difficult for them to find food, and a little grain scattered where they can reach it, will save many of their lives and do much good. To kill any game when the snow covers the ground, either by neglectiug or shooting it, is not only unsportsman-like, but cruel. Feed the birds now, and they will repay you next year by destroying worms and bugs.

THE Pennsylvania Railroad Company Delaware Division, is setting out some 15,000 young pine and oak trees along their property, and have some fifteen men employed in the work at the gravel pit and other property a short distance south of town. Mr. E. R. Marker, one of our hustling farmers, who has finished his farm work, has accepted the position of foreman of the gang and is pushing the work rapidly. The trees are secured from distant points, and the appearance to the eye of travelers passing up and down the road will be a most attractive and pleasing one. Besides, in years to come the timber thus secured will prove most valuable in their construction work.—Middletown Era.
