JOHN SUMMERFIELD.

A quarter of a century since, there arose on the horizon of the Church, a star that shed for a few transient years a mild and benignant light, then disappeared, and was seen no more. Many an eye beheld its progress with wonder and delight. Many a heart bounded with joy as it felt the influence of the light thus shining from this brillian orb. It was a star of the first magnitude, and of the most cheering promise.—The beautiful visitant seemed lent for awhile to earth, as if Heaven in the plenitude of its mercy, designed to present a new proof of its power and willingness to endow humanity with such gifts and graces, as should instruct and bless the race on which its mercy is bestowed. He—the gentle and the lovely—came from a foreign land, but no land was foreign to him, as he could be no foreigner in any Christian land, that loved the sound of the gospel he had preached. He adopted this country as his own, and this country in turn adopted him. He made his way into all hearts, because all hearts made way for him. He leveled the distinction of denomination, for his constant theme was the love of Christ to man, and the love of regenerated man to Christ, and to the whole brotherhood in Christ. His name was JOHN, and well did he bear it, for like that amiable apostle, he seemed to dwell in love, and love to dwell in him. Combining the impassioned fervor of youth with the wisdom of maturer years, and the energies of an accomplished intellect with the rich unction of a sanctified heart, he lead his hearers through the gates of the sanctuary to the vestibule of heaven, and bade them listen to its ravishing melody and aspire to its holy companionship. I seem even now to hear, through the long vista of intervening years, the musical cadences of that voice, which none who heard can ever forget. Those themes on which he dwelt—the love of God—redemption through the blood of Christ—the song of exultant angels over penitent souls—the lamentations of the holy over those who reject the gift of God—the sublimities of the last day, and the solemnities of the final judgment—themes in themselves pregnant with an undying interest—these, when set forth by the living messenger of God in strains such as were given him to utter, did indeed strike the soul as realities too indispensable to escape the deep considerations of mortal men. The grave has received into its silent bosom many of those hearers, as it long since closed on the preacher; but many too live, who will not accuse the writer of partial enthusiasm in this reminiscence of one so fondly loved, and sincerely lamented.

If he stood before us in his youthful morning, it was with an aspect that seemed to preclude the hope of his ascension to the meridian of life. His countenance pale, thoughtful and spiritual, as if "commercing with the skies," impressed us with the anticipation that his ministry on earth would be as brief as it was brilliant. That anticipation lent an additional charm—melancholy though it was—to every production of his intellect, every picture of his imagination, every flight of his fancy, and every effusion of his heart. That gush of feeling, so natural, so warm, so exhilarating to the responsive sensibilities of a thousand hearers; it came from a fountain soon to be sealed by the cold hand of death. It is thus that the many feel a mysterious but mighty sympathy with the fate of a single one of our race, on whom genius has conferred endowments which are themselves exalted into a spiritual life by the spirit of God. Endowments still more regally endowed by Him, whose prerogative is to regenerate, as well as to create mind.

But not alone in the solemn assembly of public worshippers was the power of his oratory felt. Of all those meetings connected with the exercise of beneficence to men, at which his attendance could be secured, he was the charm and the crown.—At New York he burst upon the public eye at the great Bible Anniversary, with some tender strokes of eloquence, that not only ministered to present gratification, but awakened universal expectation. Nor was it ordinarily disappointed. The striking turns of his wit—the playfulness of his humor—the beneficence of his satire—the ease, the grace, the graphic beauty with which his mind unfolded the subject in hand—the fine blending of the useful with the beautiful—and the effect of all, marked him, as one admirably fitted for the work in which he was engaged. Why could he not be spared? Must that "cypress bud," of which Milton so beautifully speaks, be so early, so distinctly visible in the "garland" of his honors, intertwining its solemn shade with the brighter colors that wreathed his youthful brows? Even so did it seem good to the dispenser of life and death. Let us not then doubt because we are disappointed, or complain because our hopes are crushed. Of the friends of this lovely youth it might be said in the language of the poet,

"Alas! for them, though not for thee;
They cannot choose but weep the more;
Deep for the dead the grief must be,
Who ne'er gave cause to weep before."

