

CENTREVILLE STATE RIGHTS.

Centreville State Rights.

TUESDAY MORNING, NOV. 6, 1860.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINATIONS.

For President, JOHN C. BRECKINRIDGE, OF KENTUCKY.

For Vice President, GENERAL JOSEPH LANE, OF OREGON.

Cover.—The Circuit Court for this county met on Monday last and adjourned over to Wednesday next on account of the Election to-day.

THE ELECTION.—To-day being the day for the election of President and Vice President of the United States, every freeman has a duty to perform, and that duty consists in giving his vote and his influence to the cause which in his judgment will best promote the welfare and prosperity of his country.

MR. JOHN BELL'S POSITION AND PROSPECT.

We find the following remarks in a recent number of the Baltimore Exchange one of the ablest and most conservative of our Maryland journals, and which views the subject it discusses entirely outside of any partisan prejudice:

The position of Mr. Bell, in the present canvass, cannot, we should suppose, be less disagreeable to him than it is unsatisfactory to the people at large. If he had been brought forward as the champion of any specific measure or the exponent of any definite principles whatsoever, he might accept the overwhelming defeat that inevitably awaits him with philosophical composure.

THE FILLMORE EXPERIMENT.—In 1856 when Mr. Fillmore was a candidate, he was generally supported by the same men who now adhere to John Bell. All their orators, leaders and journals ridiculed the idea that Fillmore had no chance.

ROUGH BEGINNING OF THE HONEY MOON.

On last Friday morning, an athletic young farmer, in the town of Waynesburg, took a fair girl, "all bathed in blushes," from her parents, and started for the first town, across the Pennsylvania line, to be married, where the ceremony could be performed without a license.

It appeared that the tall female insisted upon occupying the same room with the newly-wedded pair; that her sister was favorably disposed to the arrangement, and that the husband had agreed to it before the wedding took place, and was now indignantly repudiating the contract.

At half-past ten the Breckinridge and Lane club returned from one of their meetings, and were enjoying themselves in the club-room, and as they straggled out on their way home, they stopped by fours and fives on the several corners of Locust and Fourth streets to see the passing of the Douglas Civil Guards, on their return from the Biddle market meeting.

[From the London Times Oct. 10.] THE PRINCE OF WALES IN AMERICA.

Sixty years ago politicians, if they could have conceived such an abandonment of principle as a Prince of Wales accepting the hospitalities of the American President and people, would have speculated on the chance of his stealing their hearts and winning back our recreant fellow-subjects.

There is not a sane man in the British Isles who would wish to see the United States once more ours, and governed by Queen Victoria, Lord Palmerston and the British Parliament. We have enough and too much already, with India added to our fifty dependencies.

At half-past ten the Breckinridge and Lane club returned from one of their meetings, and were enjoying themselves in the club-room, and as they straggled out on their way home, they stopped by fours and fives on the several corners of Locust and Fourth streets to see the passing of the Douglas Civil Guards, on their return from the Biddle market meeting.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM LYNCH LAW.

A worthless young negro named John Paraway, living at Westminster, Md., narrowly escaped lynch law last week. It appears from the Sentinel that a daughter of the Rev. T. Gallaudet, one of the most excellent and amiable young ladies in the county, took a stroll alone to Sunset Hill, where she was sketching some views of the grand and picturesque scenery around it.

Two of the volunteers who were attached to the unfortunate expedition of General Walker in Honduras, E. H. Harper and B. Hand, were in Augusta (Geo.) a few days since. The Dispatch thus speaks of them: "They arrived here from Charleston in a destitute condition, and have been taken in charge by Wm. E. Evans, our worthy Mayor pro tem, who has generously relieved their pressing necessities at his own expense."

At a protracted meeting once, a hymn was given out which contained the words: "There is no sorrow there." At the close of the hymn, a brother stood up and shouted, in a voice of thunder: "Yes, brethren, there's no sorrow in heaven! And why not? Because, in the words of this beautiful hymn, there's no sorrow there."

DIPHTHERIA AND ITS CURE.

This singular disease, which has thus far seemed to baffle the skill of our best physicians, has become so prevalent and has been so generally fatal, that any suggestion in regard to its cure will hardly prove uninteresting.

At a protracted meeting once, a hymn was given out which contained the words: "There is no sorrow there." At the close of the hymn, a brother stood up and shouted, in a voice of thunder: "Yes, brethren, there's no sorrow in heaven! And why not? Because, in the words of this beautiful hymn, there's no sorrow there."

At a protracted meeting once, a hymn was given out which contained the words: "There is no sorrow there." At the close of the hymn, a brother stood up and shouted, in a voice of thunder: "Yes, brethren, there's no sorrow in heaven! And why not? Because, in the words of this beautiful hymn, there's no sorrow there."

GRAIN MARKET.

Some 9,000 bushels Wheat were offered on "Change this morning, and prices were rather lower, inferior to medium white selling at 1 1/2 to 1 3/4, fair to good do. 1 3/4 to 1 1/2, and prime to choice 1 5/8 to 1 3/4 per bushel, and red was quoted at 20 to 25 cents per bushel for or-dinary to strictly prime.

At a protracted meeting once, a hymn was given out which contained the words: "There is no sorrow there." At the close of the hymn, a brother stood up and shouted, in a voice of thunder: "Yes, brethren, there's no sorrow in heaven! And why not? Because, in the words of this beautiful hymn, there's no sorrow there."

At a protracted meeting once, a hymn was given out which contained the words: "There is no sorrow there." At the close of the hymn, a brother stood up and shouted, in a voice of thunder: "Yes, brethren, there's no sorrow in heaven! And why not? Because, in the words of this beautiful hymn, there's no sorrow there."

TRUSTEE'S SALE.

By virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court of Queen Anne's county, sitting in equity, and passed in a cause of Thomas Dodd, complainant, against the administratrix and heirs at-law of P. T. Davidson, defendants, the undersigned, as Trustee will offer at public sale in Centreville, on

At a protracted meeting once, a hymn was given out which contained the words: "There is no sorrow there." At the close of the hymn, a brother stood up and shouted, in a voice of thunder: "Yes, brethren, there's no sorrow in heaven! And why not? Because, in the words of this beautiful hymn, there's no sorrow there."

At a protracted meeting once, a hymn was given out which contained the words: "There is no sorrow there." At the close of the hymn, a brother stood up and shouted, in a voice of thunder: "Yes, brethren, there's no sorrow in heaven! And why not? Because, in the words of this beautiful hymn, there's no sorrow there."