3 college grid coaches killed in S. C. crash

By JOHN H. McCRAY

NEESES, S.C. — James D. (Big Jim) Fisher, head coach at Voorhees Junior College in Denmark, S.C., head coach Leo Shockley of Daniel Payne College at Birmingham, Ala., and assistant coach Willie Lee Smith of Daniel Payne College, were killed near here early Saturday morning in an auto accident.

Cpl. C. R. Smith of the S.C. Highway Patrol said the 1957 Oldsmobile, belonging to Big Jim, had left the highway careened into a ditch, swerved back onto and across the highway, rammed a tree and overturned.

Fisher's mangled body was thrown clear; the other two men were crushed beneath the vehicle.

• • •

ALL HAD spent the night in Columbia and were en route back to Denmark when the accident occurred around 7 a.m. A scheduled football game between the two colleges for 2 p.m. Saturday was cancelled and is out for the year.

Dr. John F. Potts, Voorhees president, told the AFRO that the three men had left Denmark "about an hour" after the Daniel Payne team arrived on the campus Friday night and after "the players had been put to bed."

The coaches had been visiting in Columbia. Mr. Potts said, "That's all I can say. At first, we didn't know for certain that it was Columbia, but I am certain now that it was."

• • •

STATISTICAL DATA on the Payne coaches wasn't immediately available in Denmark, but President Potts said he believed both men were natives of St. Louis, Mo., to which city their bodies were shipped from the Otto Crumlin Funeral Home in Neeses, which prepared the three men for burial.

A muted memorial service for Mr. Fisher was held in the Voorhees Chapel at 2 p.m. Monday. The body was taken then to Hickory, N.C., his home town, for final services and burial, believed here to be on the Nov. 15 weekend.

COACH FISHER is survived by his wife, the former Miss Joyce Wilson of Cleveland, Ohio, and a son, James D. (Little Jim) Fisher.

Fisher had come to Voorhees as head coach "about five years ago," Mr. Potts said, coming from Morgan State College in Baltimore where had been an assistant coach. In 1956, he was cited as "Coach of the Year" in the Eastern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (EIAC), of which Voorhees is a member.

A graduate of Johnson C. Smith University at Charlotte, N.C., he had almost completed work on the Master's Degree in Health and Physical Education at a New York university.

• • •

FISHER'S DEATH left Voorhees without a coach of any sort; Dr. Potts said a replacement probably would not be sought "for several days."

"We here at Voorhees are deeply saddened because of the unfortunate tragedy and death of Mr. Fisher," President Potts said.

"Mr. Fisher was an excellent coach and a fine example for the boys and young men with whom he came in contact. As a coach, he was a good disciplinarian. He was a stickler for conditioning; his players were always in top condition or they didn't play. It's going to be very hard to replace him."

GIANT OF THE GIANTS — Outstanding Player Award for the New York Giants home season was presented last Sunday to Roosevelt Brown, all-pro offense guard, by James A. Farley (right) former postmaster general. At left is Edward J. Brown, Saks 34th Street executive and chairman of the sports committee making award. Brown, former Morgan State College star, later suffered a fractured cheek in Giants' 24-21 victory over previously unbeaten Baltimore Colts.

Pistol match won by Gates

WASHINGTON

Major Joseph Gates, formerly of Howitzer Co. 369th Infantry of the New York National Guard, with a score of 367 won the highest individual pistol score of the summer-fall season pistol match at Fort Dix, N.J. last week.

Statistics compiled by the Post Marksmanship Office at the close of the season's big bore marksmanship matches show that the Special-Training Regiment is leading the field in the pistol competition after winning three straight matches.

Major Gates, who may soon be wearing the insignia of a Lt. Colonel, is commanding officer of a special training regiment and has been assigned to Ft. Dix, since leaving the paratroopers in Fort Bragg, N.C.

A veteran of World War II in the Pacific and the Korean Conflict, Maj. Gates is a resident of the Riverton on West 135th St. in Harlem.

The post champions will be decided next year on the basis of the recently concluded summer-fall matches and the winter-Spring matches which start in March of 1959.

Deacon Jones cops Big Ten marathon

CHICAGO — Charley (Deacon) Jones, veteran distance runner from University of Iowa, captured the 1958 Big Ten cross-country title on Friday.

Jones finished some ten yards ahead of Michigan State's Crawford Kennedy in 20 minutes, 18 seconds, good time for unseasonable 70-degree weather which prevailed during the four-mile event in Washington Park.

The team title went to Michigan State, its seventh in nine Big Ten championship meets.

