to overthrow and re-open my administration of your Father's wills. It will be opened upon the assumption that sufficient exertions have not been made during your Mother's life time to sell the ripe & mature timber.

I have kept every receipt & paper connected with the administration and have no apprehension of the result which will be in my favor but the delay, vexation, expense and angry feeling elicited by law suit will be great.

You state in your note that when I come over in the spring we can fall on some plan to settle the matter. If I were to live till doomsday I could not fall on any plan better than that stated to you, and I therefore see no reason for putting off the settlement.

If subsequent reflection should convince you of the correctness of my views, I wish you would go to Mr. Brown give in your adhesion to the plan and have the matter settled at once.

Very truly Yours.
J. H. Dunn

Should you do so, get a short Paper drawn up and signed by the parties interested agreeing to the mode of settlement and send it to me to be approved ——
