POLITICAL.

Before and after the Election.

As we are the same "before and after the election," we will take occasion to make a few remarks; which we think may not be out of place. The State election is now over, and as we were all called upon to vote for the men of our choice to make laws for us for the coming year, so now it behooves us all to settle back quietly upon the avocations in which choice or necessity may have called us. The people having exercised the high prerogative of voting—a privilege enjoyed in greater amplitude by ourselves than by any other part of the globe—they can now lay aside the armour of battle and cool the brow, fevered by the animation of the contest, in breezes of peace and tranquility. This not unpleasing respite from that toil which it is the birthright of freemen to bear—to struggle for a few days in the year, that the balance may be spent in peace and prosperity, and security—is given to all, except to the public press. That great engine, which has wrought such miraculous ends for the destiny of the human kind, and opened to the view of the world, not only the sense, but the enjoyment of freedom, is compelled, by virtue of the great mission, which under the decree of Heaven it is appointed to fulfil, to keep its lever continually at work. It must watch on, watch ever. At morning light, at noontide blaze, and amid the gloom of midnight shadows the sentinel who guards the palladium of liberty must tread the ramparts, though howling winds should sweep and driving tempests beat upon him. Justice to man, as well as obedience to Heaven, urge us on to duty. We live in Maryland,—we bask in the glow of her sun,—we catch with gratitude the freshness of her untainted gales—we listen with soul-subduing delight to the music of the waves as they ripple along her shores. We love her. The exhalation which dims the lustre of her name, spreads like a dark cloud over our spirit. We are part of her—a limb—a member—and partake of the weakness, the strength, the health, or the sickness of the body at large. When she rises, we rise; and when she falls, we go with her. Rise she will—rise she must—and we now fling to the breeze the banner of REFORM, inscribed with the motto—"PUBLIC FAITH RESTORED BY PUBLIC ECONOMY." The election for members to the Legislature and representatives to Congress is over—national questions are lost sight of;—State questions upon which parties have divided are thrown into the back ground, and the colossal statue of reform towers aloft into the political heavens;—The wise and the good, the virtuous and the patriotic, should bow down before it. It can be done without the imputation of idolatry, and in the adoration paid to it, the public creditor will recognize both the disposition and the ability to pay him his dues. Listen not to proposals of Legislative reform, it is but an opiate to soothe the sense of wrong—wrong long inflicted and patiently borne; until it has galled us to the quick, and we can bear it no longer. Come let us reason together. By the present Constitution of Maryland, the Legislature can pledge the public credit. Is that right? Is it fair? From whence do they get the power to mortgage the muscles of every mechanic and working man in the State to construct railways and dig canals? From the Constitution, they say. Well, then, a Constitution which gives such power should not be permitted to live—yes, it should be strangled in its old age, and that without mercy. But say the privileged orders, do it by the Legislature.—Well, let us see how that will work. One Legislature passes a bill taking away this power to borrow money and a second Legislature confirms it. Then, as it is said, the public money cannot be wasted in ruinous schemes of internal improvement.—Now all this seems very plausible and apparently there can be no objection; and as the Constitution can be amended in this way, in the given particular as to borrowing money, so it is contended that it can be in all other respects. Now, reader, does it not strike you, that there is something rotten in this seeming fair exterior? Do you not see the features of the harlot beneath the superficial point? Why, if one Legislature can take away the power to borrow money, and a second can confirm it, and make it unconstitutional to borrow, then by the same rule the third Legislature can restore the power to borrow, and the fourth can confirm the restoration. It is very plain, then, that under the old Constitution we cannot have complete relief. The truth is, that we are never safe as long as they have the power, or the means of getting it. It is well known, from past experience, that powerful corporations, either in being or in contemplation, can, by the influences which they bring to bear, either seduce or fatigue any Legislature into a compliance with their wishes. Every tax collector that comes to your door, is a standing, living, moving argument in favor of Conventional reform. Why does he come? To collect the taxes, to pay the interest of money unwisely borrowed by the Legislature. Yes, and if you do not speedily take away this power to borrow, the number of excisemen will have to be doubled. We have said this much upon a single one of the many questions involved in the matter of reform. The call of a Convention would be justifiable, even if it did nothing else but take away the power to borrow money. It should never be borrowed at all, except upon the emergencies of invasion, insurrection, and rebellion—then all will agree, to it, and the new Constitution might, and no doubt will, limit the Legislature to those three cases. We will continue this subject hereafter, as our time permits, and ask our readers to ponder these things. The lapse of a few years will witness the resuscitated grandeur of "Old Maryland,"—her debt paid, and her people happy;—her population increasing rapidly—her fortunes rising as majestically as a pyramid—her honor purged and purified, until it shall be as unblemished as the snow which rests upon the peaks of the mountains.—Rep. and Argus.