Football equipment worth $1000 stolen from D.C. Teachers

WASHINGTON

Football equipment belonging to the D.C. Teachers College team was stolen from Cardozo High School Stadium locker room, police reported. The equipment is valued at $1,000.

The theft took place between 4:30 p.m. Monday and 10 a.m. Tuesday but police were not able to determine how the locker room, located beneath the stands, was entered.

Dr. Phillip Fox, D.C. Teachers' College coach, told police that the team practiced on the Cardozo field and stored their gear in the locker.

Eddie Perkins loses as lightweight threat

CHICAGO (ANP) — Eddie Perkins, fast-acting Chicago lightweight, scored the most impressive victory of his career last Wednesday night when he outpunched veteran Frankie Ryff to gain unanimous decision before a small crowd in the Chicago Stadium.

The lithe, fast-moving Perkins, an alumnus of Catholic Youth Organization amateur competition, thus moved up as a serious challenger for the title held by Joe Brown.

Perkins, who was never hurt except for a bloodied nose, won against Ryff despite his lesser experience and overcame the pre-fight publicity favoring his New York opponent. The odds makers had installed Ryff a 3-5 favorite.

THE LOCAL press had made much of the fact that Ryff is managed by Barney Ross, former lightweight and welterweight titlist. It was thought that Ross saw championship possibilities in Frankie.

However, Wednesday night, Perkins quickly dispelled such thoughts. As early as the third round, he had Ryff on the deck and thereafter kept him in retreat, as he hammered away with a two fisted attack. Ryff's best countering weapon was a stabbing left jab with which he kept Eddie off balance and thus avoided a knockout.

RYFF'S BEST round was the fifth during which he simply let Perkins with left jabs and hooks and appeared to have him befuddled. But Perkins came back strong in the ninth, and won the 10th by a wide margin.

Perkins' victory pro fights going into Wednesday night's encounter, winning 11 and losing four, but scoring three knockouts. Ryff had 27 victories and five losses.

Akins training for title bout

CARLINVILLE, Ill. (NNPA) —Virgil Akins, welterweight champion of the boxing world, has chosen this peaceful little town, some 50 miles northeast of St. Louis, to prepare for the first defense of his 147-pound title.

Scheduled to oppose Don Jordan, ranked No. 1 in the division, in a 15-round bout at the Olympic Auditorium, Los Angeles, Dec. 5, Akins is training here for his fight through friendship with Woody Neighborn, sheriff of Macoupin County.

Akins likes to hunt and fish and some years ago, Neighborn invited him to come here for his favorite diversions. Virgil made many friends and when time came for him to set up a training camp for a title bout, he selected Carlinville.

Lincoln, Morgan deadlock in CIAA cross-country race

WASHINGTON

Hewitt Joiner, 19-year - old Delaware State College freshman, outran a field of 45 harriers Tuesday to capture the second annual CIAA cross - country championship run.

Joiner, always near the front, took over the lead about the three - quarter mark and was never headed as he broke the tape in 17 minutes, 39 seconds.

The lean, brown - skinned Delaware State freshman had a 50-yard margin on Lincoln University's Jim Kimani, native of Africa, as they closed out the race on the cinders of the Howard Stadium.

• • •

THE RACE STARTED and ended in Howard Stadium, with the runners covering the three miles — half mile course through the Washington Hospital Center grounds and the New Soldiers' Home grounds. This was a new course, replacing the old course which stretched through and around the Reservoir on the east side of Howard.

Joiner's victory failed to help his team, however, as Morgan State College and Lincoln University deadlocked for the team title with 40 points each. Cheyney State Teachers College, last year's team victor, was third with 72 points, while other teams finished as follow: Delaware, 114; Bowie State Teachers College, 120; and the host Howard team, 125.

JOINER'S TIME will stand as a record for the new course. The 19 - year - old frosh runner hails from Boston, Mass., where he was a track standout at Roxbury High School. This was his first race in CIAA circles.

Ronald Sullivan was Cheyney's first man across the line, in ninth position, while Howard's initial finisher was Eugene Tillman in tenth.

Morgan's Lee Martin and Johnny Myles closed behind each other in 12th and 14th positions to give the Bear harriers, coached by C. C. Jackson and Bob Berry, the latter last year's winner of the race, 40 points for the first place tie.

With four men in the first ten, Lincoln's coach, Tom Jones, was on edge as the trio finally crossed the line to finished in the 18th spot, also winning deadlock as Ray Betz for 40 points.

