Other outfits, with floats, etc., bring the investments up to $100,000, on which there is usually a period of about six weeks to make a profit, contingent on the run of fish for the season.

M. P. CONFERENCE.

The closing session of the Methodist Protestant Conference at Federalsburg was attended by large crowds, two churches being necessary to accommodate the crowd. While there were no changes in the larger and more important pastorates, the total number amounted to 32.

There were five changes in Baltimore pastorates—Rev. C. P. Newlin goes to Hampden, Rev. C. C. Day to Patapsco, Rev. A. W. Ewell to Lauraville, Rev. W. E. Grove to Waverly, Rev. Ronald Taylor to Wilton Heights, Rev. J. W. Brown to Evergreen and Rev. W. F. Wright to Violetville.

The other changes are:

Alexandria—S. W. Rosenberger.
Harrington—J. M. Holmes.
Cecil—C. M. Zepp.
Clayton—E. H. Jones.
Union, Wicomico—W. N. Sherwood.
Felton—F. L. Stevens.
Georgetown, Del—C. E. McCulloh.
Greenwood—G. H. Stocksdale.
Kent Island—F. S. Cain.
Lausonia—B. A. Bryan.
Leeds—J. F. Wooden.
Liberty—J. W. Farris.
Lisbon—C. K. McCasiln.
Mariners—N. C. Clough.
New Church—G R. Hodges.
Queen Anne—F. L. Rice.
Sharptown—G. A. Ogg.
Waltersville—E. S. Fooks.
Warwick—G. J. Hill.

No changes in Kent county so that nearly everyone in these charges are pleased.

Following Dr. Lewis' talk on "Church Union," a set of resolutions stating the exact position of the members of the conference regarding the amalgamation were drawn up and signed by 116 of the delegates and will be presented to Dr. Lewis, who is one of the Methodist Protestant Commissioners. The delegates are willing to favor church union, but state in the resolution certain principles which they insist must not be given up by the Methodist Protestants, as follows:

1. The right of the local church to elect its own officiary.
2. A form of appeal from the stationary authority of the annual conference.
3. The idea of democracy which makes an efficient representative government and the officers of the organization elective.

Rev. Mr. Maloy in speaking of the Union said he would have to be operated on for religious appendicitis and that he was most too old to stand it. He created quite a great deal of amusement and interest.

The election of a meeting place was quite spirited. Laurel, Lynchburg, Va. and Rhode Island Avenue Church, Washington, were the contestants. As both Laurel and Lynchburg stated they had not had a conference there for a number of years, while it had met at Rhode Island church four years ago, that church did not press its request.

The Laurel contingent was greatly augmented by the arrival of a delegation from that city, which came determined to get the conference. The voting resulted: Laurel, 80; Lynchburg, 46, and Rhode Island Church, 43. Rev. Avery Donovan is pastor of the Laurel church.
