Arrival of the Hibernia.

FOURTEEN DAYS LATER.

The steamship Hibernia arrived at Boston on Tuesday morning. She left Liverpool on the 19th, and her passage has been delayed by ice, by which she was so much obstructed, that, as we learn, on one day she only made nine miles. She brings one hundred and five passengers.

The foreign news of the fortnight centres in Switzerland, where blood has been spilled between the rival Protestant and Catholic factions. These ruptures, if continued, will probably lead to the dismemberment of the Swiss Cantons, and its partition among the adjacent powers of Europe.

In France a long debate on the abolition of slavery in the colonies belonging to that country has taken place. The Peers passed a law, by which the slave can purchase his freedom. The right of the slave to property is recognized. For his moral and religious rights the bill also provides. It remains to be seen how the bill will fare in the Chamber of Deputies.

The excitement in England caused by the news of the Texan resolutions, and the passage in the President's inaugural address relating to Oregon, has in a great measure subsided, although the English press generally continue to condemn in the most unsparing manner the language of Mr. Polk, and many of them point to war as a thing which will be—must be—unless this government lowers its tone.

In commercial matters there was not much change. Trade was dull in the manufacturing districts, and raw cotton had felt the influence of the dulness. The money market had been agitated by war rumors and the position of the ministry, but had acquired more firmness at a later period. The rate of discount was still between two and three per cent.

A run or prevails that 8000 troops are to be sent to Canada. It is rumored that Lieut. Gen. Lord Cathcart, K. C. B. will be appointed Commander in Chief of North America, vice Lieut. Gen. Sir Richard Jackson, who returns home. The Apollo, troop-ship, with detachments of 14th, 52d and 60th Regiments on board, sailed from Chatham on the 11th instant, for Canada. The new war steamer Terrible will be fitted up with 28 guns, and her cost will exceed £150,000, nearly double that of a ship of 120 guns.

SUBTRACTION.

The following dialogue recently occurred between a mistress of one of our public schools and a scholar.

"James, if you take three from five, how many will remain?"

"I don't know, marm," replied the urchin, biting his thumb-nail.

"Not know! If five birds were singing on a tree, and a naughty boy should fire a gun and kill three, how many would be left?"

"None," was the prompt reply.

"Why, yes, there would be some left."

"No there wouldn't, 'cause marm, 'cause the others would fly away!"

What has become of old father Frelinghuysen? We have not heard of him for some time.—[Ind. Patriot.

Don't know; but reckon he has been blown up by a Texan bomb. Perhaps some of the whig papers can tell?

☞ Clickener's Sugar-coated Pills.—Solomon to the contrary notwithstanding, there is something new under the sun. In Solomon's time physic was a lesser evil to cure a greater one; and when his sagacious majesty had the head ache, the dyspepsia, or any of the ills that flesh is heir to, he had to get rid of them at the expense of grippings and nausea, that were nearly as hard to put up with as the diseases themselves. Had he lived in these days, however, he would have found matters most happily changed in this respect, for Dr. Clickener, who is just now making such a noise in the world has invented a medicine, which is not only not a "lesser evil," in the way of nausea, griping, and such like unsual attributes of all other medicinal compounds, but an actual luxury, for it leaves patients under the impression that they have only been regaling on first rate peppermint lollypops,—and expels the disease, purifies the blood, and regulates the bowels, without giving any further evidence of its presence. In serious truth, Clickener's Sugar-coated Pills are the best general medicine that has ever been introduced, for they have all the purifying advantages of physic, without any of those draw-backs which make physic such an aversion to most people. Having used them ourselves we can say thus much in their favor; and are no longer surprised at Doctor Clickener's great reputation and popularity, and at the reports everywhere current, that wherever his pills are introduced the use of all others becomes a thing of the past.

☞ The Hon. Leverett Saltodstall, late member of Congress from Massachusetts, died at Salem on Thursday last.

☞ They had a slight fall of snow at Boston on Thursday last.

☞ The Governor of Hayti died at St. Marcs on the 11th ultimo.

On the 17th Louis Pierrat was proclaimed President from the North Cape Haytien. He is said not to be friendly to the colored people, and it is doubtful whether he will be acknowledged as President in the South part of the Island. Rivera, who had gone back from Jamaica to endeavor to recover his command, it is said has captured some sixteen boats that were sent out against him. It is stated he lands whenever he wishes at the south part of the Island, and that he and his party propose if they succeed to put the country under the protection of the English, and to give foreigners the right of doing business in their own names, and to hold real estate.
