Notice to my Creditors.

GENTLEMEN,
WITH great deference I beg leave to state to you, that the ungrateful and the inflexible cruelty of one of my debtors, which he already has extended to ruin me and my children, and to drag me of all possible means to pay you, the debt of sympathy is unable to conceive.

He has held, at various periods, for nearly nine years, from eleven to nearly fifteen thousand dollars of my property. At present he holds more than will pay forty shillings for every twenty shillings I owe in the world, including all the suits falsely brought against me for debts I contracted on account and as agent for Morris, Nicholson and Greenleaf. But these suits and all the immense losses I have sustained by those people's bubble, now, and now does give me one pang.
Many years has my unnatural debtors tried me with false promises, fabricated accounts, and with a turn-spit assistant, he has heaped on me a load of enormous mortgages, which they knew would take the wisdom of Solomon to unravel. Lastly, he has forbidden me all intercourse with him. Must I now, at this late period of life, submit to the law and its delay? He has already ruined me, by deluding me with hypocritical avowals, in this place, near three years, out of all manner of employment, with a very large family to maintain. I am unable to prosecute the most trifling and most innocent law suit—much less one against him that must be defended by him with every opposite to innocence and honesty. Gentlemen, it is with pain, that I am from the circumstances deduced, and those that will follow, obliged to inform you that dire necessity will compel me to solicit the next general assembly to extend to me an act to relieve me from my embarrassments.
The first is, that I may be at liberty from demands which I cannot command my property to pay. Second, that I may then, once more, have an opportunity to procure a livelihood for my children. Third, that I may receive my bail to various suits, brought against me for debts due by Morris, Nicholson and Greenleaf. Lastly, to release my bail to a suit for sale of $2000 dollars, brought against me by Mr. William M'Creary, who also had the same against my debtor. Notwithstanding Mr. William M'Creary, from lenity, indulged him with 4 years stay of execution; although the date from of them, were of seven years date, I might predict, that when the 4 years indulgence expires, Mr. William M'Creary will have as much trouble to procure the money, and it will take as long a time as it would had Mr. William M'Creary begun with him in May term, 1796. And I am sure that the magnificence of the mortgage, which is the ultimate resort, will never pay the principal interest and costs of Mr. Wm. M'Creary's suits and mine, were they to be sold at "fourth" auction this day, or as soon as may be. No—they appear a shameful premeditated collusion determination to ruin me, you, and my children. I am, gentlemen, with the most grateful respect, Joseph Clark.
