'Rights are personal' so Joan goes to school

"But constitutional rights are personal, and if Joan Elaine Groves does not receive a desegregated education at this time, she never will.

"Her rights and her needs cannot properly be postponed simply because certain members of the community think it would be wiser to delay integration of the three highest grades."

These were the words Tuesday of Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen when he ordered that the St. Marys County school board admit Joan Groves, 16, to Great Mills High School.

His decision climaxed a case which began when, in May, 1957 four colored children applied for admittance to "white" elementary schools and three to high schools.

Because the elementary children were in grades covered by the county's gradual desegregation plan, they were admitted.

ONE OF the four children moved out of town and another withdrew the transfer request. Remaining were Thomas C. Groves, seeking admission to the ninth grade, and Joan E. Groves, to the 11th grade.

In February this year, the State Board of Education heard their case and dismissed it on the grounds that the question involved was a legal one, that it could not rule on.

On April 11, suit was filed in federal court asking that the two Groves children be admitted to the Great Mills High School.

Eleven days later, the county school board voluntarily stepped up its gradual desegregation process to allow Thomas, but not Joan Groves, to enter in September.

In the remaining case (of Joan Groves), it was submitted to the court that:

THEIR FATHER, William Groves, is a self-employed, taxpayer of the county who was dissatisfied with the limited curriculum of the Jarboesville School for colored children of all grades.

He cited that the Jarboesville School was unsatisfactory in both curriculum and facilities.

He also cited that the stenographic course available in the Great Mills School was not available at Jarboesville—and that this was the course his daughter was interested in.

To escape the inferior facilities of Jarboesville School, he sent his daughter to New York to study and also to a Catholic parochial school in the county—for which he had to pay tuition.

In ruling in favor of the plaintiff, Judge Thomsen said this of St. Mary's gradual desegregation plan:

"THE PLAN of desegregation which it (St. Marys County) had adopted appears to proceed with more than "deliberate' speed. But such a plan cannot be considered in the abstract, apart from the particular facts of the case.

"A delay which might be necessary to permit the solution of administrative problems created by the transfer of a considerable number of students is not justified in this case where only two Negro students are applying for admission to a white school, where one has been accepted into a grade which has already been desegregated, and it is hoped to desegregate the remaining grades next year."

He added: "I do not question the good faith of the defendant (St. Marys school board) in adopting the plan of desegregation nor their sincere belief that a further delay in complete desegregation of the high schools is desirable."

It was at this point in his opinion that Judge Thomsen declared: "But constitutional rights are personal."

New site, name for blind home

The Annie Mae Hunter Ideal Home For the Blind will be getting a new home and a new name today (Friday).

The home will be moved from 2115 Allandale Road, to 1321 Edgar Place.

It's name will be changed to the Annie Mae Hunter Foundation Inc.

The new building, a three-story brick structure, will cost the organization some $24,500, according to Mrs. Hunter.

It will be able to house from 20 to 25 persons in its 20 rooms.

The old building, a three-story frame structure, was able to house only ten tenants, in its seven bedrooms.

Mrs. Hunter had received three notices of eviction since June of 1958.

The last notice came in June 1958, and gave the tenants until August 38 to find new homes.

The new building, according to Mrs. Hunter, has most of the required safety facilities.

"We will be grateful for any donations, monetary or otherwise," Mrs. Hunter stated.

Matron arraigned in roomer's death

Mrs. Alma Inez Miller, 40, 1500 block W. Lexington St., entered a not guilty plea Tuesday, when arraigned in Criminal Court on a charge of fatally shooting Freddie Johnson, 41, a tenant in her home, on July 13.

She was not represented by counsel. Judge Anselm Sodaro

Mrs. Lee, Gloria's mother, has been ill since the child disappeared and under the care of physicians.

Police report that they have received no trace of Gloria and Romaine although they have been searching and following clues since the parents reported them missing.

No word yet from two missing girls

No word has been received from Romaine Johnson, 13, and Gloria Lee, 16, the two girls who have been missing since May 20.

As the 81st day rolled around, mysterious messages and telephone calls came to the teenagers' parents.

Last week Mrs. Doris Lee, Gloria's mother, who resides at 423 E. Preston St., told the AFRO that she had received telephone calls.

MRS. CECELIA JOHNSON and her husband, James Johnson, a taxicab driver who reside at 1124 Forrest St., are Romaine's parents.

Mrs. Johnson told the AFRO that messages had come but none of them told the whereabouts of the two girls.

