SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1911.

THE thermometer registered 22° Monday and great suffering is reported all over the country. This record exceeds all others in history of weather bureau.

EDGAR ALLAN POE, it seems, still knows how to run around the end and avoid fatal tackle. His football training at Princeton stood him in good stead at this election. In fact while the Republicans were engaged in "bucking the centre" both Poe and Harrington skirted the ends for touchdowns.— Cecil Democrat.

THE authorities in Baltimore have begun to try to "sweeten" the harbor. The stench which greets visitors to Baltimore during the summer is enough to drive them away post haste. It is a disgrace and a menace to good health If it was an individual such a nuisance would not be permitted for a day !

ONE of the most prominent and intelligent Republicans in Chestertown says its a pity that such efficient officials as Police Justice J. Cordray Loud and Justice A. S. Crawford cannot be continued in office. They have made good records.

ALL the talk of a contest is simply the frothing of disappointed office-seekers. Senator Gorman is not encouraging it and says if a contest is made some other than himself will bring it. We think it about time that the Democratic leaders were playing bigger and broader politics than heretofore. Every pledge made by the party in the last campaign should be fulfilled both in spirit and letter.

It is proposed to build a road of clay-sand (as in Georgia) in Cecil county and fill it with oyster shells and cover with good gravel. This road can be built for less than $3,000 per mile. The movement is being started by the United States Road Commission. It is suggested that Kent's Engineer get in touch with these gentlemen.

A SPLENDID GIFT TO CHESTERTOWN

One of Chestertown's citizens has presented to the town through President Thomas D. France, of the Chestertown Volunteer Fire Company, a fine Ajax Chemical Fire Engine. This is something the town has long needed and the gift will be very highly appreciated. The donor of the engine does not wish his name to be made known just yet. The engine will be here in a few days and will be given a try out by the fire company.

AN IMPORTANT CONFERENCE

A conference of Democratic leaders will be held in Baltimore next week, at which some important matters will be discussed. At the conference the first question to come up will be the proposition of taking from Governor-elect Goldsborough the power to name election supervisors and boards of education in the counties by passing a measure which will place this power within the hands of commissions to be named by the Governor. As Governor Crothers would be in office when this were passed he would name the commissions, and they would continue in office for as many years as the Legislature saw fit.

It is believed that this would meet the approval of Governor Crothers, for the reason that he would demand a bill so framed that it would take the appointments of Election Supervisors and Boards of Education out of politics, comparatively, and in this way practically insure their permanent removal from that influence. Some who will attend the conference are of the opinion that if the Legislature now removes these appointments from political influences it would hesitate to repeal in the future the bill, which may be passed this fall. In this way, some advocates of the plan say, permanent public good would result.

Next in importance, and probably to the public the most important point to be discussed, will be whether or not the Democrats should repeal the Wilson ballot law or whether the measure should be applied to the entire State

Some at the conference will probably urge a political necessity of wiping the Wilson law off the books. They will say that when this is done the only campaign argument of the Republicans is exterminated, and then the issue of negro domination will be a right, true and proper one for the Democrats to raise to attract white men to the party.

That the conference will favor the repeal of the Wilson law is extremely doubtful, but advocates of the plan of cutting the tricks out of the Wilson law and applying it to the whole State are more hopeful of success, and it is generally believed it would meet the approval of those with deciding voices in the conference.

By the passage of this law, its advocates claim, the ballot in Maryland elections would be in itself a test of the educational qualities of each voter, and, being fairly made up, would be by that same token a fair test. It is understood that some of those who will attend the conference will vigorously urge this law.

ALBERT CONSTABLE, of Cecil county, whose friends desire to have him succeed Judge Pearce next year, are much gratified at the splendid run he made in the recent election, when he was re-elected State's Attorney. He received a majority of 585 votes, when his running mates were either defeated or barely escaped defeat.—Easton Ledger.

ELECTION OF JUDGE PEARCE'S SUCCESSOR.

