Election of Mrs. White proof that peace can abide in South

By CARTER WESLEY

HOUSTON, Tex. (NNPA) — Houston had its finest hour Tuesday, when the whole citizenry elected Mrs. Charles E. White as the first colored person to serve on the School District Board, with the highest vote given any candidate among the 11 running for the three positions.

The victory sent an electric thrill of triumph through the community, because it was recognized as a victory for the whole population over the forces of bitterness and petty parochialism.

Whites were proud because they had measured up to the best of American citizenship in voting for this woman in an era when it still seemed suicidal.

* * *

THE ELECTION of Mrs. White also proved to the community and, for that matter, to the Nation, that Houston does not belong with Georgia, Little Rock, and other areas lost in fog, contention and rebellion.

The vote for Mrs. White meant that the citizenry of Houston had freed itself from the yoke of fear and strife.

Mrs. White's election is symbolic of the freedom gained by the citizens from the pall of fear that has hung over the community since the 1954 Supreme Court decision.

White workers had contributed as much to Mrs. White's victory as had colored people. Side by side, colored and white had worked shoulder to shoulder during the campaign. At the headquarters election night the whites were again there, sharing the pleasures that come from having done a thing according to what was right.

* * *

DURING THE CAMPAIGN various audiences treated Mrs. White the same as other candidates. Contributions had come in from whites and from colored people.

As the vote came into the headquarters, Mrs. White won overwhelmingly in many boxes in which only whites voted.

The liberal whites were again free, just by exercising their courage and doing what they knew was right.

The faith of colored people in humanity was again restored in full measure, because they had seen the whites, with whom they had worked over the years, show their courage and their sense of justice.

Here was the largest city in the South, in the middle of one of its tensest periods in race relations in our history, cutting across party lines, racial lines, and religious lines not only to elect a colored woman to the school board but to give her the largest vote of any of the 11 candidates who were running for the three positions.

* * *

HERE ARE complete but unofficial, returns of the school election from the district's 182 precincts: Position 5, Dr. W. W. Kemmer, 36,010; Aubrey Clarke, 27,301; Virgil Arnold, 11,487.

Position 6 — Dr. John Glen, 28,716; Earl F. Doerner Jr., 11,707; Mrs. Charles E. White, 36,386.

Position 7 — Jerry McAfee, 6,985; Mrs. H. W. Cullen, 26,627; E. G. Rountree, Jr., 5,999; Hart Stilwell, 24,098; James F. Dermont, 959; Mrs. Enid E. Smith, 980.

Returns from the boxes showed that precincts heretofore entirely Negro-white had given Mrs. White practically their unanimous vote.

When Mrs. White came into her headquarters about 8:30 p.m., with her five children, ranging from 3 months to 16 years of age, there was a great ovation from the crowd.

Later, after she had taken her children home and come back about o'clock with her mother, there was another ovation from the mixed crowd.

Then there was reflected a beautiful element of restraint when Dr. White remained out of the picture and left it for Mrs. White to fill completely in her capacity as a candidate.

This reflected the family integrity and gave a true statement of Dr. White and his sense of what is appropriate. He could have come, and would have been welcomed and cheered, but he was enough to give the hour to his wife and insisted upon staying out of the picture.

SAM LACY'S A TO Z

For some reason, it very often happens that an athlete who wins major fame becomes obsessed with the idea that he or she is automatically placed in a position to lead a crusade on behalf of the race . . . . As often as not, this is an importance that is more imagined than real . . . . No one will dispute the fact that such an individual is in a strategic position to educate the rest of the world on the true merits of the colored man, but this is done more by the way the athelte conducts himself or, if it is a woman as it is in the case in point, herself.

Althea Gibson is a fine tennis player . . . . for a number of years, she has been and, I hope, will continue to be a good friend of this column. . . . But Althea appears to have deviated a little from her attitudes and behavior of some years back. . . . Evidence of this deviation creeps into her book, "I Wanted To Be Somebody," currently getting the full treatment from several national magazines.