NEW SERIES OF THE
CONGRESSIONAL GLOBE AND APPENDIX,
TO BE STEREOTYPED.

THE undersigned originated the mode of journalizing the proceedings of Congress, which presented them entire. Their publication was the first and only one that gave each successive step in every measure in both branches of Congress; a brief of all the debates; every important vote; and an Appendix, including at full length all the revised speeches delivered during the session. The work thus conducted by them is a most perfect political history. The Senators from the States and the Representatives from every section of the Union bring with them into Congress a knowledge of the feelings, sentiments, and interests of their several constituencies. Public opinion and the public information, as it exists among those they represent, are embodied by them, and in the crucible of Congress the wisdom of our times is brought to its test, and is there concentrated, in directing the political movements of the whole country. The impulses thus given through Congress from every quarter react upon the nation as a wholey and all its component parts made to move in co-operation. The press cannot be more usefully employed than in condensing and again spreading abroad the intelligence of our free country, tending to such happy results thro' our almost miraculously adjusted State and National institutions.

Having identified ourselves with the plan of advancing the usefulness of Congress by publishing full and impartial reports, and having a large mass of the Congressional Globe and Appendix, issued during the last ten years, which would be impaired in value to us and utility to the public if the work were discontinued, we have a double motive to prompt us to extend it through a new series. We are resolved if possible to give it permanence, and to hand it down to successors as a standard work, worthy of being maintained and improved. We shall enter upon our new undertaking without being distracted or burdened by any associate labors of the press; and, thus unencumbered, shall hope to make the new series a step in advance of the former in all points of execution. With a view to accomplish this, we shall be (one or the other) always in attendance in Congress—will compare the manuscript of our own reporters with the daily reports of the city papers—correct all by our own observation and knowledge of the proceedings; and in important matters, where that will not assure us of the fidelity of the reports, we will procure the aid of the members themselves, to obtain the exact scope of their remarks. The work thus authenticated, will be stereotyped, which is a guaranty that we will make it as perfect as it is possible for us to make it, as we would not incur the expense of stereotyping it, if we did not feel confident of its superiority over all works of the kind which have been or are likely to be published.—Stereotyping the work will enable us to supply lost or mutilated numbers, which we will do, without making any charge for them.

The Congressional Globe is made up of the daily proceedings of the two Houses of Congress. The speeches of the members are condensed, to bring them into a readable length. All the resolutions offered, or motions made, are given in the mover's own words; and the yeas and nays on all the important questions. It is printed with small type—brevier and nonpariel—on a double royal sheet, in quarto form, each number containing sixteen royal quarto pages.

The Appendix is made up of the President's annual message, the reports of the principal officers of the Government that accompany it, and all the long speeches of members of Congress, written out or revised by themselves. It is printed in the same form as the Congressional Globe, and usually makes about the same number of pages.

We print the numbers as fast as the proceedings of Congress furnish enough matter for a number. During the first month or six weeks of a session, there is rarely more business done than will make one number of the Congressional Globe and one number of the Appendix a week; but during the remainder of a session there is usually sufficient matter for two or three numbers of each every week. The next session will be a long one, and it is supposed will be unusually interesting; therefore, we calculate that the Congressional Globe and Appendix will each make near one thousand large quarto pages, printed in small type—brevier and nonpareil. We furnish complete indexes to both at the end of a session.