However, on Wednesday Mr. Johnson stated that he had received a telegram from a woman who asked that he and his wife come to her home in the 1600 block of Mulberry St., to identify a young girl who may have been either Romaine or Gloria.

The unidentified teenage girl had come to her home from the Eastern Shore, she revealed.

When Mr. Johnson arrived at the Mulberry St. address, he discovered that the girl was not his daughter nor was she Gloria Lee.

Mr. Johnson added: "All our hopes have been shattered. When we follow down the roads, we discover that we have not found Gloria and Romaine."

However, many AFRO readers have been kind and thoughtful, Mr. Johnson stated.

PRAYERS HAVE been offered for the safety of the two girls by friends and neighbors, he said.

Romaine, although only 13, is large for her age, Mr. Johnson states and she has a pleasing personality.

Gloria, 16, is tall, weighs about 135 pounds. When last seen, she was wearing red

35 cents in dice game brings death

A dispute over 35 cents in a dice game cost Emmitt Harrison, 46, of the 1600 block Abbott St., his life Tuesday, police have reported.

Harrison collapsed and died from stab wounds of the face, neck and body after walking from the 700 block Hemple Ct., to Central Ave. and Monument St.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Johns Hopkins Hospital at 9:52 a.m.

Northeastern District police said that Harrison had been attacked with a broken water jug which was found in the back yard of a Hemple Court home.

From the house, police also recovered a pen knife covered with bloodstains.

In connection with the death of Harrison, four persons were taken into custody for questioning by Monday afternoon. Two were released early Wednesday.

$15,000 bail for boys charged in burglaries

Four teenaged boys were held for grand jury action on $15,000 bail on Thursday in Northwestern Police Court.

At the same time, Magistrate Linwood B. Koger released a fifth youth as a state's witness.

The young defendants, all of whom entered not guilty pleas, were:

The youngster listed as a state's witness was Harvy McNeal, 19, 1400 block Whatcoat St.

SGT. Earl Dyson said signed statements had been taken from the boys.

Ernest Garrison, Turner and Carter are charged with taking $440.02 worth of shoes and other things from a shoe store in the 1100 block Laurens St. on August 2.

City to protest plan to cut transit service

City attorneys started mustering their forces this week to jump into the city transit service fray.

On orders from Mayor D'Alesandro, they are drawing a petition to intervene in current hearings before the Public Service Commission.

Undec protest will be the upcoming combination of a proposed decrease of transit service and a probable increase transit fares.

THE FUROR erupted after the transit company submitted to the PSC a proposal to reduce daily transit mileage by 2,220 miles. The new schedules would be effective in the fall.

Dale W. Barratt, transit company president, said that the new schedules were developed from studies of actual usage of city buses.

He said that the proposed reduction in service still does not approach the reduction in patronage. He claimed that bus patronage has decreased six per cent in the past year—the proposed service decrease, he said, is only 3.5 per cent.

Actually, a double fare increase may be in the making. The company has already requested the PSC to grant a five cent raise in the fare.

This week, after the fare increase request was made, the company and transit workers' union representatives agreed to a 17-cent hourly wage raise in the coming months.

Mr. Barratt said that the cost of this wage raise will have to be borne by transit patrons—thus necessitating a new fare hike on top of the already-proposed five - cent one.

IN THE MEANTIME, traffic commissioner Henry Barnes proposed cutting the consolidation of bus routes—making a total of 19 bus routes out of the present 35.

Mayor D'Alesandro has attacked the company for a "vicious cycle" of reduced service and higher fares.

Pastor's son faces new robbery rap

A new robbery charge caused a postponement Tuesday of the scheduled Criminal Court trial of Eugene T. Grove Jr., 22, son of the Rev. Eugene Grove Sr. on a robbery charge.

Mr. Grove, who lives in the 5000 block Midwood Ave., was charged in Northern District Court with assaulting and robbing Lee D. Babb, 2700 block E. Hoffman St., of $46 on August 13.

He entered a not guilty plea, and bail was set at $5,000. He was out under $3,000 bail.

Mr. Grove was scheduled to face trial Tuesday in Criminal Court before Judge Joseph Allen on a charge of assaulting and robbing Mrs. Irene Vicky Fowlkes, 700 block Sterling St., of her pocketbook and $42.63 on July 18.

It's time to register new school children

City schools will be opened next Thursday and Friday Aug. 28, 29 to register new students and transfers. Classes begin for all students Sept. 4.

Registration is from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. daily. Parents should register their children at the schools they plan for them to attend.

They should bring birth and smallpox certificates with them. Parents of children transferring from other systems should also bring school records showing the last grade the child successfully completed.

