

The Trustees did not exert themselves more than what they had done - Mr C. seemed hurt that there had been so much neglect & said that a meeting should be immediately called for the improvement of the House & out Houses, which the Children had occasion to resort to. it gave me much pleasure to find that your remarks were so much of their own & I trust ere you come to York, matters will be so arranged that it will meet with your approbation - Doctor Spangler laughing asked me did you leave the Man & Foal at my House - the Man who you know he said had made him an offer for his

Called yesterday & would have taken her at $60 - Mr Cawell seemed much disappointed at not knowing he had such for sale - Mr Prichard equally as bad as Mr C. so that I hope my keeping you that night will turn out to help to defray expenses - If you want the Cow dont neglect ^{writing to me} sending in time

I remain
In haste Dear Sir
Yours Most Truly
