

If the law was unconstitutional, the remedy of the party aggrieved was against the persons who done the act, and not against the corporation, whose means of pay (are at least in part drawn from persons who objected to the act.

as to the pleadings.

In the damage sufficiently charged in the declaration The nuisance if one, is a public nuisance, and the special damage is not sufficiently laid -

19 Johns 223-226 - 8 Cowen. Lansing Smith 4 Barr & Lett 540-541

On the question of challenge. It was how he was to be tried - this was a challenge to the jury, and not a principal cause of challenge, should have been tried by jury - not by the court - 3 Mac Abr 756-768