

which I have written I will send and if they think them dry burn them and not read I think ingratitude from some of them almost intolerable why Susan do you lay such stress on my writing to your sisters but after this I shall write I shall to no one but you and my owners I felt out hurt yesterday in reading your letter in many instances and when I get home I want to take it over and then see if I am chargeable that but be assured that whatever is you may write will never lead me into hardness to you you no my heart to well Susan to doubt my affection and to think that I willingly neglect you is wrong you no when with you I always wish your happiness and would to god your circumstances were such that you could be more happily situated I do long to be with you as much as you wish for my company and I hope in future to spend more of my time with you all those days of happiness are a sweet treasure to me and Oh Susan how I want to be once more be in those fond arms and follow my head on the bosom of her that loves me can you imagin the many times I have laid on your bosom and told you it was the only earthly happiness I wish, I can say with you all my former happiness lay with you
