REPORT--Highlights Of Eastern Seaboard

Maritae's Luncheon A Holiday In Mink

175 from 10 cities attend

BALTIMORE

Town ladies will simply have to turn to sable or sump'n!

When 150-plus of 175 guests turn out in mink at one party (even if it is the avowed "party of the year") something has to give. It has to give if only to curb the eye-balling.

You've probably guessed by this time that the party referred to here was the bridge luncheon given by the Maritae Club, Saturday...and which brought out platinum plated matrons from 10 cities.

It was a mighty lush affair.. held in the Reisterstown Road Blue Crest Inn. Champagne and hors d'oeuvres in the cocktail room...luncheon in the main dining room...followed by cards, in turn followed by the awarding of prizes that ran from silver trays and pitchers to flossy perfumes and wine sets.

And then on to an after-party in the pretty Barrington Road home of Dr. and Mrs. Albert Burwell. The latter, supper and all, ran into the early morn...entertained principally the husbands of the members and their out-of-town guests, along with a few local guests.

In the first place, the Maritae set the fashion pace. Catherine Adams' empire sack with its over skirt at back in olive green, was accessorized with a wig of tiny leaves in multi shades of the green, and shoes and bag in several shades of green.

Also wearing green (Kelly) was Marie Hicks, whose dressmaker suit had an empire band of matching satin, with a blouse of the same underpinning including the swoop brimmed hat, were also green.

Bea Butler wore black, the top of the frock being lace was under set in pink. Her off-the-face hat of black velvet had a swag of flowers at the left.

Etta Phifer wore a frock draped to the fore, with a fluffy feather hat; and Helen Burwell, in black, emphasized her tiny waist with a lifted Empire line. A flat rose velvet bow made her hat;

Mae Adams' black frock, an extreme empire, was draped in front to form a swag near the hemline, and with a huge rose swinging the eye to the high bust line. Yvette Murphy, in a print of earth tones, wore a mink whimsey (her hat) a narrow tiara of mink beset with lace and bugle beads.

And Ethel Rich's brilliant green print was highlighted with an equally brilliant deep-brimmed hat in autumn orange.

And speaking of the mink... other than that warehouse lot parked in the cloak room...the guests did interesting things with the fur.

Jeanette Christmas' lovely dark brown frock had it's picture frame neckline outlined in bands of the staff. Hilda Higgins wore a mink beret above her fitted sheer black wool that had three shades of brown outlining the blouse top and Bernadine Harrison's blouson suit in beige had a collar of mink.. and a broad band of the fur topped the tall, tall hat worn by Lillian Berry...who matched the tan tone to her frock of wool, cented with huge buttons down the back.

As I said, the party drew guests from 10 cities, including:

Fannie Jones, flew out from Los Angeles, Calif. (she's the former Fannie Martin and a sister of this town's Mattie Connor), Alice Hayes from Niagara Falls, Bernie Austin from New York and Marie Vidal from St. Albans, L.I.

Lee Moron (she's the wife of Hampton's president) came from Hampton, Va., Iris Richards from Hempstead, L.I., and a group from Washington, including Nollie Murchison, Catherine Morros, Blanche Jordan, Jane Rich, Ruth Shipley, Addie Garvin, Myrtle Phillips and Ivy Bourne.

An equally large group was from Annapolis, among them being Betty Henson, Vandola King, Dr. Fay Allen and Eloise Richardson. Betty Clayton came down from Coatesville, Shirley Phillips and Frances McAdams from Harrisburg and Gwendolyn Henson from Frederick, Md.

REGISTRATION DRIVE—Mrs. Mildred Ross, right, became the 125th person to register to vote in the Fifth District Newark, N.J., as a result of a door-to-door vote registration campaign by a South Ward Group. Looking on are Mrs. Florence Kunzmann, a clerk at the Essex County Hall of Records, and Samuel Tucker, Fifth District County Committeeman and corresponding secretary of the Essex County Democratic Organization.

WASHINGTON REPORT

Describes annual meeting of B.P. and W. in Jersey

By PEARLIE COX HARRISON

NEWARK

The National Association of Negro Business and Professional Women's Clubs Inc., was holding its 23rd annual national convention at the Essex Hotel, October, 9, 10, 11, 1958.

• • •

THE so-worthy theme was "Action Builds Confidence." And not one speaker, or even one non-program-participating member showed any lack of confidence (and rightly). For each in her own way (whether teacher, grocer, barber, hotel owner, tavern-keeper, nurse, church worker, caterer, mortician, lawyer, doctor, dentist, real estate dealer or broker, jeweler; whether serving as a deputy sheriff, or ornamenting the home of the Essex County Coroner) hadn't been idling the hours away. But instead, Action, Action, Action, had marked her way through the years!

Mrs. Marie L. Harrison, Pennsylvania-born, educated in Port Allegheny, Pa., and at Miner Teachers College, Washington, D.C., is the national president of the National Association of PBW.

She is known in Washington, having taught there two years. Mrs. Harrison is currently serving as assistant director, Community Services, Welfare Federation, Newark, N.J.

