

Scrap & Saw

"When we are young we are starvelingly employed in procuring some thing whereby we may live comfortably when we grow old; and when we are old we perceive it is too late to live as we proposed."

2nd. I could write down twenty cases; says a pious man, when I wished God had done otherwise than he did; and I saw see, and which I I wonder, had I my own, ^{will} would I not

Whaling Ship, Moses & Tucker
"Speed on thy voyage, thou, noble ship O'er waters, deserts, wide And stem as thou givest, promise to, Old Leons hearing tide."

"Thy Captain is of old Bethunes Son Thou hast a gallant crew
And whatever men have done before They will not think to do."

"Thy track is laid midst dangerous seas Perils are on thy path And thou must face the Hurricane And brave the tempest weather"

"Each wave may drive thy caken side Each blast may sail thy main And to the storm rising in his might Thy lofty masts must bend."

"But barely bent the waters back Raise still thy spars on high And stoutly keep thy gallant crew Till all dangers shall pass by."

"Thy voyage completed hasten home Speed swifter every mile Return & bring to anxious hearts A cargo of good He, Good He."
We to you will remember for his claims are less
And all your proceedings a pleasure confess Each level you take be it from the sea But above the sea place where Lydia may be

The Enjoyment of Occupation to gem.

The mind requires some object on which its powers must be exercised, and without which it pays upon itself & becomes miserable. The person accustomed to a life of activity longs for ease and retirement; and when he has accomplished this purpose, finds himself much dissatisfied. The pleasure of relaxation is known to those only who have regular and interesting occupation. Continued relaxation soon becomes a weariness; and, on this ground, we may safely assert that the greatest degree of real enjoyment belongs not to the luxurious man of wealth, or the listless votary of fashion; but to the middle classes of society, who, along with the comforts of life, have constant and interesting occupation, Justice Recorder

Needless, & insult soon enters the breach Select Home is man's ark when trouble springs,
When gathering tempests shade the Missouri;
And women love the bird that brings His peace branch over a flood of sorrow