THE FIRST TWENTY runners to finish were:
1. Hewitt Joiner (Delaware)
2. James Kimani (Lincoln)
3. Ronald Merriweather (Morgan)
4. Ellis Nicholson (Morgan)
5. Eddy Williams (Lincoln)
6. Walter Cole (Morgan)
7. Robert Betz (Lincoln)
8. Dave Walker (Lincoln)
9. Ronald Sullivan (Cheyney)
10. Eugene Tillman (Howard)
11. Ceasar Chandler (Cheyney)
12. Earl Ross (Cheyney)
13. Lee Martin (Morgan)
14. Johnny Myles (Morgan)
15. Freeman McMillan (Howard)
16. Nathaniel Jones (Cheyney)
17. James Miller (Bowie)
18. Ray Betz (Lincoln)
19. Robert Miller (Lincoln)
20. Carlton Green (Bowie)

Bowie harriers beaten by Lincoln University

Lincoln University beat the Bowie State Teachers College harriers 21-34, last Saturday in a meet at Bowie, Md.

With a record of 2 and 3, Bowie will entertain Howard University Friday (Nov. 14).

CIAA Title Hinges on Durham Clash

DURHAM, N.C. — The football teams of A and T College and North Carolina meet at Durham Athletic Park here Thanksgiving Day at 1:30 p.m., in the 27th annual Carolina Classic.

This game could settle the 1958 CIAA football championship.

Bert Piggott's Aggies, pre-season favorites to run away with the title, were playing second fiddle to Herman Riddick's Cinderella Eagles last week.

The Eagles with a 5-0-0 count and a Dickinson of 26.00 were ahead of the Aggies with their 4-0-0 and a Dickinson of 22.50.

• • •

HOWIE SMITH, Aggie quarterback known for his daring running and passing, will be pitted against the Eagle combination of captain Lloyd Eason and Ike (The Whip) Gatling.

The Aggies' heavy line will outweigh the Eagles. This factor could prove decisive. However, NCC mentors have experienced considerable success this season in alternating two lines of virtually even ability.

• • •

OUTSTANDING on the Aggie front line are Lorenza Stanford, 240 lbs., and Melvin Richardson, 296 lbs., both tackles, Harvey Stewart, 196 lbs. guard and Burnie McQueen, 205 lbs. end.

Teaming with Smith in the Aggie backfield are a trio of highly dangerous runners and passers in Ed Nesbitt, Charles Debose and Eddie Godbolt.

IN ADDITION to the quarterback twosome of Eason and Gatling, the Eagles have some of the CIAA's most brilliant backs-in Clifton (Sattelite) Jackson, senior from Hampton, Va., Harold Joyner, power driving halfback from Williamston, N. C., a duo of rugged ends in George Wallace, Williamsburg, Va., junior, and Paul Winslow, Weaksville, N. C., junior.

Outstanding in the NCC forward wall are James Buck Forbes, Norfolk, Va., senior All America candidate, and Big Jim Bryant, senior center.

Jones, Russell, Baylor set fast NBA pace

NEW YORK — Sophomore sharpshooter Sam Jones for the second straight week, is leading the National Basketball Association in foul shooting.

The former North Carolina College star, now in his second season with the Boston Celtics, boasts a .941 percentage on the strength of 16 conversions in 17 free throws.

Jones' Celtic teammate, Bill Sharman, the NBA's greatest all time free throw shooter, hit on 19 of 20 penalty tosses last week and is pressing Jones with a .920 (23 for 25) mark. Freshman Archie Dees of Cincinnati is third with .870.

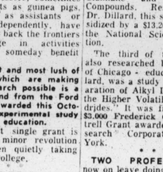
IN THE REBOUND tables, things are back to normal. Bill Russell took full advantage of his 6-11 frame and Boston's last three games to bring his season board control total to 139, seven more than runner-up Petitt, the Hawks' p week ago.

Elgin Baylor is third with 122, including the season's single game high of 31 grabs against Philadelphia, and John Kerr of Syracuse is fourth with 101. Russell's output of 26 per game is also the best average.

McGuire is still well ahead of the playmaker pack with 68 but its immediate challenger are now Carl Braun of New York with 39 and Baylor with 35.

HOMETOWN TRACK

Jockey Sammy Boulmetis, who has several stakes mounts during Pimlico's autumn meeting, first saw the race track as a young teen-ager selling newspapers after school. Boulmetis was born near Pimlico in 1927.



Tan stars top 3 NFL divisions

Colored athletes were at the top of three departments in pro football as the major league teams headed into the crucial days of the 1958 campaign.

The fabulous Jim Brown was at the head of two of these and rookie Len Lyles was in the lead in the third.

BROWN, sophomore fullback of the Cleveland Browns, was setting the pace in ground gaining, with an awe - inspiring total of 1,011 yards, nearly twice as many as his nearest rival, teammate Bob Mitchell. Brown also held the lead in individual scoring with 90 points on the strength of 15 touchdowns.