And in keeping with the Convention Theme, she is building more and more confidence by being an active member of 14 or more community, state and national organizations.

• • •

AMONG HER main interests is doing what she can to help combat juvenile delinquency, so President Harrison said in her message to the group, "Behavior has a reason in adolescence as in other periods."

"Parents are urged to try to understand why their teen-agers are behaving as they are, and they are reminded that the real causes may not always be readily apparent, but sometimes take both insight and an imaginative approach."

"Parents often need to have some understanding of their own reactions because not infrequently, parental attitudes may be helping to create and intensify the unhappy situation."

The North Jersey Branch of BPW, Mrs. Ethel M. Moore, head, made an ever so gracious hostesses for the occasion.

Said Mrs. Moore, efficient, dignified, yet glamourous too: "We are mindful of the tremendous challenge offered in our convention theme, and welcome the opportunity to share in a program designed to develop greater understanding and appreciation for women in business and the professions; to coordinate our efforts towards equal rights and better opportunities for our youth; develop strong, efficient, inspiring leadership; give greater service to our individual communities and to the world."

• • •

MRS. MOORE was at one time connected with the great AFRO AMERICAN Newspaper chain. Maybe she got some of her poise and talking-knowhow from her AFRO chores.

Said Hugh J. Addonizio (11th Congressional District):

"You represent one of the greatest reservoirs of constructive leadership in our American democracy. Your contributions to a greater America in many fields are an inspiration to all women and to the whole nation."

Through arrangements made by Mrs. Marjorie Van Dyke, vice president and program chairman of the local club, a warm welcome to the City and best wishes for the success of the convention were extended to the BPW by Mayor Leo P. Carlin on the steps at City Hall.

THERE WERE parties honoring, not only President Harrison, but the heads of branches in half of these United States. There were breakfasts, brunches, "sips" and "sups" with D.C.'s Lloyd (Ballentine) Genus;

Jersey City NAACP opens campaign for 500 memberships

If You Ask Me

People, places and things...

BALTIMORE

Lamar Davis, manager of the Keene Funeral Home in Philly, and his fiancee, Miss Leila P. Harrison, were returning from a two-week vacation in Florida when a car driven by a Hawaiian soldier jumped the lane and crashed head-on into them on Saturday.

Miss Harrison is dead and Mr. Davis is confined to his Philly home. They had driven all the way to Florida without any trouble and then just 80 miles from Philly on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge here in Maryland came the fatal crash.

The soldier, Specialist Cleatus Hulon, stationed at Ft. Meade, was also killed.

Elks' Grand Exalted Ruler Robert H. Johnson is resting comfortably. He had his right eye removed at a Philadelphia hospital last week. Remember he suffered cuts above the eye when he fell in his bathtub last March?

If they give honors to the luckiest woman in the city, Mrs. O. St. Clair Franklin (Hyla) would be in the running. Her husband, who is pastor of Mt. Zion Methodist Church, commented the other day: 'I do all the cooking in my house except on Saturday and Sunday.

"She's out every day helping me (she is a stenog at Aberdeen). She leaves home at 6:30 in the morning and doesn't get back until six in the evening, so I think she should sit down when she comes home."

And that's a husband who will get a loud 'amen' from many a housewife.

On Wednesday when this reporter talked with the Rev. Mr. Franklin he had made two pies and was out and about his ministerial duties before 9:30 in the morning. He added:

"I also take care of the downstairs, and she takes care of the upstairs. The boys do the dishes, but since it is a dishwasher, we go behind them..."

Nothing like cooperation of this kind to make things run smoothly in a home where both mom and dad work.

Fifty members of the Sphinx Club leave Saturday afternoon for Detroit to see the Colts-Lions football game.

They will occupy three coaches and make their headquarters at the Gotham Hotel. Will return to Baltimore on Monday.

Visitor in our town this week: Maurice Williams, Richmond, Va. high school teacher.

He is here while his son, Junius, undergoes a throat operation at Children's Memorial Hospital. Is staying at the home of Mrs. Mary Jane Brown, 1804 W. North Ave.

Mrs. Williams, also a Richmond teacher, will join him at the youngster's bedside this weekend.

Birthdays, anniversaries...

Birthday cards by Oct. 18 to another beloved lady in our town — Miss Hattie Tilghman. Her address: 2218 Druid Hill Ave.

More lovely ladies celebrating birthdays: Mrs. Emma H. Brown, 500 Dolphin St., on Oct. 19; Mrs. Stetson D. Wilson (Gertrude), 523 N. Calhoun St. on Oct. 20.

October 20th hellos also to Vernon Hutchins.

P. O. worker Charles Blake, 2418 McCulloh St., celebrates on October 21.

Celebrating their birthdays at the Garrison Lounge on Tuesday evening were Drs. M. L. Barksdale, Percival Smith, Louis E. Harmon and Jether Jones, all of whom were born on Oct. 14 or 15. They get together every year.

Get well card to Mrs. Ruth J. Poole — she's secretary to Mrs. Katie Williams, the mortician.

Mrs. Poole was confined to Johns Hopkins Hospital last Thursday so send your cheer there.

