

to his capriciousness; and I am very much concerned at the disappointment to my wishes; but although I am denied the satisfaction of being called your father, I hope not to lose the title of friend, as I shall on all occasions rejoice to prove myself such, as well as to assure you, that I am full of chagrin and regret, Madam,

Your most obedient Servant,

C. VERNON.

VOL. II.

G

L E T T E R S

Mr. Vernon

London