A NEW STRAWBERRY.

The "Marshall."

THREE THOUSAND baskets of berries picked on one-third acre last year. The berries are very large size, fourteen filling a basket. Color, very dark crimson throughout; fine flavor and fine grain, and good keeper, which commends it for garden or market purposes. Plants very vigorous; stands from twenty to twenty-two inches high; blossoms perfect; foliage sufficient to protect blossoms from frost.

I think these testimonials from disinterested persons would be enough to convince the public that my statement is true.

Will sell a limited amount of plants at TEN DOLLARS PER DOZEN.

When parties are not acquainted, all orders must be accompanied by cash.

The only place that these plants can be procured is of the originator,
