
Thursday June 26. 1892

[illegible]

connected with a

of Sucker Creek. The vessel in charge of the Pilot, a Pilot Boat, came a short way, came on board, and brought me a small package from Hines, at which camp we anchored into a stream of water of Homers hole. Still the boats moved on, at 11 AM. came at 1 PM. came up and came to anchor at 5 PM. in the bottom of water in Homers hole at 7 PM. came up and stood down. I could not find the latter but finding the Hines, I was able to enter the day.

continued with a

people from the Eastward, employed the fore part getting up the River, to make rigging and working about 1000 at 6 PM and west of Charleston nearly over the Sound at about 10 PM. The Pilot left us he going on board of a Schooner, which was bound to Boston, since then as "Noble" giving the same way as up to the Eastward. mid'dle part a very heavy tempest and rather