We have on hand the Congressional Globe and Appendix for the last twelve sessions of Congress, of which five were long and seven were short sessions. The Congressional Globe and Appendix for each session are bound together in excellent binding, with Russia backs and corners. Our prices for them, thus bound together, are $3 a volume for a short, and $5 a volume for a long session, making $46 for a full set. Those who want the back volumes should apply for them immediately, as they are in demand. The last Congress subscribed for two hundred and twenty-six sets; and it is probable that the next will subscribe for at least as many more, as the proceedings of Congress for the last eight years cannot be procured from any other source, Gales & Seaton having stopped printing their Register of Debates in 1837. A few hundred copies of the first volume is all we have on hand.

The next session of Congress will be a long one, and, therefore, the Congressional Globe and Appendix should be $2 for the session, which is the price we charge for the unbound numbers of the past long sessions; but we have concluded to reduce the price, as follows, until the first day of next January, after which time the Congressional Globe and Appendix will each be $2 for the session, and no deduction will be made on account of the number of copies taken.

TERMS.

For one copy of the Congres. Globe $1 50
For one copy of the Appendix 1 50
For four copies of either, or part of both 5 00
For 25 copies of either, or part of both 25 00

The money may be remitted by mail at our risk. It should be here by the 7th of December, at farthest, to procure all the numbers promptly.

Proprietors of newspapers who copy this Prospectus, and send to us one copy of their paper containing it, shall have their names entered on our books for one copy of the Congressional Globe and Appendix during the session.

Our prices for these papers are so low that we cannot afford to credit them out; therefore, no person need consume his time in writing for them and not sending the money.

HEMSLEY'S VEGETABLE TONIC,
PREPARED BY
R. F. HEMSLEY,
PHARMACEUTIST.—Easton, Md.

NO MEDICINE has acquired in so short a time so deserved a popularity; and none is prepared to present so honorable an array of certificates from the FACULTY OF MEDICINE and private individuals throughout the State as Hemsley's Vegetable Tonic. In moderate doses, regularly taken, this medicine is a sure preventive of Fever & Ague and Bilious Fever, while it affords in most instances a permanent cure when employed for the removal of these diseases. In all cases of general debility arising from old age, protracted illness, or uniform delicacy and feebleness of constitution, it is without question one of the most agreeable and efficient tonics ever offered to the public. Let all who are afflicted apply to this remedy with the full expectation of perfect relief. It promises nothing which it is not competent to perform; and must, in a very short time, be the remedy preferred to all others in the various forms of Fever and Ague and in cases of general debility. Full directions for using it will accompany each bottle.

Certificates.

The undersigned, Physicians of Baltimore, having been made acquainted with the ingredients composing "Hemsley's Vegetable Tonic," have no hesitation in saying that the compound, if properly used, cannot fail to conduce greatly to the accomplishment of the object proposed in its employment; and do therefore cheerfully recommended it to the afflicted public.

The preparation made by Mr. Hemsley, Apothecary, Easton, Md., and known as "Hemsley's Vegetable Tonic," is in my opinion the best article ever offered to the public for the radical cure of that distressing affection, Intermittent Fever. This composition forms a pleasant bitters, and furnishes a most desirable tonic in cases of constitutional debility resulting from natural infirmity or the ravages of disease. I have recommended this medicine extensively in my practice and have always found it to answer the desired purpose.

CHRIS. C. COX, A. M. M. D.

Mr. R. F. Hemsley, Sir:—This is to certify that for a long time I labored under the debilitating influence of that dreadful disease, Ague & Fever, and had recourse to many remedies recommended to me by Physicians and others, all of which proved unavailing. I heard of your celebrated 'Vegetable Tonic,' of which I procured two bottles, and before I had taken it all I was entirely restored, and have not since felt any symptoms of its return. It has accomplished more in my case than all other remedies put together, and I most cheerfully recommend it to all those persons who may be laboring under this most wretched disease.

MORE PRACTICAL PROOFS of the extraordinary virtues of WORSDELL'S PILLS.