CURIOSITIES.—There are in a stone yard on the East river two grave-stones, brought from the apostles grave-yard at Smyrna.—They are supposed to be 1300 years old.

CONFESSION.

I, THE SUBSCRIBER, publicly confess that I have been afflicted with a SECRET DISEASE ever since 1823; I had thirteen eminent physicians whose names are recorded at the French Medical House; some of them abated the disease, but it always returned worse than before, until it carried away both sides of my throat and pierced the top of the palate. I also lost several bones of my nose and was almost blind of an eye, and my face was covered with an immense quantity of scabs, between which the skin was as red scarlet, and I was indeed in a most deplorable condition, so much so that the learned professer S. pronounced me incurable. It was obvious to me, then, that a common doctor could not extricate me from the jaws of death—for they all follow the same old rote, with their train of mercury, mixtures or pills, invented by ignorance and continued by cupidity, and do no good to any but the venders. Several persons recommended the French Doctor of the Medical House, 16 South FREDERICK ST., as a scientiiic man and a rare genius in those complaints. I went to him and he pledged himself to cure me on written guaranty, and he furnished me with one room in his house, as he generally does with strangers, at no cure no pay. I did not hesitate at all, on seeing so many likenesses of patients who are living evidences of the many wonderful cures he has performed in almost every kind of disease. Then he had my daguerreotype likeness taken and I took his medicine for about a year, which completely cured me. He had then my other likeness taken, and both are to be seen at his office. If this meets the eye of some wretched being in the grasp of death, as I was, let him fly to this praiseworthy philanthropist, whose deep knowledge of the vital principles which animate and move the human frame, are known in both hemispheres; and I believe from my very soul (not forgetting that I am on oath) that his exquisite genius will discover as many new and well appropriated remedies, as new diseases may be formed. THE GREAT DIGESTOR AND WIND DESTROYER.

THE most anti-flatulent Medicine ever known in the world, which cures and prevents the formation of Dyspepsia, Consumption, Disease of the Heart, Rheumatic pains, Costiveness, Liver Complaint, Pains in the Side or in the Small of the Back, Palpitation of the Heart, Headache, Sore Throat, Shortness of Breath, Gout, Cold, Cholic, and is a perfect emmenagogue. This Medicine has been invented more than a score of years ago by the French Doctor of the FRENCH MEDICAL HOUSE, 16 south Frederick street, Baltimore, when he was living in Paris as a practising physician and lecturer. He then made a chemical extraction of the juice of blossom of certain flowers, which acts wonderfully on the nervous system and re-establishes its own circulation. The Dr. has used it ever since in the above named diseases, with great success. Many persons think that the French Doctor confines his practice solely to Secret Diseases, but such is not the case; any disease whatever will be treated and cured on written guaranty and forfeiture, if desired, with strict honesty—even those given up by Regular Doctors. Persons at a distance may consult the French Doctor by letter, and have the medicine sent to them. Advice gratis.

NO MERCURY OR COPAIVA.

THERE are two ways to treat a Secret Disease, the first, so much boasted of, is merely the temporary disappearance of the symptoms, by means of mercury or copaiva, and requires but a day or two, but it is very injurious indeed; the second way is to eradicate it out of the system, slowly, safely, and surely, without Mercury or Copaiva. As the wise say—

Sound in a day or two,
'Tis too good to be true.

Thirty odd years of experience in the scientific practice of curing Secret Diseases in Paris and America, have enabled the French Doctor of the FRENCH MEDICAL HOUSE, 16 south Frederick st. near Second street, to eradicate the most virulent disease, no matter from what cause it may have originated, in a very short but reasonable time, without Mercury or Copaiva. Victims of an improper treatment, and wearied with disappointment, may confidently apply. Persons who have injured their Health by a certain practice called solitary vice, which brings impotency, will be restored to prime vigor. This is the only place in BALTIMORE where a sure cure can be had on written guaranty and forfeiture, with strict honesty, and terms moderate. The most respectable city reference will be given. ANDERSON & HUTTON.