Mrs. Samuel Daniels (Gladys) underwent a minor eye operation on Wednesday.

Say a special prayer for Mrs. Margaret Wilson (widow of Dr. Marion E. Wilson.) She is seriously ill at her home, 2628 Longwood St., where she has been confined for two weeks.

Friends of Mrs. Viola Boyd (2130 W. Mulberry St.), will be glad to know that she has been fitted for a leg and is able to be out.

Mrs. Boyd is well known as supervisor of the Mt. Olive nurses of the Mt. Olive Beneficial Association.

Two years ago: Oct. 20, 1956 — beautiful Frederick Douglass statue was dedicated on Morgan State College campus.

The bronze statue which honors one of Maryland's most distinguished sons, stands on a granite pedestal between Holmes Hall and the Sopher Library, with the eyes of Douglass turned to face across the campus.

It is eight feet tall and weighs 1,600 pounds.

The statue was given to the college by the Maryland Education Association. It was the work of James E. Lewis, head of the Morgan art department and a native Marylander himself.

More people and things...

The T. Shelton Coleses (Marjorie) are in New York to bury his mother, Mrs. Pearl Shelton Coles, who died suddenly Tuesday morning. She was 81.

Her daughter, Mrs. Herman Robinson (Erostine) found she had suffered a heart attack while sitting in a chair. When doctors arrived 15 minutes later, she was dead.

You can write or call or send condolences to the Coleses in care of Mrs. Robinson at 2017 Glenwood Rd., Brooklyn, 10, N.Y.

Baltimore friends of the Coleses will remember that his mother divided her time between Baltimore and Brooklyn. She was here this past summer ...had been in Brooklyn since September.

Another sudden death which has shocked the community of Highlands in Howard County:—that of 72-year-old Harold Wilson, respected and beloved lifetime resident.

He was found slumped over on the ground where he had gone to chop some wood.

Neighbors who knew him well recall that all his life — even during hard times — Mr. Wilson was able to find work and keep busy.

He was a carpenter by trade. 'He often said, he was always busy, never was content with doing a little. He will certainly be missed in this neighborhood. He was beloved by all' is the way one neighbor put it.

Older residents will remember that Mr. Wilson was the brother-in-law of the Rev. Theodore Jackson of Baltimore.

His first wife was the former Gertrude Jackson, who died 34 years ago.

He is survived by his second wife, the former Sadie Bentley; a son, Ervin; a brother, Kenneth, and seven grandchildren.

Funeral services were Thursday afternoon at the Hopkins Chapel AME Church.

There is a Cole for State Senate and a Jones for State Senate sign in the same front window!!

Catholic churches throughout the city are draped in black out of respect to Pope Pius, who was buried on Monday.

Ralph Finney parading with sign outside Food Fair in Mondawmin Thursday and attracting the curious.

Sign read "I have administrative and executive ability. I am a former captain in the U.S. Army looking for a job."

Testimonial luncheon on Oct. 23 at 1 p.m. honors Judge Charles E. Moylan of Juvenile Court, and it couldn't happen to a finer person.

Event is set for Boys Village at Cheltenham, Md.

It will be held at Moylan Cottage, named in his honor.

Try to get a taxi in Northwest Baltimore during the busy afternoon hours and you'll support the move to urge the Public Service Commission to license more taxis.

We stood at Druid Hill Ave. and McMechen St. a good 15 minutes on Tuesday afternoon to no avail.

But thanks to a passing driver, we reached our destination.

Mrs. Charlotte Mebane passed, saw our dilemma and the load of papers we carried and honked until we understood she was trying to attract our attention, proving that people are kind. By the way, Mrs. Mebane had been ailing, but is doing nicely and looking chic as can be.

NEW RESIDENTS of Woodhaven Avenue, thanks to U.S. Realty include:

The Hurley C. Hanleys (he's at the VA Hospital and she's on the Hopkins staff) are at 4021. Next door to them (4023) are the William Durants (he's a master sergeant in the National Guard) she's a RN.

At 4033 is Earl Brooks Jr., he's with the family drycleaning firm.

Thoughts of the week...

"In the dealings I have had with human problems over the past 30 years, I have become more and more convinced that what the individual does with a calamity or a bad break usually determines what he will do with his life." — Dr. Norman Vincent Peale.

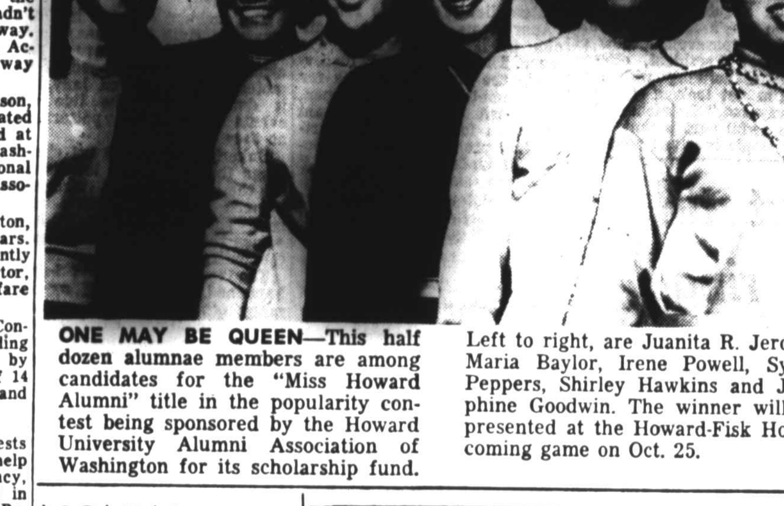
Give me, amidst the confusion of my day, the calmness of the everlasting hills. Break the tension of my nerves and muscles with the soothing music of the singing streams that live in my memory.

