

Mythens & Elizabeth his wife sister and heir of the aforesaid Thomas Rutland a certain debt of one thousand four hundred and forty one pounds eight shillings and eight pence current money which judgment did bind the real estate which descended to the said Elizabeth as sister and heir of the aforesaid Thomas Rutland, and the same is to be satisfied and discharged; whereof the said William & Elizabeth his wife in the same Court were convicted, as by the record and process thereof in the same Court as aforesaid remaining more fully appears; which said judgment so as aforesaid moved was for a just and true debt to the aforesaid State of Maryland by the aforesaid Thomas Rutland in his lifetime due, and ^{on bond} ~~and~~ ^{then} ~~imposed~~, and still yet in its full force remain on record being not reversed annulled or satisfied; and the aforesaid William and Elizabeth in falsifying that they have not nor hath the said Elizabeth any lands or tenements by descent as heir of the aforesaid Thomas her brother in Turinople, nor had they or the said Elizabeth on the day of the Impeachment of the writ of Scire facias aforesaid of him the said Joseph or ever afterwards, sufficient to discharge the said judgment, and this they are ready to verify; wherefore they pray judgment if ~~they are not to be taken~~ ~~they are not to be taken~~ the aforesaid Joseph his executor aforesaid for the debt and damages aforesaid against them the said William and Elizabeth as heirs of the said Thomas to have ought execution.

J. Duval
Clerk.