DR. WOODROW HEMPHILL, director of the city health department's school health service, said that children entering school for the first time in Baltimore should have had a complete physical examination.

If the family cannot afford a family physician a check-up, then a health department school physician will be made available.

Birth certificates for children born in Baltimore can be obtained from the Bureau of Vital Records of the Baltimore Health Department, first floor, Municipal Office Building, Holiday and Lexington Sts.

Certificates for children born in the counties of Maryland can be gotten from the Maryland State Department of Health, 2411 N. Charles St.

Petition urges mixing of four reform schools

Leading citizens are sponsoring a petition under the NAACP, urging the State Board of Public Welfare to integrate without delay Boys Village, Maryland Training School, Montrose School, and Barrett School.

All four reform schools are at present segregated.

Up to now the Board has been restrained from integrating reform schools by an opinion of Attorney General Sybert.

Attack for numbers hit nets man 8-year term

"There is no excuse for this attack, even if you did have a numbers hit and received no payment."

James Cox, 33, 1100 block Division St., drew this comment and an eight-year penitentiary sentence from Judge Anselm Sodaro in Criminal Court Wednesday on an assault to commit conviction.

He was accused of cutting off most of the right ear of Charles Strickland, 100 block N. Dallas St., whom he charged with failing to pay him $1,400 due on a numbers hit.

Judge Sodaro was told the attack on Mr. Strickland occurred at Caroline and Fayette Sts. on the morning of July 4, while two policemen were a short distance away.

POLICE TESTIMONY revealed that Mr. Strickland was also cut on both legs and his left arm a hastily applied tourniquet was necessary to stop him from bleeding to death through a severed artery.

Mr. Strickland denied the numbers charge, and contended the attack was unprovoked.

Mr. Cox charged, however, that he had been playing numbers with the victim for three years, and that Mr. Strickland attacked him when he inquired about the numbers hit.

"Your Honor, this man has a clean record and he is a long time employee of the Sparrows Point steel plants."

"Certainly, the magistrate's sentence is much too severe for a case of this sort, where only the police placed a value on the dog."

This plea in Criminal Court Tuesday by Michael F. Freedman, attorney, brought a release from a 30-day jail sentence for Lee Hawkins, 35, 2700 block W. North Ave., on a dog theft conviction.

Mr. Hawkins had been given the sentence by Magistrate Linwood G. Koger Sr., for the theft of a dog belonging to Mrs. Creamer Graves, 2400 block Edmondson Ave.

Judge Joseph Allen, in response to Mr. Freedman's plea, gave Mr. Hawkins a suspended six-month House of Correction sentence, and fined him $100 and costs, in the appeal case.

Area hit hard by flood

By MOSES NEWSON

FEDERALSBURG, Md.—As the rain-swollen Marshyhope Creek slowly receded on Wednesday evening, a group of sad-eyed people who were forced from their homes by the high water on Monday night were setting up emergency cots for the night.

All the town were agreed that this time the flood had been nothing like the $1 million catastrophe that struck the town of 2,200 back in 1935.

But for these residents of the "Walker Town," or "The Valley" area of the town's lower sections, it had been just as bad.

Most of the people who had to leave their homes lived right here in this area. Many of them got out with only what they were wearing.

This hardest hit section comprises a group of homes on and near Denton St. just behind the town's Main St., which also had water on it during the height of the flood.

Mrs. Geneva Bolden, a young housewife and mother of a two-year-old daughter, Anita, recalled for the AFRO on Wednesday how the flood drove them from their home:

"IT WAS about a quarter of 11, went into the kitchen which is the lowest part of the house and I stepped into water.

"I went and opened the

Find child dead in carriage

"I don't know what happened to my baby, I wish I knew."

"I went to wake her up in the carriage and she was dead."

"There was a little spot of blood there."

That was the comment Thursday afternoon of Mrs. Deveras Buchanan of 130 Aisquith St. after the funeral arrangements had been made for her six-weeks-old daughter, Denice.

The infant was found dead in her parent's Lafayette Courts apartment Wednesday morning.

The cause of death has not been determined.

THE YOUNG mother whose husband, Ronald, is on naval duty aboard the USS Fremont in Lebanon stated:

"It will be eight to ten days before they can tell me what happened. I'm waiting for a report from the medical examiner."

Central District police were called to Apt. 7-P by Mrs. Buchanan around 11 a.m. Wednesday to take a look at her child. The infant died before an ambulance could be summoned.