Help me to know the magical restorative power of sleep. Teach me the art of taking Minute Vacations... of slowing down to look at a flower, to chat with a friend, to pat a dog, to read a few lines from a good book.

Remind me each day of the fable of the hare and the tortoise, that I may know that the race is not to the swift; that there is more to life than increasing its speed.



ONE MAY BE QUEEN—This half dozen alumnae members are among candidates for the "Miss Howard Alumni" title in the popularity contest being sponsored by the Howard University Alumni Association of Washington for its scholarship fund. Left to right, are Juanita R. Jerome, Maria Baylor, Irene Powell, Sylvia Peppers, Shirley Hawkins and Josephine Goodwin. The winner will be presented at the Howard-Fisk Homecoming game on Oct. 25.

NCNW make plans for exposition

ORANGE — The Oranges-Maplewood Council of the National Council of Negro Women met at Friendship House here Monday and made plans for the fall season. Miss Garnette V. Henderson, president, presided.

Mrs. Deanna Mentor, program chairman, presented the group with an extensive program for the year, which included the attendance of council members at the Women's International Exposition in New York from Nov. 3 to 9.

Councils of Region I will participate in the Exposition.

The Oranges-Maplewood Council will celebrate United Nations Day on Oct. 26 with a dessert forum at Friendship House, 141 Parrow St., from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. The public is invited.

Plans are also afoot for members to attend the annual convention of the National Council in Washington Nov. 9 to 16.

Mrs. Mentor is also working with her committee on plans for the Council's Founder's Day observance in December.

Mrs. Blondine Bruce, chairman of the membership committee, presented new members to the Council meeting.

Parliament member speaks at dinner

WASHINGTON

There will be a dinner meeting at Washington Fellowship House, 945 L St., NW. on Tuesday, Oct. 21 at 6 p.m.

The speaker will be Manoah Chirwa who has served as parliament member from Nyasaland to the Central African Parliament.

These are some of the questions that will be answered by Mr. Chirwa:

Will the Federation evolve quickly enough toward equality to head off extremism? Is there another South Africa or Kenya in the making? Or will the Federation forge its way toward democracy? Can the United States contribute to democracy in Central Africa?

Mr. Chirwa is touring the United States under the auspices of the American Committee on Africa.

RICHMOND REPORT

Mrs. Burrell hostess to local chapter of Dejouirs

By GRACE M. PLEASANTS

The Richmond Chapter of Dejouirs held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Andris Burrell. Two new members, Mesdames Marietta D. Teele and Betti Whitlock, were welcomed into the club.

Following the business session the members played pinochle, with the first prize going to Mrs. Inez Johnson and the second to Mrs. Frances Hayes.

Members present were Mesdames Andris Burrell, Claudelia Clarke, Florence Cooper, Frances Hayes, Inez Johnson, Joyce Melton; Trudy Lee, and LaVerne Reese.

Guests present were Mrs. Pauline C. Frazier and Mrs. Mary M. Neal.

MR. AND MRS. MARSHALL Reese are the proud parents of a baby girl, Marsha Johneal, who was born at the Richmond Memorial Hospital. The proud father is director of the Whitcomb Housing Project, and the mother is on leave as art teacher at Armstrong High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Kearney Teele are also bursting with joy at the birth of a baby daughter, Tamela, who made her debut at the Richmond Memorial Hospital. The mother, the former Marietta Davis, and baby are doing well.

Recent visitors to the city were Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Webb, Dr. and Mrs. Brennie Hackley, of Edgewood, Md., Mrs. Audrey Hurst and Arthur L. Keating of Washington. All of them were the houseguests of Mrs. Hackley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Battle of North Thirty-third Street.

Mrs. Hackley, who was the former Miss Ethel Battle of this city, is employed as a chemist in the Toxocology Division, U.S. Army Chemical Warfare Center in Edgewood.

Her husband, a native of Roanoke, who holds a Ph.D. in chemistry from the University of Delaware, is employed as assistant chief of the Chemotherapy branch, U.S. Army Chemical Warfare Laboratory at the Army Chemical Center in Edgewood.

The visitors were in Richmond accompanying Mr. Webb to Fort Lee where he will be studying for two months in the distribution management course at the Army Logistics Management Center.