In view of the fact that the term of the Hon. James Alfred Pearce as chief Judge of the Second Judicial Circuit will soon end, there has been some discussion as to when his successor is to be elected, and some have expressed the view that Judge Pearce's successor would not be elected at the November election in 1912, but would be appointed by the Governor at the expiration of Judge Pearce's term in the fall of that year. This view has probably grown out of the fact that Judges Bovd and Briscoe were both appointed by the governor at the end of their respective terms to serve until the generat election following their appointment. But the important fact has been overlooded that the terms of these judges and of others appointed under similar circumstances did not expire at the end of one of the regular fifteen year periods, counting from the date of the Constitution of 1867.

Section 5 of Article 4 of the Constitution, as it originally stood, provided for the appointment by the Governor of the successors of all judges to serve until the general election following such appointments. But the section was amended by Act of the Legislature of 1880, which was ratified in 1881. The amended section provides that there shall be an election of Judges (of course where there happen to be vacancies) every fifteen years from the date of the Constitution. Under this provision, Judges Robinson, Wickes and Stump in this Circuit, and Judges Alvey and Miller, and probably others in the Western Shore circuits, were re-elected in 1882 (not a general election) and at the same time a number of Judges in Baltimore City were also elected. It cannot be doubted that if Judges Brown and Martin, who were elected with Judge Pearce in 1897, had lived out their term, the successors of all three Judges would be elected in 1912, just as Judges Robinson, Wickes and Stump were elected in 1882, and the fact that Judge Pearce alone survives can make no difference in principle.

Judge Pearce was not elected to fill a vacancy as his election took place at what would have been the end of Judge Robinson's term had he lived so long, and was therefore for no part of that term. Consequently, the latter part of the amended section 5 does not apply to this case.

To hold otherwise would make the amendment of none effect. It was clearly the intention of the people of the State to avoid too great frequency of election of judges at times other than general elections; and so it was provided that when any term should expire or vacancies occur, except at the end of regular fifteen year periods counting from the date of the Constitution, judges should be appointed to hold office until the following general election. But it was equally the intention of the people in adopting this amendment that there should be certain regular periods for the election of judges, if any terms were then expiring, and these periods were fixed at intervals of fifteen years, reckoning from the date of the Constitution; and, so according to both the letter and the spirit of that amendment, as the expiration of Judge Pearce's term occurs at one of these regular intervals, his successor should be nominated and elected without an intervening appointment.

We, in common with all the people of the Circuit and State, contemplate with sincere regret the loss of Judge Pearce from the Bench, and it is with reluctance that we speak of a successor. We refer to the matter only because we deem it important that there shall be no misunderstanding as to the manner of choosing his successor.

THE LOCAL OPTION QUESTION.

It would seem that from the returns the State-wide local option bill will have but little opposition in the coming session of Legislature. It should have the support of Kent's delegates. There is to-day in Maryland no more sincere teetotaler than Governor Crothers. Not since the governor of Maryland was given a residence has there been an executive it is said who wholly abolished liquor from the sideboard and dinner table until Governor Crothers took charge of the executive mansion. He is a total abstainer himself. He is more. He will not permit the presence of liquor in the executive mansion. He gave a dinner last fall to newspaper correspondents in Baltimore Mineral waters only were served. Not satisfied with excluding liquors and wines from his own table, the governor insists that thev be excluded from the tables of state institutions. In the future no champagne will be served at dinners to directors of the penitentiary, house of correction, Springfield and Spring Grove Asylums, and of other institutions. Champagne has been served regularly at dinners at these institutions when the directors held their monthly meetings. Governor Crothers believes that men who imbibe wine are not best qualified to manage the affairs of institutions in which are confined the unfortunate insane and criminals. He believes, too, that the money expended for these expensive dinners could be diverted to better care of the insane and of prisoners. The governor declares that he will not recede from his determination to shut off champagne at dinners of directors of these public institutions.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

Beautiful faces are they that wear
The light of a pleasant spirit there.
Beautiful hands are they that do
Deeds that are noble, good and true;
Beautiful feet are they that go
Swiftly to lighten another's woe.

