Item. To the twenty third interrogatory deponent answers and says. "I have no recollection of George Miles claiming the lands before the commissioners, and have no knowledge of his being present at their meetings - I was with the commissioners a part of two days. I saw neither George Miles or John Williams and never heard of John Williams claiming it at that time.

Item. To the twenty fourth interrogatory deponent answers and says "I have not changed my mind" but it was put to the commissioners to divide the lands of Jane Thawbridge instead of that of William D Allen; I was present a part of two days at the division of the lands of William D Allen and saw a part of the lands run out by the surveyor, and saw the return after it was made. George Miles I think was dead at the time and if he was the suit was still depending in Chancery. I had waived it against his heirs." —

Item. To the twenty fifth interrogatory deponent answers and says. "Yes I have had conversation with John Williams on the subject of this interrogatory since my first examination —

Item. To the twenty sixth interrogatory deponent answers and says. "John Williams made no such suggestion, but asked me whether it was the commission to divide the lands of Jane Thawbridge or that of William D Allen under which the commissioners rejected the lands in dispute, that I meant and referred to in my answer to the third interrogatory of the complainant" —
