

My Dear Sir

I have written by the conveyance inclosing your acct. sent which I hope you will get with this.

I have been very much limited in time as Mr. Dunvill is staying at Ballynashinick Spa this season and therefore I have both places to attend to. But as the vessel has not sailed at the day expected, I have now got out the copy of of Faddy & Rork to the Moon as well as I could. You may either improve or curtail it as you please. It is a very foolish story at best and only fit for a company in a merry foolish mood but when attempted to be committed to writing which I am sure never was done before, it must appear quite ridiculous but you can give it all the charm of language, and gesture which make it laughable in a style much superior to

Dear Sir

Your sincere friend

Wm. Napier