PHILLY REPORT

Philly United Nations' Week stars Marian Anderson

By BARBARA PRIGMORE

It will present Miss Marian Anderson, member, U.S. Delegation to the United Nations and Roger N. Baldwin, U.N. Representative of the International League for the Rights of Man, at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel Friday, Oct. 24, at 12 noon.

Mayor Richardson Dilworth is official host of the brilliant luncheon, and Edgar Scott, chairman of the United Nations Week Committee.

The city of Philadelphia, the Board of Trade and Conventions, International House of Philadelphia, the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia will sponsor a reception for foreign students that same night.

This is in celebration of the 13th anniversary of the United Nations, the 10th anniversary of the Declaration of Human Rights and closing of the exhibit on the Brussels Fair at the Commercial Museum, Trade and Convention Center, 34th St. and Convention Ave.

The Philadelphia Urban League Guild was officially organized with the inspiring address delivered by Lester B. Granger, executive director of the National Urban League on Saturday afternoon at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

In the beautiful Crystal Room, Miss Natalie Hinderas, chairman of the Philadelphia Urban League Guild's sponsoring committee, was mistress of ceremonies.

Mrs. Mollie Moon, president of the National Urban League Guilds, gave a vivid picture of the programs of the 34 guilds in the 62 communities in which there are Urban Leagues, which range in size from 15 to one hundred and fifty members.

The activities of Urban League Guilds include:

Art shows, public relations programs, providing speakers bureau to interpret the work of the Urban League, forums, addressed by outstanding national personalities.

"Suggested role of the Guild in Philadelphia" is to acquaint thousands of persons here in Philadelphia with the Urban League's program and activities in such fields as job placement, housing, health and welfare.

Two other types of activity, designed to enhance the work of the Philadelphia League — fund raising through sponsorship of social events; second, the sponsorship of educational and cultural projects.

An inter-cultural group of 150 charter members and guests, representing outstanding civic, educational and social clubs attended the luncheon.

Mayor Dilworth sent greetings thru Mrs. Evelyn Tremmer, director of the Philadelphia Youth Services Board. Miss Louise Parker, internationally known soloist sang brilliantly accompanied by John Cooper.

Mrs. Ennis L. Powell, member of the Board of Directors of the Urban League of Philadelphia, introduced Mrs. Moon, extolling her successful leadership as president of the Council of Guilds.

Lewis J. Carter Jr., executive director of the Urban League of Philadelphia expressed his appreciation that Lester B. Granger was here to initiate the history making launching of an Urban League Guild; that his enthusiasm and wide experience in the field would exhilarate the program in our city.

Mrs. Sadie T. M. Alexander, widely known in the field of human relations and inter-group activities, assisted on the Guild's sponsoring committee, as a member of the national board of directors of the National Urban League.

FRESHMAN AT ALLEN—Nineteen-year-old Robert Allen Joe, who stands 4 feet 8 inches and weighs 75 pounds, explains some chemical problems to two of his pretty classmates, Perlean Amaker of Columbia, S.C. and Audrey Weaver of Moncks Corner, S.C. Joe is reported to have an IQ of 150.

Ga. vote unit to meet Sat.

ATLANTA — Only six of Georgia's 159 counties have no colored registered voters and only 24 have less than 100.

These and other significant facts will be presented in an analysis of registration to the Georgia Voters League when it meets in Macon, Saturday in Steward Chapel AME Church at 1 p.m.

The Statewide Registration Committee, under direction of John Welsey Dobbs, president of the League, has conducted two annual registration campaigns throughout most of the state.

The committee will cite organizations which have helped to achieve an increase in the number of registered voters from 158,051 to some 162,000, in spite of heavy purges, in the two years.

The annual election will be held in Macon and statewide officers will be selected for the year.

Former D.C. schoolboy with Tigers

DETROIT — Maurice (Sonny) Wills, one-time all-around athlete at Armstrong High School in Washington, D. C., last week was purchased by the Detroit Tigers.

Wills, a pitcher when he was signed into the Brooklyn Dodgers farm system, has since developed into an infielder, playing second base, third and shortstop. Last year, at Spokane in the Pacific Coast League, Sonny hit .253. At Seattle the previous season, he was a .267 hitter.

His purchase last week brought the Tigers their second tan player. Ossie Virgil played some third base with the Detroit club in 1958.

At the time that the deal was closed with Spokane, Wills was playing winter ball with Maracaibo in Venezuela.

5th District has most voters

BALTIMORE

The Fifth Legislative District has the largest number of colored registered voters of any of the city's six districts.

A total of 29,295 colored voters in the latest figures released is listed for the Fifth District by the office of the Supervisors of Elections.

These voters total 26 per cent of the entire registration for the district and represent an increase of seven percent from 1956 when colored voting strength was listed as 18,774.

• • •

THE HEAVIEST concentration of colored voters is in the 16th ward where the total is 16,043 as compared to 6,167 white voters.

This is the area bounded roughly by Fremont Ave., Edmondson Ave., the Old Western City Line and the tracks of the Maryland Railroad.

This is the same ward in which colored registration has increased by 934 since September of 1958.