It becomes our sad duty to record the death of Mrs. Joseph R. Lambert, known to us all as Miss Mae Cannon, who passed away at the home of her mother on High street, Chestertown, Wednesday morning, about 9 o'clock. The deceased was taken ill with fever at her home at the Imperial Hotel and upon advice of her physician was removed to her mother's. For eleven weeks she has been ill, during all of which time she has had the faithful and patient attention of physician, loving mother, husband, sisters, brothers, nurse and friends. All that human minds could think to do was done, but the Death Angel claimed her for his own. Her life has been one bright, sunshiny day, as far as her friends could see, and many a sad heart has been cheered by her genial laughter. She has been faithful in every walk of life. For a number of years she was cashier in C. S. Smith's big store, afterward taking a position in Baltimore, in both places winning the esteem and high regard of all with whom she came into contact.

On November 1st, 1909, she became the wife of Mr. Joseph R. Lambert, proprietor of the Hotel Imperial, and presided over its management in a most successful manner.

She was 30 years of age on the day of her death and is survived by a husband, mother, two sisters and three brothers. Her father was the late George H. Cannon. The funeral will take piace at 3 p. m. today from her mother's home, interment in Chester Cemetery, Dr. F. T. Little officiating; C. L. Dodd, undertaker. The bearers will be George H., John C., Foster and John A. Cannon, John Hecker and A. L. Sparks.

MRS. MARTHA TURNER.

Mrs. Martha Turner, relict of Richard Turner, died at her home near Betterton Thursday morning, after a long illness, aged 71. She leaves six sons. She was Miss Birch before marriage, of Still Pond, and a woman of high character. The funeral will take place today at 1 p. m,, interment in Friends Burial Ground, Lynch; private.

MRS. ELLA V. GRESHAM.

Mrs Ella V. Gresham, 63 years old, died from pernicious anaemia at her home, 312 East Twentieth street, Baltimore, Thursday afternoon after an illness of several months. She is survived by two sons, Messrs. H. H. and F. D. Gresham, and three daughters, Mrs. W L. Wilkins, Mrs. F. D. Lewis and Miss Grace Gresham. Mrs. Gresham formerly lived near Edesville where she was beloved by everyone. She was a brave woman, a kind neighbor and faithful friend.

MRS. MAUD B. LEWIS.

Mrs. Maud B. Lewis, wife of Rev. Frank H. Lewis, died in Pittsburg Saturday and was buried from the home of her uncle, Robert H. Simpson, 1633 N. Broadway, Baltimore, Tuesday. Mrs. Lewis was the daughter of the late C. W Bowie, of Baltimore. Her husband, Rev. Mr. Lewis, was for years pastor of Mount Royal Avenue Church, but was transferred by his own request to the Pittsburg church about a year ago. Mrs. Lewis was 34 years old, and besides her husband is survived by two daughters.

DR. R. HIRONS CLIFTON.

Dr. R. Hirons Clifton, a prominent dentist of Smyrna, and known to many in Chestertown, died Friday, aged 38. Pernicious anaemia brought on by close confinement to his office caused his death. He had lived in Clayton when a boy and married only about a year ago to Miss Bertha Bailey, of Kenton. He was a noted sportsman and had assembled a kennel of the finest dogs in the country all of which won prizes when exhibited in other states and one of which he recently refused to sell for $400 cash. He was an ex-student of Washington College.

MISS LILLIAN FORD.

Miss Lillian Ford, daughter of Mr. Merritt Ford, died at her father's home Saturday evening, after a short illness of typhoid fever. Every one loved Lily and all our hearts are sad that thus early she should be summoned Home. We sorrow not for her but for the bereaved family.

MRS. S. G. WALLS.

After an illness of several months Mrs. S. G. Walls passed away last Tuesday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Clendenning. Mrs. Walls was in intense suffering, but bore her affliction with a christian grace and fortitude that was an inspiration to her friends and loved ones. She leaves a large family of children and a husband to mourn her demise. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon, Rev. J. L. Sparklin assisted by Rev. W. O. Bennett of Bridgeville, and Rev. G. P. Smith, of Rising Sun, officiating. Interment in Sudlersville cemetery.

DR. THOMAS SUDLER

Dr. Thomas Sudler, coroner of the Eastern district and actively identified with Democratic politics in Baltimore, died suddenly at his home, 8 Shirley avenue, near Park Heights avenue, Tuesday morning, aged 62.
