FOUND GIRL AT ROCK HALL.

Word was received Sunday from Rock Hall, by Mrs. Fannie Davis, mother of Miss Bertha Davis, 16 years old, who has been missing since Thursday week from her home, 504 South Broadway, Baltimore, that she was in Rock Hall visiting Miss Pauline Asher, an intimate friend of the family.

The girl left her home saying that she was going to the Eastern High School to take an examination, and this was the last heard from her until Sunday. At the school it was said that she had not been there and that her name was not on the list of those who were to take the test.

Every means known to the mother of the girl was followed out trying to find the daughter. The police were appealed to and they visited all the hospitals in the city in an effort to find some trace of her.

Several times an attempt was made to reach Rock Hall by telegraph, but this was unsuccessful. The first message received over the telephone said a girl about the age of the missing one had been seen getting off the boat, but that it was not known where she had gone. Seeing that the mother was fast weakening from the strain of worry, the girl's brother called Rock Hall again yesterday and received the news that his sister was there. Mrs. Davis endeavored to go to Rock Hall, but was unable to do so.

"For several weeks," said the mother, "I had been promising Bertha that I would let her go to Rock Hall to visit Miss Asher, but I kept putting her off. I suppose she got it into her head to go and left without saying a word about it."

Mrs. Davis left on the boat Monday afternoon for Miss Asher's home, but she says she will not bring her daughter to the city unless she wants to come. If she prefers to remain longer she will allow her to do so.

JUMP IN PRICE OF SUGAR.

An extraordinary jump in the price of refined sugar was announced this week by the American Sugar Refining Company and Arbuckles Bros., the largest distributers in the country. The American advanced its price 10 points to $6.70 a hundred, while the Arbuckle raise is 25 points to 7 cents a pound.

Dealers in staples anticipate further increase in price, and it is reported that retailers are preparing to raise their prices to 8 cents a pound early next week.

No reason for the sudden boosting of the price is given beyond the general statement that the crop of raw material looks as though it would be short.

The raw crops will not arrive in the market until the close of the year, and from well-informed circles came the information that the price has been raised simply in speculative anticipation of a crop slightly below last year's figures.

SERUM FOR HOGS; 50,000 VACCINATED

Treatment of Healthy Herds in Infected Localities Loss Was 2.25 Per cent.

Owing to the fact that Kent county hog raisers have suffered greatly from hog cholera we print the following:

Anti-hog cholera serum has been produced by the Purdue Indiana Experiment Station for the past three years. About 50,000 hogs have been vaccinated and treated. The results have been highly satisfactory, says H. H. Madaus, assistant in veterinary laboratory in a bulletin issued August 22. Reports sent to this station by farmers who have used serum on their hogs show that the average loss in the infected herds treated was 9.5 per cent., and following the vaccination of the healthy herds in these infected localities, 2.25 per cent.

In neighborhoods where hog cholera infection is present, all herds in the near vicinity or on adjoining farms to cholera herds should be vaccinated. This precaution, if taken, would prevent the spread of the disease and result in the saving of the exposed herds. Anti-hog cholera serum is chiefly a preventive agent. Because of the losses that sometimes occur in the badly infected herds that are treated and the large doses required, we furnish serum for the treatment of such herds.

As practically all of the vaccination work is done in cholera infected localities and exposed herds, it is very necessary to determine whether the exposed hogs are infected before giving them virulent cholera blood. In hog cholera, the animal is feverish several days before it stops eating or manifests marked symptoms of the disease. For this reason the body temperatures of all hogs should be taken before injecting the virulent blood. If the animal has a body temperature of 104 degrees or more, serum alone in an increased dose should be used. Virulent blood should not be given when fever is present, whether it be from hog cholera or any other cause. Failure to practice the above precaution has resulted in heavy loss in a number of herds where serum has been used.

The most desirable size at which to vaccinate hogs is when they weigh from 40 to 60 pounds. At this size the dose of serum is comparatively small and the young hogs can be easily handled and rendered permanently immune. In infected localities it is sometimes necessary to vaccinate small pigs. This is frequently practiced, but it may be necessary to re-vaccinate them within a few months as the immunity is not permanent.

It is essential that the herd be given good care during and after vaccination and treatment. Hypodermic syringes appropriate for the work should be carefully cleaned and disinfected before using. The inner sides of the thighs where the injections are made should be washed and disinfected. After vaccination the hogs should be kept out of dirty pens, manure piles and muddy wallows, in order to prevent infection of the small wound made by the hypodermic needle. The herd should be given clean, dry pens, free from dust and well bedded, and fed a light ration for a few days following vaccination. When the abscesses form, they should receive the necessary treatment. Badly infected herds should not be treated with serum. If the infection is recent, serum may be used, but in addition the herd should receive proper treatment and care.

It is impossible for this station tc produce sufficient serum to fill the orders received. Requisition blanks are furnished the veterinarians, and orders for serum are made through them. It is necessary to charge for the serum and virulent blood, as this line of work receives no state support. The average cost of vaccinating hogs has been about 60 cents per head.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.
