

JANUARY, THURSDAY I. 1891.

B. 8. Mild but damps

Spent yesterday evening at Capt Palmer's at a social gathering, my family, Fannie & her two children, Martha & Rose with me, left for home at 1 $\frac{1}{4}$ A.M. and arrived home at 2 o'clock, having partaken of a elegant social amusement & enjoyed much pleasure. The whole company was much pleased.

We enter upon the new year with faith & hope for a prosperous year, with grateful acknowledgments to Almighty God for His past goodness; also with humble prayers for His special blessings and favors during the year just begun.

His Mercy endureth forever. Amen!

A good motto for the new year. Oh Lord keep me in mind of all my life! "Do all the good you can, to all the people you can, in all the ways you can, as long as ever you can."