Cure of Dyspepsia.

EASTON, Md. May 8th, 1845.

Dear Sir:—Duty to the afflicted portion of society, and gratitude to you, Sir, prompts me to communicate to you the great amount of suffering I have endured from Dyspepsia, and the incalculable benefit I have derived from using Worsdell's Vegetable Restorative Pills. About three years ago my digestive organs became weak, and twelve months from that time my system was much debilitated, which compelled me to quit work for two or three weeks at a time. All the medicine prescribed only gave me temporary relief, and I gradually became weaker. I tried various patent medicines with no better success; and at length I had to quit work altogether. I believe it was last October when a pamphlet was left at my house, stating the properties and effects of Worsdell's Pills, which induced me to try them, although I had given up all hopes of recovery, as I had been confined to my house three months:—the latter part of the time I was so sick that I could not bear to be out of bed. I commenced, however, using Worsdell's Pills: the first dose I took had no effect; in the evening I took another dose of eight pills, which operated a little; the following day I repeated the same dose, and they produced a brisk purge, which relieved me. This brightened my hopes, and I persevered until I had taken the contents of one box, when, to my astonishment, I was able to go out; and, by persevering with the Pills, I soon recovered strength to enable me to attend to business. For twelve months I had suffered daily with a burning pain in my stomach, attended with pain in my side and severe headache, and had to abstain from fresh meat.

I have given Worsdell's Pills a fair trial, and they have produced the desired effect, as I have now been able to attend to work steady for six months; and I feel as well as I ever did—I am hearty and relish my food. I sincerely believe I should have died had it not been for the timely use of those truly valuable pills. I feel thankful for the blessing I have received, and desire that all who use them may be equally benefitted.

I am yours respectfully,
SAM'L. SATTERFIELD.
To Mr. Geo. Pearson, Vestry St. N. York.

ANOTHER GREAT CURE OF FEVER AND AGUE.

Marsh Hope Bridge, Del., Sep. 20, 1844.

To DR. WORSDELL,

Sir:—The great amount of suffering produced by the Chills and Fever to thousands of my fellow-creatures, induces me to make known the benefits I have derived by using your Vegetable Restorative Pills. During the past few years I have suffered much with the chills and fever, for which I have advised with Physicians, and tried their prescriptions and other medicines that were recommended, without experiencing the desired relief. Three months ago I had another severe attack, and on hearing some of my neighbors praising your Pills, who had proved their virtues, I was induced to make a trial. I perused your directions, which accompany each box of Pills, in hopes of finding something in relation to the chills and fever, but there being nothing wrote under that head, I felt reluctant to use them. However, on making further inquiries, and being assured that the Pills were safe and gentle in their effects, I concluded to try them;—I commenced by taking eight pills on going to bed, which had the effect of stopping the chills and allaying the fever; I repeated the same dose on the four following evenings, which, to my astonishment, effectually cured me. It is now three months since I first used the pills, and I have had no chills or sickness of any kind; in fact I have, and continue to enjoy, better health than for many years past. My wife, also, has taken your Pills, and I have administered them to my children on several occasions with success. I can confidently recommend them as a family medicine, and an effectual remedy for the chills and fever.

Grateful for the blessings I have derived by using your Vegetable Restorative Pills, and hoping you will make this known for the benefit of the suffering public,

I remain, yours sincerely,
JOHN W. JEEFERSON.

STILL ANOTHER PROOF.

[Copied from the Baltimore daily Sun.]

BALTIMORE, May 1st, 1845.

Dear Sir:—It is with pleasure I communicate to you the great benefit I and my family have received from the use of Worsdell's Vegetable Restorative Pills. My daughter, Catharine Bryan, was afflicted twelve months with a disease of the Liver. She had severe pains in the breast and side, sick stomach and headache, which so debilitated her that she could not bear least the exertion. Hearing of the good effects produced by Worsdell's Pills, I procured a box from Mr. J. K. Love, 69 Hanover street. She soon experienced relief, and when she had taken the contents of three boxes was quite restored to health and enable to attend to her domestic duties with ease. It is about six months since I commenced using these invaluable Family Pills; during that time I have used no other medicine, as I have found them to be an excellent purifier of the blood and all that is necessary for the preservation of health.