In the book, Miss Gibson says: ". . . . there are those among my people who don't agree with my reasoning (to advance as individuals). . . . A lot of them are members of the (colored) press, and they say I'm bigheaded, uppity, ungrateful and a few other uncomplimentary things. . . . I think the down-deep reason is that they resent my refusal to turn my tennis achievements into a crusade for racial equality. . . . I won't do it, etc."

A to Z fails to see what Althea thinks she can do to "crusade for racial equality" other than to keep her own nase clean and try to make liars out of the WHITE press which year after year has lampooned her as "arrogant and uncooperative," in stronger and louder tones than the defense has been able to muster through the AFRO and some other publications.

Foreword of the book says Miss Gibson "is to tennis what Jackie Robinson was to baseball and Marian Anderson to grand opera" . . . . But just as Althea's own dart at the colored press is inaccurate, the analogy in the foreword is faulty. . . . Much as I like the champ, I'm afraid she has neither the moral courage of Robinson nor the quiet dignity of Miss Anderson.

The championship fever struck New York so forcibly after the town's National Football League Giants toppled the Cleveland Browns and Baltimore Colts on successive Sundays, that tickets to the remaining home games have been going like mad. . . . Officials of the Giants announced that they already are over-subscribed for the December 14, return clash with the Browns. . . . Only a few obstructed-view locations are left and, they say, telephone inquiries indicate there will be a wild rush for the 12,000 bleacher and standing room tickets scheduled to go on sale the day of the game.

- Althea Gibson sings off key
- Elgin Baylor fits with pros
- Race camera changes story

Coach Jim Lee Howell, whose Giants turned the trick on the previously unbeaten Browns and Colts, refuses to say whom he thinks might win if Cleveland and Baltimore should meet in the championship playoff . . . . Howell, naturally, has title aspirations of his own now and won't make any concessions that might be construed as counting out his aggregation . . . . Jim Lee does, however, make some interesting comparisons.

In one of these, he says that Baltimore fullback Alan Amecha seems to have more power running up the middle but does not compare with Cleveland's Jimmy Brown in agility in the foreward is faulty. . . . Much as I like the champ, I'm afraid she has neither the moral courage of Robinson nor the quiet dignity of Miss Anderson.

At the pace he's traveling as a raw rookie in the National Basketball Association, Elgin Baylor could become one of the greatest, if not the greatest player, in the history of the pro cage sport . . . . As this is written, the former Springarn High School (Washington, D.C.) luminary is not only far and away the top scorer on the Minneapolis Lakers quint, but right up there among the leaders in the loop in several departments.

Elgin is third in the league in scoring, percentagewise, with a 22.1 average per game . . . . He also is third in rebounding behind the veterans Bill Russell of Boston, and Bob Pettit of St. Louis, and third in assists behind Detroit's Dick McGuire and New York's Carl Braun.

Baylor has a 12.9 per-game rebound average, and a 4.4 per-game average in assists . . . . Nearest to the stellar freshman's team-leading 177 points on the Lakers is the 126-point total of four-year-man Dick Garmaker.

Morgan power crushes Hampton

BALTIMORE

The rampaging Morgan Bears roared to their fourth victory in seven starts by unleashing a devastating ground and air attack to topple the Hampton Pirates, 60-0, here Saturday.

By tallying 24 points in the first quarter, eight more in the second, only six in the third period, but a whopping 22 point finale, the rebounding Bruins ran their two - game scoring total to 129 units.

* * *

SUBSTITUTE fullback and co-captain Larry Buffaloe headed the scoring parade with two touchdowns of the Morgan eight.

Quarterback Jack Dennis pitched a touchdown strike to scatback Homer Robinson, the play covering 53 yards. In addition, the classy signal - caller connected with two of three aerials in conversion attempts. Robinson personally accounted for 10 of the high-point total by rushing over a pair of two-point conversions to supplement his touchdown.

* * *

FIRST TALLY of the uneven contest came when Bear wingman John Manning scooped up a Pirate punt that had been blocked by center Douglass Ferguson and ran the remaining 11 yards. Fullback Earl Bowen plunged across in the conversion attempt to put the Bruins out in front, 8-0.

The second tally came on a 3-yard thrust by Bowen at the end of the first quarter. Robert Harris, churned to the two and then sliced off tackle for the concluding 6 - pointer. Brown's extra 2-point pass attempt failed.