The breakdown for the 5th District shows the number of colored Democrats, Republicans declined, and the increase of colored voters since Sept. 1, 1958 and the number of white voters by wards.

5th Leg. Dist. — Sept. 22, 1958

Ward	Colored Dem.	Rep.	Dec.	Total Col.	Col. Inc. Since Sept. 1st	Total White
15th	3827	1926	163	5916	436	14,661
16th	9630	6097	316	16,043	934	6167
19th	736	564	28	1328	31	84
20th	3663	1829	93	5585	396	13,532
27th	391	187	12	391	1	28,425
28th	16	14	2	32	8	18,758
Totals	18,064	10,617	614	29,295	1826	81,627

The Fourth District has 28,135 registered colored voters, who constitute 54.6 percent of the total registered vote in that district.

The Fifth District has 1160 more colored registered than the Fourth, but the Fifth District is so large that colored voters make up only 26 percent of the total.

Politics: 2 colored on 5th Dist. GOP slate

By MAX JOHNSON

BALTIMORE

The Republicans have two colored candidates on their ticket for General Assembly seats in the city's Fifth Legislative District where Jack Pollack also wants to be boss.

Mrs. Lois Hurdle, a housewife, of 613 Ashburton St., and Elmer O. Harris, a real estate agent, of 1411 W. Lanvale St., are seeking House of Delegates seats.

Heading this district's Republican slate of General Assembly candidates is Miss Charlotte W. Main, former police court magistrate, who is running for the State Senate.

Frank Miller, Charles Wagandt, Ray Weldon and Manuel Wood are the other GOP hopefuls seeking election to the House of Delegates seats on November 4.

• • •

THE OPPOSING Democrats have State Senator Philip H. Goodman up for re-election, and heading the district's candidates for the General Assembly.

Carl W. Bacharach, Maurice Cardin, Marvin Mandel and Edgar P Silver are incumbents seeking House of Delegates seats.

Alan M. Resnick and Alexander Stark are Democrats making their first bids for election to this body.

• • •

THE FIFTH DISTRICT, in size, is the second largest of the city's six legislative districts. The Third District is larger.

Latest Supervisors of Elections figures show a total of 110,922 citizens registered as voters in the district.

Of these, 29,295—26 per cent—are colored, and 81,627 are white.

Colored registered voters have increased by 10,521 in this district since 1956.

As of the past July 26 when there were 26,908 registered colored citizens in this district, 10,067 were Republicans; 16,254 were Democrats, and 587 were listed as independents.

• • •

THE FIFTH DISTRICT covers the major portions of the western, northwestern and southwestern section of the city.

It includes 1 to 20th precincts of the 15th Ward; all of the 16th Ward; 2nd and 3rd precincts of the 19th Ward; the 20th Ward; 78 to 105 precincts of the 27th Ward, and the 28th Ward.

Colored citizens more heavily populate the eastern sectors of the 15th and 20th Wards, and almost all of the 16th Ward.

The coalition movement is said to confine its activities to the Fourth District.

In the Fifth District where Jack Pollack has challenged the leadership of Phil Goodman, there has been some reported activities of colored leaders choosing sides.

The majority of those noted to date have expressed support of Senator Goodman's faction.

Savannah State downs Morris

SAVANNAH, Ga., — Savannah State College defeated the Morris College Hornets, 28-14, here Friday night.

During the first quarter, the Tigers were bothered by fumbles but the Tide turned when Ulysses Stanley found a hole in the Hornet line and ran 45 yards for a touchdown.

The second score resulted from a pass from Ulysses Stanley to the right halfback Moses King. King also ran the conversion his second for the night.

Morris struck back with the quarterback Julian Brown tossing to Johnny Fellows for a 15-yard touchdown, but Savannah prevented a conversion try by blocking a pass. The score at halftime was 16-6.

The Tigers tallied early in the second half.

King recovered a fumble and ran 45 yards for the third touchdown. This was followed three plays later by another touchdown by Stanley.

Bishop routs Smith, leads Gulf Coast

MARSHALL, Texas. — Paced by a fast and hard-charging line that swept the opposition off its feet, the Bishop College Tigers of Coach Dwight Fisher ran roughshod over Philander-Smith College in their second conference contest Saturday afternoon. The final score was 49-12.

The Tigers now lead the Gulf Coast Conference with two victories and no defeats. They defeated Dillard, last year's champions 12-6 last week.

Texan, 67, slays his estrange wife

HOUSTON, Tex. (NNPA) — While the rest of Acres Home slept early Monday, two of its aged citizens were working over time to end each other's life, according to sheriff's records.

The older of the two, a 67-year-old man, succeeded in snuffing out the life of his 62-year old mate in their home. He claimed self-defense.

Bullets fired from a pistol in the hands of Edgar Goree tore through the body of Mrs. Annie Rose Goree, who died clutching a huge dirk in her hands, ending a period of domestic turmoil, according to police.

Sheriff's deputies said Mr. Goree and his wife had been separated for seven weeks before the fatal shooting took place.

