

Wm Ingot

I shipped on board of the schooner Ann Ingot she was an english vessel came out to the colonies to sell when I joined her she was bound to Melbourne we had a passenger on board and he jumped over board and was drowned we got the boat out and tried to save him but could not our old captain was a hot headed old fool he had a few words with the captain of the tug boat that towed us up the river to Melbourne and he swore that he would shoot him when he came up the river he got the wheel on deck and loaded it up to the mast the tug boat did not come up till after dark the mate had wet the powder so that when he attempted to fire it it did not go off and by the time that he had primed it again the steamer had past by that time but he fired it was dark and the steamer made such a noise that they did not hear it I left the vessel in Melbourne Melbourne

English Man

I shipped in the schooner English man of Genoa she had been bought by the captain that had her when I joined her we were bound to Manercoo New Zealand we left Melbourne in March and had a rough passage to the coast when we got on the coast we had a very heavy gale of wind and found ourselves on a lee shore and the weather very thick they were all strangers to the coast but myself I told the captain that I would take the vessel in safe if he would let me I had been aloft and had made out where we were he did not like the idea of attempting it but when our fore topsail split and he saw that he must try to run in before dark or go on shore in the night if she had all hands would have been drowned he told me to take the vessel in I took her in safe but the sea was heavy on the bar I thought she would strike but she did not we took in a cargo of timber and a few loads of spars and sailed for Melbourne we were paid after a voyage of 6 months we were paid of before she was discharged with the amount of 60 pounds english money

I stopped a short time in Melbourne then tried the Licens but did not do much I got back time enough to join the same vessel and went to Sydney where she was layed up

Lady Josklyn

I joined a steam ship the Lady Josklyn and got 12 pounds advanced I went on board but came on shore again I had to make myself scarce for a time
