HOMEWARD PROGRESS OF THE JAPANESE.

A correspondent of the New York Times writing from on board the United States frigate Niagara, at Loando, Africa, under date of August 4, gives some particulars of the homeward progress of the Japanese Embassy:

Not long after we were out the Captain learned there was a great quantity of incifer matches among their baggage, and these articles are strictly prohibited on board. He had an interview and told them how dangerous it was to allow it, and made such representations as induced them to pitch them all overboard; but we are not yet convinced that they all disappeared, as mysterious lights sometimes are seen in some of their rooms, which constantly keep the sentinels on the alert.

For several days I have noticed many of the Japanese using their favorite and universal remedy for the prevention and cure of disease, by burning with the moxa the finer woolly part of the leaves of the wormwood, the coarser kind being used for ordinary tinder. It is procured by rubbing and beating the leaves till the green part separates, and nothing remains but the wool, which is sorted into two kinds. When applied it is made up in little cones, and these being placed on the parts selected for the operation are set fire to from the top; they burn very slowly, leaving a scar or blister on the skin, which some time after breaks and discharges. The operation, I should judge, is not very painful, except when repeated in the same place, as it sometimes is, or when applied to certain tender parts. Our physicians witnessed some of the operations with much interest. It is said to be very efficacious in pleurisies, toothache, gout and rheumatism. They have very elaborate treatises as to the effect produced by the moxa according to the part to which it is applied; and its application forms a science and profession by itself. The fleshy parts, especially of the back, are ordinarily selected; and every person, both young and old, male and female, submit to the operation, I am informed, at least once in six months.

Another Japanese invention, practiced chiefly in a violent attack of colic is acupuncture—that is, sticking with a needle. According to their theory the colic is caused by wind, and to let it out several small holes (nine being a favorite number) are made with needles prepared for the purpose, generally in the muscles of the stomach or abdomen, though other fleshy parts are chosen for the operation. These needles are as fine as a hair and are made of gold and silver and sometimes of steel, by persons who profess a particular skill in tempering them The bony parts, liver and blood vessare carefully avoided, and while they are passed through the skin and muscle, they are twirled about in a peculiar manner. There are many practitioners who confined themselves entirely to this practice.

The American coal-ship Sebastian Cabot, 106 days from Philadelphia (supposed to have been lost), has just arrived. We have her alongside, and are taking from her a supply of coal. The Ambassadors have had invitations from the different captains of many of these vessels to visit their ships, but they declined them all, and receive no visitors (except some of our naval officers). They desire to remaine incog., and assign as a reason that they have no treaty with these people. They have purchased several monkeys and parrots, which they keep in their apartments for amusement. A purchase of one thousand oranges was made for them a few days ago, and they presented the fruit to the crew. It is a source of constant worry with them that they are not allowed to pay for their own supplies, as money was appropriate by their Government for his purpose. Several special interviews have been held with the captain on this subject, but he will not consent to their doing it, assigning as a reason that it would be contrary to the instructions of his Government; they then wanted to split the difference and pay for one-half, but without effect.—They have, hower, purchased privately nearly as much every day as the steward of their mess has done. It might be inferred from this that they were not provided for; but they have an abundance of everything at all times. The only question is how to get rid of their money for I suppose they expect to be censured when they arrive home for not spendiag it.

John Sherman, the Abolitionst, Proposes Three Cheers for Douglas and Three Cheers for Bell.

John Sherman, the candidate of the Helperites for Speaker of the last House of Representatives, in a recent speech said, in speaking of Mr. Douglas·

"Well, now, let us have three cheers for Douglas." [Immense laughter, but no cheers.] "What!" said Mr. Sherman, "are there no Douglas men here—will no one cheer for Douglas? He would tell them why he had called for three cheers for Douglas; it was for the great service that gentleman had done in breaking up the Democratic party."

And then, of Mr. Bell:

"He had answered the queries of the crowd about the Helper book, and he was now ready to answer any other question. [Cheers and shouts for John Bell.] Mr. Sherman took off his hat, waved it, and said, 'yes, three cheers for John Bell"—that he knew that distinguished man well, and approved highly of his whole course of public life, but he had not the ghost of a chance for the Presidency."

Mr. Sherman, who signed the recommendation of the infamous Helper book, and was the representative of the Helperites in Congres, proposes three cheers for Douglas, "for the great service he has done in breaking up the Democratic party!" and the same vile enemy of the South and of Southern institutions, says he knows John Bell, and "approves highly of his whole course of public life!"

Think of that, voters of Georgia!—[Mobile Daily News.

A MATRIMONAL SWINDLER HAILING FROM BALTIMORE.—The Saline Herald, published at Arrow Rock, Mo., on the 25th of September, gives a detailed account of the "systematic schemes of villainy" practised upon a widow lady of that place by a Baltimore man named O. Chamberlain, a tailor by trade· It appears from the statesment that about fifteen months ago Chambelain located in Arrow Rock, opened a shop, and did a very good busin ess. He became acquainted with a very respectable widow lady and married her, Under pretence of going to St. Louis to purchase an additional stock of goods, he succeded in getting about $3,000 from his wife, in addition to other moneys before obtained from the same source, He departed, and has not been heard of since. Chamberlain is about forty-five years old, weigs about one hundred and eighty pounds, inclined to corpulency—rather "pursy"—about five feet eight inches high, gray hair, blue eyes, deep set in the head, usually very neat and precise in his dress, and is rather retired in his manner.

AN "AMERICANISM."—A Washington despatch says:

One of the London reporters who called on the editor of the official organ here yesterday, was a little surprised at finding a bowie-knife and leaded cane on his desk! Inasmuch as he had believed that all stories relative to such editorial requisitions were untrue, so far as America was concerned, he asked an explantation, and was informed that the knife was used for clipping; but no explanation was given of the suspicious cane. The reporter is unsatisfied, and a capital reference to that "leaded article" of the editor will yet appear in the London Times. I regret that this incident is literally true

☞ The sketch of the life and character of Lowndes which President Buchanan has promised for the New York Ledger will be only the first of a serious of contributions which he proposes to offer ot historical literature in his retirement, though the periodical press or other channels. It is known that he intends to devote his leisure, after the close of his official term, to the preparation of memoirs of the public men and events with which he has been connected during the last forty years.

HON. JOHN M. BOTTS.—This gentleman "defined his position" in a speech at Richmond, Va., on Monday evening. He took substantially the same ground with Henry Winter Davis, of Baltimore—declaring himself for Bell and Everett, but opposed at all hazards to the democracy, and anxious primarily and principally for their defeat.

NEW REPUBLICAN CLUB.—It is stated that new republican clubs have been formed in various parts of the West, under the names of "Zouave Wide Awakes "Rail Splitters' Battalion" "JohnBrown Avengers," add "Harper's Ferry Raiders."