Three seniors, Al Jiles, aJmes Coley, and Roosevelt Turner, played their last home game for the Hawks today.

Billy (The Shadow)) Gray electrified the crowd with a 100 yard touchdown sprint minutes before the half, to set the Hawks out in front, 36-8 at the intermission.

* * *

A SCORELESS third quarter passed. McCain's bench had its inning.

Five minutes before the end, the Hawks third stringer, Harry Brown, on a hand off, sent Frankie Muse to the 15. Dan Young made the yard. Robert Harris, churned to the two and then sliced off tackle for the concluding 6 - pointer. Brown's extra 2-point pass attempt failed.

* * *

HOLMES REGISTERED again on the first play of the second stanza, with a dive from the three after Frankie Muse had intercepted a lateral from Curtis pass on the nine.

The Bears tallied their lone TD before the half ended on Joseph Buggs' 45-yard gallop around left end, after a Curtis hand off.

The [illegible] sprints of 12 and 21 yards en route. Dennis passed to end John Manning to boost the count to 16-0.

The third six-pointer of the opening quarter was set up by recovery of a Pirate fumble by Gordon on the Hampton 31. Halfback Jim Allen went 22 yards for the score. And the speedy Mr. Gordon carried the mail for points 23 and 24.

* * *

THE BEARS hit paydirt only once in the second period, casing in on a pass interception by Dennis, who ran the ball back from the Morgan 32 to the Bear 44.

There followed the 53 - yard touchdown toss to Robinson, followed up by a conversion throw to Al Cunningham. Morgan, 32; Hampton, 0.

A fumble recovered by halfback Elmer Flye set up a 58-yard goalward trek in the third quarter. Dennis passed to Cunningham and Manning to advance to the Pirate 7, from which point the pile - driving Buffaloe was to rack up the game's fifth touchdown.

The final quarter saw the Bear reserves account for 22 additional units to complete the rout of the visitors from Virginia.

Maryland closes '58 home season with 42-8 victory

PRINCESS ANNE, Md. — Maryland State College brought her 1958 football season to an end here Saturday with a 42-8 shellacking of the Elizabeth City (NC) Teachers College Pirates.

Striking early, the rampaging Hawks of Skip McCain rolled to a 14-0 lead in the first period, 12 in the second and six in the third for the 42-point total.

Joe Robinson's pass to Kuke Warren was good for a third tally after Fullback Charlie Holmes had lugged the oval in the 17 - yard line on two consecutive treks of 19 and 15 yards respectively.

BORN IN a cabin in Georgia, he was reared there by a great-grandmother. Later he lived at foster homes in the North and many of his fellow students at Manhasset were from families for whom his mother worked as a maid.

Gross relates that Brown went to Syracuse with no athletic scholarship or other aid in his freshman year. His expenses were paid by hometown sponsors in a sense, they had adopted a homeless boy.

* * *

BECAUSE OF his background, Brown is found to have concentrated on a superior efficiency in sports and Gross says that he worked so hard at developing his natural gifts that he came to rank with men like Jackie Robinson, Bob Mathias and Jim Thorpe among the greatest all - around athletes of our time.

Meanwhile, some Cleveland opponents no doubt wish that Brown had stuck with lacrosse for he is again making life miserable for them.

JIM BROWN

JIM BROWN

ALL-ROUND JIM BROWN:

Grid ace prefers lacrosse; had pro cage and ring bids

NEW YORK — Jimmy Brown, the National Football League's Rookie of the Year who helped put the Cleveland Browns back on top of the Eastern Division last season, actually prefers lacrosse.

Further than that, Milton Gross relates in the current issue of The Saturday Evening Post, Brown considers basketball the easiest sport.

The author's article "All-Around Jimmy Brown," notes that the ex - Syracuse star speaks with some authority. He achieved All-American status in both football and lacrosse and was good enough to have his name on the draft list of the Syracuse Nationals of the National Basketball Association.

* * *

GROSS ADDS that Brown, who also starred in baseball, played baseball only as senior at Manhasset, Long Island, High School, but was invited to tryout camps by the New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves.