THE NATIONAL PRESS;

A JOURNAL FOR HOME;

A Repository af Letters; A Record of Art; A Mirror of Passing Events.

To be Published every Saturday, at Two Dollars Year, in Advance.

GEORGE P. MORRIS, Editor and Proprietor.

A NUMBER of the most eminent literary persons of this country, have proposed to the undersigned to publish, under the above title,

A REFINED AND VALUABLE NEWSPAPER,

Upon a plan cembining the highest resources of National Talent with the best elements of extensive popularity, and at so trifling an annual cost as will place it within the convenient reach of

ALL CLASSES OF SOCIETY.

The control and management of this publication will form the exclusive and undivided attention of the Editor—whose long experience, ample facilities and practised care, will be exerted to select, unite and harmonise, the various skill which is willing to seek development under his direction. The

SCOPE, DESIGN AND CHARACTER OF THIS PAPER

Will differ from those of any journals heretofore established, while it will comprehend all that they contain of importance to the community. The contents will be fitted to engage the attention of the man of business, and be a source of elegant instruction and entertainment to the

DOMESTIC FIRESIDE AND FAMILY CIRCLE.

The leading characteristics of this paper will be as follows:

1. Early and Copious Intelligence of all interesting occurrences in Literature, Society, and Art, both at home and abroad.

2. A Foreign Correspondence of tried popularity and acknowledged merit has been engaged, and will be commenced with the first number.

3. Productions in fiction, romance and historical narrative; Sketches of the taste and mannees of the time; Essays, after the manner of the Tattler and Spectator, on subjects connected with social interests; biographical notices and anneedotes, literary and professional; bon-mots, epigrams, and elegant trifles of every kind; the rumors of the day, and the comments that float upon the conversation of the hour—materials of this kind will form the ordinary staple of the work.

4. The department of Criticism will exhibit a discriminating and popular survey of the Literary Productions of the day. There will be a thorough and careful chronicle of every thing of value accomplished in Painting and Sculpture, and a candid and patriotic estimate of the National productions in comparison with other countries. Such exposition of the character and special excellencies of what is exhibited in Music will be constantly given, as may lead to the more intelligent enjoyment of that most imaginative and delicate branch of the Fine Arts.

5. No original papers will appear, but those of obvious and decided merit; and the selections (which will commonly be from the foreign journals the least known in this country) will be made with the utmost attention and care.

The predominent design of the Editor is to add to the Republic of Letters a Weekly Journal, distinctly and decidedly national in tone and features, and at the same time, to avoid all connection with mere party politics. THE NATIONAL PRESS will, in brief, combine the striking and novel attractions of the newspaper, with the more abiding interest of the higher class of periodicals. It will be printed in the folio form, on large and superior paper, on a new and clear type, obtained expressly for the purpose, and will be, in its whole arrangement and details, a favorable specimen of the best typographical skill of the country. In addition to these, and as one of its most valuable peculiarities, it will be, in reference to the diversity of talent that will be employed upon it, the cheapest paper in the United States.

TERMS—Two dollars a year, or three copies for five dollars, invariably in advance.

It will be sent by mail to all parts of the United States, to the British Provinces, done up in strong wrappers, with the utmost punctuality and despatch.

Postmasters are requested to act as agents, receive subscriptions, and make remittances.

The first number will be issued on SATURDAY, the fourteenth of February next.

That a probable estimate may be formed of the number of copies that will be required, subscribers would oblige the Editor by sending in their names as early a period as possible.

Newspaper and periodical agents and newsmen supplied on liberal terms. Burgess, Stringer & Co. 222 Broadway, wholesale agents.

Subscriptions, orders, remittances, and all communications, to be addressed, post-paid, to

GEORGE P. MORRIS,
222 Broadway, corner of Ann st., New York.