New 'Porgy' film set record size

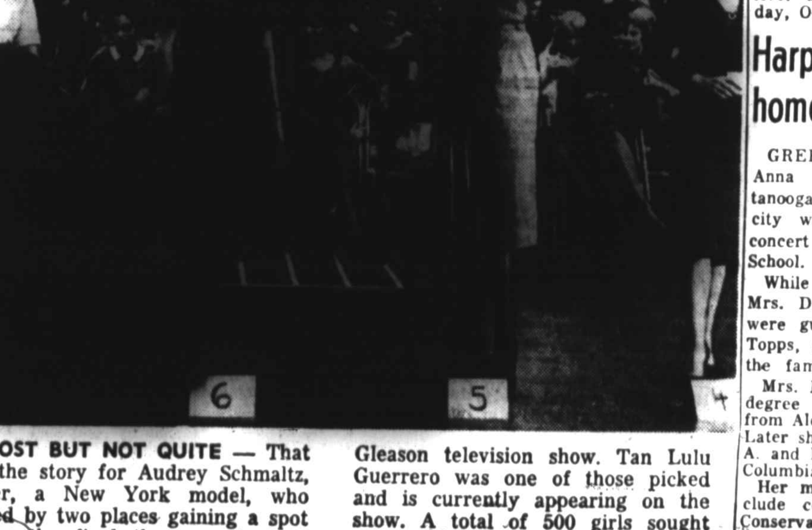
HOLLYWOOD—The Catfish Row set, rebuilt since the fire that destroyed the original on stage 8, at the Samuel Goldwyn studios here, is the largest indoor set ever built. The Catfish row and Charleston wharf sets combine to cover more than 26,000 square feet.

Catfish row itself is 108 feet square and the adjoining street and wharf extend an additional 140 feet. The main buildings are 31 feet high.

Tuskegee student on college TV program

TUSKEGEE INST. (ANP)—Josephine Merritt, Tuskegee Institute sophomore from Philadelphia, appeared on a TV panel of students from colleges and universities throughout the nation Sunday, over Station WMAL-TV, Washington, D.C.

This program, known as The College News Conference," featured each year, brings together a cross-section of student opinion on current issues in higher education. They exchanged views with guest speaker, Fred A. Seaton, secretary of interior.



ALMOST BUT NOT QUITE — That was the story for Audrey Schmaltz, center, a New York model, who missed by two places gaining a spot among the final three entries for glamour girl assignments on the Jackie Gleason television show. Tan Lulu Guerrero was one of those picked and is currently appearing on the show. A total of 500 girls sought recognition as one of the celebrated "Gleason Girls."

AUGUSTA NOTES:

Two priests join Miss. Catholic congregation

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss. — (ANP)—Two colored priests, Fathers Joseph R. Nearon and Robert S. Pittman, are the first members of their race to join the congregation of the Most Blessed Sacrament, one of the many religious orders for Roman Catholic priests, the magazine "Catholic Messenger" reported here.

Father Nearon was the first to join the order in 1950 pronouncing perpetual vows in 1955. Father Pittman also joined in 1950 but did not pronounce vows until 1957.

A NATIVE of Yonkers, N. Y., Faher Nearon was born Dec. 4, 1928. After receiving a B.A. degree in philosophy from Manhattan College, he entered St. Joseph's Seminary, Cleveland, O. and completed his priestly studies in Rome, Italy, where he was ordained on Oct. 30, 1955. He has a degree in studying for the doctorate in canon law and is currently studying for the doctorae in the same branch at Gregorian University in Rome.

Father Pittman, a native of Washington, entered St. Augustine's Seminary here in 1945 and later completed additional studies at St. Joseph's. In 1957 he went to Rome to complete his theological studies at the Angelicum University, and is still there. He was ordained a priest in Rome on July 13, 1958.

Significantly, Father Pittman said his first mass before the altar in the Basilica of St. Mary Major, where the late Pope Pius XII celebrated his first mass as a newly ordained priest.

CORE backs pupils' march on capital

The Committee on Racial Equality(CORE) has endorsed a Youth March for Integrated Schools scheduled for Oct. 25, according to Troy Brailey, head of the local organizing committee.

Groups from all over the nation are expected to send bus loads of children to Washington and the children will march down Pennsylvania Ave. past the White House in protest over treatment of southern colored children in schools under integration orders.

In Baltimore, several groups including the Almagamated Clothing Workers have agreed to provide buses, Mr. Brailey said.

A special public meeting of the group will be held at Bethel AME Church, Druid Hill Ave. and Lanvale St., Tuesday, Oct. 21, at 7:30 p.m.

Harpist plays for hometown people

GREENWOOD, Miss. —Mrs. Anna Lee Patton of Chattanooga, Tenn., a native of this city was presented in harp concert at Broad Street High School.

While in the city, Dr. and Mrs. David Patton and son were guests of Mrs. M. T. Topps, a life-long friend of the family.

Mrs. Patton holds the A. B. degree with major in piano from Alcorn A. and M. College. Later she studied at Tennessee A. and I. State University and Columbia University.

Her more recent studies include courses at the Cadek Conservatory of Music under Ann Grayson Smith, harpist with the Chattanooga Opera Association.