Lyles, halfback of the Baltimore Colts, stood well ahead of the rest of the field in the matter of returning kickoffs. Len has run back 367 yards — for 103 yards — for an average of 40.8 yards per try. His nearest rival is Leroy Bolden, Browns' rookie, with a 29.8 average.

FIVE of the nine players behind Jim Brown in the ground gaining department, are colored. And the two men closest to the Cleveland fullback in scoring also are tan.

Mitchell, who is second in ground gaining, is followed by Joe Perry of San Francisco (4th), Willie Galimore of Chicago Bears (6th), Tom Wilson of Los Angeles (8th) and Ollie Matson of Chicago Cardinals (10th).

IN SCORING, Brown is followed by Gardner and Lenny Moore of the Colts.

Cleveland's Leroy Bolden is runner - up to Lyles in punt returns, with Matson eighth in his department.

Mack, R. C. Owens of San Francisco, and Woodley Lewis of the Cardinals, are fifth, sixth and seventh in pass receiving.

BULLDOZERS TAKE OVER HISTORIC LAUREL CEMETERY

VITAL RESEARCH—Dr. Julius Taylor, professor of physics, is shown in his laboratory at Morgan State College. Dr. Taylor is doing research on high pressure physics and has received grants from Army Ordnance totaling more than $58.000 since he began the research in 1953.

Morgan uses grants to help advance knowledge

BALTIMORE

One - time little Morgan State College, now grown to a record 2,173 enrollment, is also going big-time in research.

Since 1953, abetted by grants totaling more than $200,000, Morgan professors, sometimes using students as guinea pigs, sometimes as assistants or working independently, have been pushing back the frontiers of knowledge in activities which many someday benefit society.

Most recent and most lush of the grants which are making Morgan research possible is a $103,000 stipend from the Ford Foundation awarded this October for an experimental study of citizenship education.

This biggest single grant is part of the broader program that has been quietly taking place at the college.

JUST LAST YEAR, for example, the college conducted a study to determine how to eliminate 'spoon - fed" pupils and beat the teacher shortage on a $27,000 grant from the Fund for the Advancement of Education.

Conducted under the direction of Morgan's univac-minded Dr. Roger K. Heimer, professor of phychology, and co - director Walter Fisher, assistant professor in history, the project used 161 student guinea pigs.

Since 1953, in the confines of a seemingly ordinary laboratory, Dr. Julius H. Taylor, University of Pennsylvania - educated professor of physics, has been studying high pressure dynamics on a grant from the Office of Ordnance Research Department of the Army.

Funds made available for this study over the years since the initial award now total in excess of $58,200.

Already, Dr. Taylor has produced valuable original data or his findings which physicists consider of significant value.

TWO YEARS AGO, Dr. Lana I. Mishoe, professor of physics at Morgan, successfully competed in a study of "eigenfunction series." The study was partially supported by a $4,600 grant from the National Science Foundation.

Two professors in the department of chemistry have put the wraps on three research projects aided by grants totaling $26,800.

One of these was a two-year study of the "Determination of the Fatty Acid Content of Selected Foods."

This was subsidized by a $10,600 grant from the United States Department of Agriculture and researched by Dr. Cyril Atkins with the assistance of Dr. Clyde Dillard.

The second, the report on which is now being completed, was a study of the "Kinetics of the Thermal Decomposition of Stannane and Homologous (Compounds. Researched by Dr. Dillard, this study was subsidized by a $13,200 grant from the National Science Foundation.

"The third of these studies, also researched by University of Chicago - educated Dr. Dillard, was a study of the "Preparation of Alkyl Derivatives of Higher Hydrides of Boron Hydrides." It was financed by a $2,000 Frederick Gardner Cottrell Grant awarded by Research Corporation of New York.

TWO PROFESSORS are now on leave doing research on grants, totaling approximately $20,000.

They are: Dr. Benjamin A. Quarles, professor and head of the department of history, who is studying the role of colored Americans in the American Revolution, on a Guggenheim Fellowship valued in excess of $10,000; and Dr. Otis D. Froe, Director of Evaluation and Research, who is making a study of findings of the project conducted under Dr. Williams' direction last year.

Dr. Froe holds a fellowship valued at approximately $7,600 from the Southern Regional Education Board.

IN ADDITION to the research completed or being undertaken by outside help, the college is also encouraging research through its own Research Fund.

Inaugurated three years ago, the Fund now provides for $4,000 from which faculty members may receive assistance to engage in research and creative activities.