Yours, respectfully,
K. LINDSLEY, 115 Lee street.
To Mr. Pearson, Vesey street, New York

☞ Satisfactory accounts from those who have proved the virtues of Worsdell's Pills, are almost daily sent to the proprietor, and the unprecedented great demand for them in every section of the country where their efficacy have become known, is sufficient evidence of their extraordinary qualities.

The office of Worsdell's Pills is to go at once to the root of disease by purifying that principle of life—THE BLOOD. They preserve and improve the health and digestion relieve the lungs, promote perspiration, remove bile from the stomach and dangerous oppression from the brain; produce serenity of mind; and, in short, give tone, energy, strength, and elasticity, to all the physical functions. They do not contain an atom of Mercury, Calomel, or any other deleterious drug, and have been found so beneficial in almost all cases of disease which the human system is liable to, that they may justly be considered unequaled as an universal Family Medicine; being purely vegetable, the most delicate females find the occasional use of them materially beneficial to their general health.

CLICKENER'S
SUGAR-COATED VEGETABLE EXTRACT PILLS.

A Medicinal preparation is herein announced which has been long desired, and sought for, and which the public must at once see and acknowledge the advantage of. It is a purgative pill, COATED with SUGAR, so that it leaves no taste whatever of its internal ingredients. In fact the medicine is so entirely disguised that if a person were to swallow the pills without being informed what they were, he would believe them to be simply lumps of pure sugar; nor could he afterwards, unless by its great purgative effect suspect that he had been taking medicine, for these pills are so skilfully prepared that they do not gripe the bowels; and thus the patient who takes them avoids two evils which attend all other purgative medicines; namely: nausea and pain. Medicine administered in all other sweet forms has the disadvantage of being mixed with the sugar, and hence produces a mingled flavor, which, to most persons is more disagreeable than unadulterated bitterness In these pills this is altogether avoided; the sugar and the medicine being entirely distinct from each other, so that the former must be thoroughly removed before the latter can manifest itself to the taste. It is universally known that nearly all diseases originate with impurity of the blood. Pure blood is therefore essential to health. We must not, however, wait until the blood is impure, for then it takes time—and that time passed in ill health—to rectify it; but when the slightest derangement of the system is indicated by costiveness, or any other sign, it admonishes us that superfluities are gathering in the system, which should at once be got rid of, for their removal leaves the chyle, (from which the blood is formed) in a healthy state, and purity of blood must be the result. This fact, as stated, is universally known; but people have such an aversion to medicine, that, unless the case is urgent, they prefer the disease to the cure, until an impaired constitution, or a fit of sickness rebukes them for the folly of their conduct. Still they had some excuse; for heretofore, medicine in almost all its forms, was nearly as disgusting as it was beneficial. Now, however, the evil is most effectually removed; for have no taste whatever of medicine—produce none of the nausea and griping, attendant on the operation of other medicine—while their speedy effect in removing all impurities from he system cannot be excelled by any other medicine which has ever been discovered.

It is unnecessary to say more here. If these pills are, as described, the public will freely and gladly patronise them; and the proprietor merely asks a trial, which he is sure of receiving, to prove that he assumes no merit for them which they do not fully possess.

Clickener's Sugar-coated Vegetable Extract Pills are prepared and sold, wholesale and retail and for exportation, by C. V. CLICKENER & Co., Chemists, at the wholesale and retail drug warehouse, No. 79 and 81 Barclay street, New York. Price 25cts.

CAUTION.—The public should remember that C. V. Clickener is the inventor of the Sugar-coated Pills, and that nothing of the sort was ever heard of until he introduced them. Therefore should any other person, seduced by the popularity of his discovery, advertise Sugar-coated Pills, they must be a wretched counterfeit, which if would be dangerous to use, as none but the most ignorant quacks can be found dealing in such a nefarious traffic as palming off counterfeit for genuine medicines. feb 4
