

I am in Baltimore, we surely will go to see you all, as I love my own, and count you all in Annapolis as belonging to me, although I have seen so little of you since my child-hood. How I use to love to go to Annapolis, and you, dear Cousin, were always lovely to me, taking me boat-rides, I do well remember!

With love, in which Harry would join me if here, and every good wish for your health and welfare.

Very lovingly -

Edith Turner Linds.