In addition, the Post story says, Norman Rothschild, Syracuse boxing promoter, offered Jimmy a $25,000 bonus to try his fists at professional fighting.

Commenting that Brown is one of those fellows who step right in and make a tough business look easy, Gross tells that for most of his twenty - two years Jimmy Brown's sole advantage in life was his physical equipment.

Tennessee bows again, worst season since '39

By EARL S. CLANTON III

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Too much Bradley and Haffner, moaned Tennessee State University's Coach Howard C. Gentry after Missouri Lincoln handed Tennessee its second straight defeat before 4,500 homefolk, 24-12, Saturday.

John Bradley, Ezell Brewer and Lewis Haffner sparked the scoring in each period and led Lincoln to her first win over the Tigers since 1952. Tennessee now has a 3-3 season log.

The loss marked the first year since 1939 that Tennessee has lost three games in a single season.

* * *

LINCOLN CAPITALIZED on a pass interception for the game's first score. Quarterback Brewer tossed an 11-yarder to Haffner for a TD with 7:5. left in the first period.

In the second, Tennessee's Slinging Sam Bowen plunged over from the 2 to knot the game at 6-6. Slinging Sam set up the tieing TD with a neat bit of running and a 33-yard pass to halback Billy Bradley.

Taking advantage of a short punt, Lincoln strung five straight first downs together and marched 52 yards for their second TD on a 14-yard pass from Brewer to Ray Hooper in the end zone.

MIDWAY THE third period, Coach Dwight Reed's charges ripped 63 yards in 11 plays with Brewer scoring from the 12. With 7:47 left in the third period Lincoln led 18-6. The fourth quarter was barely six minutes old when Bradley scored from the 8-yard stripe using 17 plays in a 78 - yard march.

Gentry's Blues fought back with Slinging Sam pitching three passes that covered 60 yards and paydirt with a 22-yard toss to fresh end Charlie Moore with 5:50 remaining.

Lincoln leed her lead by controlling the pinskin 12 of the game's 15 minutes.

W. Va. wins on 70-yard run

INSTITUTE, W. Va., —Raymond Harris, West Virginia State halfback, returned a West Virginia Tech punt 70 yards in the last three minutes of play to snatch the game out of the fire and post a 28 - 26 win for State here Saturday.

The toe of Bob Wright, halfback for State, delivered the margin of victory by kicking four extra points in as many attempts while Roy Gilkeson was kicking two out of four for Tech.

Ron O'Neal, State quarterback threw three touchdown passes for his contribution to the victory. Two of his heaves went to right end Bob Carter, covering 47 and 23 yards. His other pass was to right Halfback Cyril Hawkins covering 28 yards.

* * *

TECH SCORERS were Charley Goodwin on a 47 - yard roll out play from the quarterback, Jack Johnson, quarterback, passed to Jim Myal, left end, for a 25 - yard scoring play and Johnson scored from the one.

Bob Young Tech halback put his team in front when he took a Johnson pass in the end zone to make the score 26-21.

Then came the Harris' run to victory.

Howard ties Morehouse, 6-6

* * *

THE BISONS began their third-period scouring drive on their own 44-yard line.

Halfback Howie Williams swept right end on two successive carries to advance the ball to the Morehouse 36. Halfback Ted Hillman then raced over left tackle for 20, giving Howard a first down on the 16. On the next play Smith hit Hillman on the 5, and Hillman scampered into the end zone with two defenders hanging on.

The tie was the second in the series. Howard has won five, Morehouse four of the remaining nine meetings.

Actually, the nickname "Spider" fits both the physique and the last name (Webb) so perfectly that people close to the ring call him that as a matter of course.

Webb, whose bout with Joey Giardello Wednesday night may lead to a title shot at Sugar Ray Robinson, is a boxer by necessity rather than by choice . . . . he prefers football and might have sought a career in the pro game if he had thought he'd grow up . . . . Despite his minus-160 pounds, Spider made it through Compton Junior College and through two years at Idaho State College on a football scholarship . . . . When he finally picked the ring over the gridiron, it was because he couldn't face down the strong argument presented by his amateur record . . . . 75 victories in 76 fights.
