Copper. There is one Copper smelting Company in operation at Baltimore, with a Capital of $750,000. It has two establishments jointly working thirty four reverberatory furnaces, giving employment to about 300 men. These works consume from about 30 to 35,000 tons of Cumberland (State of Maryland) coal per annum, and their current daily expenses are some $11,000. The ores smelted come from Chili, California, Canada, Vermont, Virginia, S. Carolina, and this State. The smelting business here is likely to increase as several mines in the vicinity of the City are being developed, and a great many Companies for working the very valuable Copper Mines of S. Carolina, which have been lying idle during the war, are located here. The highest price of refined Bright during the past year was 49 Cents, and the minimum 25 1/2 Cents per lb.

Cotton. 16,000 Bales against 10,000 in 1864, was bought at Baltimore last year. There are many manufacturing establishments