Mrs. Buchanan, according to police, reported that her child suffered a minor injury three weeks ago in the fall from a bed.

The mother speculated that the child may have suffered a head injury as a result of her fall.

"I took her to the hospital where she was examined but no X-rays were taken," Mrs. Buchanan explained.

SHE ADDED, "I got up around 1:30 a.m. to give the baby her bottle. I fed her and burped her and she went to

Thurgood tells court Arkansas defies the whole United States

By LOUIS LAUTIER
(For NNPA)

WASHINGTON

Asked to rule Thursday whether the seven Little Rock children could go back to Central High School in September, the U.S. Supreme Court has set Sept. 11 as the date to hear final arguments.

The High Court met in an extraordinary session at noon Thursday to listen to arguments of the NAACP's Thurgood Marshall and Little Rock's Richard P. Butler, attorneys, and U.S. Solicitor General J. Lee Rankin, for the government.

Chief Justice Earl Warren presided.

The Justices recessed for lunch from 12:00 to 2:30 and returned to hear additional arguments until 3:25 p.m. when they recessed again to return at 4:30.

THEY RETURNED at 5:10 p.m. and agreed, in effect, to narrow the question to this:

Whether the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis, Mo., was right in its ruling that the Little Rock colored students return to Central High School immediately.

Federal District Judge Harry J. Lemley had ruled the children out of school for 2½ years,

Justice Dept. Joins NAACP in Fight to Maintain Order

WASHINGTON

The Justice Department Thursday morning joined the NAACP in urging the Supreme Court to vacate lower federal court orders which bar the return of seven colored children to Central High School in Little Rock this fall.

In a brief filed for the United States as a friend of the court, the Justice Department said: Since the decision of the eighth United States Circuit Court of Appeals "is clearly correct" and there is no likelihood that the Little Rock School Board "can prevail on the merits, the relief sought by petitioners (NAACP) should be granted."

The brief was signed by J. Lee Rankin, Solicitor General; Oscar H. Davis, Philip Elman, Ralph S. Spritzer, assistants to the solicitor general, and Seymour Farber, attorney.

"There is no evidence in the record to indicate that determined local authorities cannot handle, if necessary, any future disturbance occurring in or around Central High School," the brief stated, adding:

"There was no showing that, prior to coming into court, respondents (Little Rock School Board) had even consulted with local law enforcement agencies."

"Nor was there any showing that they sought to enlist the aid of the Mayor of Little Rock, the city manager, or any other official of the state."

St. Marys must admit Joan Groves

Federal Court Chief Judge Roszel C. Thomsen has in effect ordered the St. Marys County Board of Education to admit a colored student to the Great Mills High School without further delay.

The action came Thursday when Judge Thomsen denied a motion by the county board of education to delay admission of Joan Elaine Groves to the school pending an appeal on a court order to admit her.

The NAACP, through Mrs. Juanita J. Mitchell and Tucker R. Dearing, attorneys, argued that Miss Groves has already lost one year at the school because of her race and granting of the motion would mean she would lose another year at

Politics: A sensible vote faces 4th Dist. citizens

By MAX JOHNSON

Every citizen eligible to cast a vote in the November 4 general election is faced with two grave and unavoidable responsibilities — if he claims good citizenship.

1. He must vote.

2. He must vote sensibly.

Fortunately, there now appears to be a little question about the necessity of voting—except, perhaps, among those eligible citizens who have not yet registered.

There does seem to be some wide - spread difference of opinion, however, as to what constitutes a sensible vote.

AN EXCELLENT illustration is currently noticeable in the city's Fourth District.

Here,the paramount issue to be decided by voters 4th November 4 is:

1. Whether they desire to continue living under the dictates of a political machine, which has, heretofore, given them little consideration; or,

2. Whether they prefer a voice in the district's affairs, through independent legislators of their own choice.

Political freedom — or continued political slavery.

It is as simple as that for Fourth District citizens who will vote to choose a State Senator and six House of Delegates members to represent them in Maryland's General Assembly in Annapolis.

All other issues likely to be

Dr. Jackson's re-election is ruled as legal

WASHINGTON (NNPA) — The Rev. Joseph H. Jackson of Chicago is the legally elected president of the National Baptist Convention, Judge Nathan Cayton, special master in the suit to oust Dr. Jackson, has found.

In a report filed in the District Court here Tuesday, Judge Cayton recommended that the court decide:

1. That the 1852 constitutional tenure amendment was adopted in violation of the constitution and was null and void.

2. That the amendment acquired no validity either by passage of time or action or inaction of the convention or its officials.