☞With those Editors who copy the above Prospectus, the Editor will be most happy to exchange, and, at all times, as always heretofore, to reciprocate the liberalities and courtesies of the press.

American Magazine of Literature, Art and Fashion.

GRAHAM'S LADY'S AND GENTLEMAN'S MAGAZINE.

THE PROSPECTUS FOR 1846.

Regular Contributors.—Wm. C. Bryant, H. W. Longfellow, James Fenimore Cooper, Richard H. Dana, J. R. Lowell, E. P. Whipple, C. F. Hoffman, H. W. Herbert.

Graham's is the oldest and most popular of American Literary Magazines. The number for January, 1846, will be the first of the twenty-eighth vol. Its long and uniformly successful career, from its commencement with a few hundred subscribers, until the present time, when it has a circulation exceeding by thousands all others, is perhaps as good an evidence of its great and constantly increasing merit as the publishers have it in their power to offer. To its old subscribers, they trust, no assurances are necessary of their determination to maintain its present ascendancy over all the rival periodicals of the country. The engagement of such men as Bryant, Longfellow, Cooper, Dana, Hoffman, Mancur and others, of high reputation in the literary world, as regular contributors, in addition to a list embracing many of the first names in the nation, is a sufficient guarantee that the work will continue to be the principal medium of communication between the best authors and the public.

Besides these well known and universally popular writers, many anonymous contributors of distinguished merit furnish articles for nearly every number, and in each will be found an able letter upon the literature of Europe, from our able correspondent, F. J. Grund, Esq.

Our Elegant Paris Fashion Plates.

The splendid fashion plates, with which we shall adorn each number of 'Graham' for 1846, have already awakened the jealousy of our cotemporaries, and they show their annoyance by all manner of torture of the word 'Paris.' It seems to be both a charm and a bane to them. We have only to say that our December number contains a specimen of what 'Our Paris Fashions' are and will be, and we must trust the eyes of the public to detect the superior value of those 'designed, engraved, printed and colored at the head-quarters of the fashionable world' over the vapid imitations, which are got up here at least sixty days old, and palmed off as correct. In January we shall have a most elegant style of cloak patterns, and as it will be issued early, say by December 10th, we advise our fair readers not to spoil their material by following the blind guides of last year, but to adopt the true fashions for 1846.

Splendid Embellishments.

In the department of Engravings, it is well known that Graham's Magazine has far surpassed any periodical work ever published in this or any other country. The highest ambition of rival publishers seems thus far to have been to maintain a respectable imitation of the numerous costly and beautiful works of art with which the successive numbers of this journal have been graced: In the course of the succeeding volumes many important new features will be introduced. Sartin, the most celebrated Mezzotint Engraver in the Union, and equal of the best in Europe, will continue to furnish his exquisite productions; and Rawdon, Wright & Hatch; Smillie & Hinshelwood, and oshers, of New York; and Cheeney, Dodson, Welch & Walters, Tucker, and others, of Philadelphia, all among the most eminent Line Engravers of the present century, have been engaged to furnish a succession of highly finished steel engravings, superior to any that have hitherto appeared in periodicals.

Our Review Department

Will continue to embrace notes on current literature, etc., and reviews of all new American and foreign works of general interest or value. The criticisms of Graham's Magazine are acknowledged in all parts of this country to be superior in acumen, honesty and independence to those of any cotemporary.

TERMS.—Graham's Magazine will be published about the first of each month in every quarter of the Union. The most distant subscribers will therefore receive it on or before that day, as well as those who reside in Philadelphia. The Proprietors being more desirous of presenting the best and most beautiful than the cheapest work in the country, and anxious to bring it within the reach of all, offer the following as the lowest terms at which it can be afforded:—$3 per annum in advance for a Single Copy, or Two Copies yearly for $5; Five Copies for $10; Eight for $15, or Twelve for $20; (Clubs furnished as usual,) invariably in advance. Postage of all letters to be prepaid.
