OUR OLIO.

THE REAPER AND THE FLOWERS. BY HENRY W. LONGFELLOW.

There is a reaper whose name is death, And, with his sickle keen, He reaps the bearded grain at a breath, And the flowers that grow between.

"Shall I have nought that is fair?" saith he; "Have nought but the bearded grain? Tho' the breath of these flowers is sweet to me I will give them all back again."

He gazed at the flowers with tearful eyes; He kissed their drooping leaves; It was for the Lord of Paradise He bound them in his sheaves.

"My Lord hath need of these flowrets gay," The reaper said, and smiled; "Dear tokens of the earth are they, Where He was once a child.

"They shall all bloom in fields of light, Transplanted by my care, And saints, upon their garments white, These sacred blossoms wear."

And the mother gave, in tears and pain, The flowers she most did love; She knew she would find them all again, In the fields of light above.

O, not in cruelty, not in wrath, The reaper came that day; Twas an angel visited the green earth And took the green flowers away.