FARMER OF THE YEAR — Foy Lee Callen, left, of Dothan, Ala., shows two extension service officials a cup awarded him a few months ago as the "Farmer of the Year of Houston County." His youngest son, 10-year-old Jesse Franks, shows off his 4-H pig trophy also. The extension workers are C. A. Williams, center, acting state leader and Mrs. Mildred M. Ward, home agent.

Love is love until colors get mixed

SPARTANBURG, S.C. — The love affair of a blonde 17-year-old girl and her 29-year-old boyfriend was thwarted in General Sessions Court Tuesday, with both drawing maximum sentences.

Judge Steve C. Griffith sentenced the girl, who is expecting a child, and the boyfriend, Joseph Adams, to one year in prison and a $500 fine.

Both were convicted on morals charges. The girl's sentence, however, was suspended.

• • •

THE COURT ordered her confined in a home for unwed mothers until after her baby is born.

Following her release from the home she is to remain under court jurisdiction for further action.

Solicitor J. Allen Lambright told the court he considered the case "unfortunate and lamentable... at this time when the situation in the South is upset over this type of thing."

• • •

JUDGE GRIFFITH, in pronouncing sentences, said he didn't think the state legislature had in mind a situation of this kind so "I will impose the maximum."

The interracial love affair has had Spartanburg buzzing for several weeks. Both the girl and the man told authorities they wanted to marry.

The state laws, however, prohibit interracial (white and colored) marriages, or sexual intimacies.

Technically, the young lovers were convicted on charges of fornication, illicit relations. Both remained in jail late this week.

Once Ala. sharecropper, he's now No. 1 farmer

A former sharecropper, who saved for five years to buy his first mule, is now the number one farmer in his county, reports C. A. Williams, acting state leader of colored extension work in Alabama.

The farmer is Foy L. Callen of Dothan, Ala., who was selected a few months ago as the "Farmer of the Year of Houston County" for raising and selling 100 head of meat-type hogs in 1957 and for having farmed his way up from 12 years of sharecropping to ownership of a 111-acre farm.

Mr. Callen got his first real upward start 18 years ago, says Mr. Williams, when he applied to the Farmers Home Administration of the U.S. Department of Agriculture for a loan to buy a 120-acre farm and build a home.

After the loan was approved, the county Farmers Home supervisor sat down with Mr. Callen and his wife and helped them analyze the merits and faults of their past farming operations and make sound plans for the future.

• • •

FOR ONE thing, the Callens had been depending almost entirely on cotton for cash income and their yield had been low because they had not been applying enough fertilizer.

So, they decided that when they moved to their own farm, they would have their soil tested and then apply fertilizer in accordance with the recommendation. Also they would sow legumes as winter cover crops and turn them under in the spring to further enrich their land, plant an improved variety of cottonseed, and carry out an effective insect control program.

Within two years they had increased their cotton yield from half a bale to a bale to the acre, developed improved pastures for a hog crop of 30 to 40 head, and were finding themselves with extra money to apply to the payments on their farm.

By 1955, they were able to complete payment to the Government for their farm, 25 years ahead of time. Sale of timber and a 9-acre right of way helped them to further step up their payments. Today Mr. and Mrs. Callen put their entire 12-acre cotton allotment in the Soil Bank and have turned their full attention to swine and feed crops. They expect to sell close to 120 head of hogs.

North Carolina College, Shaw in Capital Classic

WASHINGTON

The 17th annual Capital Classic is set for Griffith Stadium on Saturday night, Nov. 1, with North Carolina College of Durham meeting Shaw University

These two grid foes have established themselves as staunch rivals for the No. 1 position in football for North Carolina. Last year's Shaw-NCC was decided by a single point as NCC won, 13-12.

SHAW UNIVERSITY is coached by Clifton Anderson, of Cape May, New Jersey, a star athlete during college and professional days. Coach Anderson earned his letter in football and track while getting a B.S. degree from Indiana University in 1952. He then took graduate work at Temple University and the University of Pennsylvania. During the latter school days Coach Anderson was an outstanding gridder with the Chicago Cardinals and later the New York Giants.

Coach Herman Riddick has been head mentor at North Carolina since 1942 and has compiled a record of 65 wins, 32 setbacks and nine ties. His grid warriors captured titles in the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association in 1953 and 1954.

The 1954 team was awarded the national mythical championship after trouncing Tennessee State. In 1956 the "Eagles" of North Carolina College were CIAA co-champions along with Morgan State College, of Baltimore, and Delaware State.

Landlord collects $1 million rent

Each year the Baltimore Housing Authority collects more than $1 million rent from the 3,495 tenants living in East Baltimore's Flag House Homes, Lafayette Courts, Perkins, Somerset-Douglass and Latrobe Homes projects.

Every month the families pay more than $138,750 rent.

Some of the residents reside in buildings located on land costing as much as $129,412 per acre. The Flag House Homes are located on America's most historic ground.

There's history and romance in the East Baltimore story and it's coming soon in the AFRO.

Look for the AFRO's East Baltimore edition on the street, Friday, Oct. 24.
