BIG OUTDOOR DRAMA NOW AT THE HARLEM

"The Badlanders," a drama of the Arizona Territory, taking place at the turn of the century during one of the most colorful and violent eras of frontier history is currently at the Harlem Theatre.

Starring Alan Ladd and Ernest Borgnine, with the Mexican actress Katy Jurado and MGM's new sex-pot, Clarie Kelly, in co-starring roles, this slam-bang attraction is replete with action, panoramic backgrounds of Arizona, nd two love stories.

In his first picture for MGM under the Arcola Productions banner, Producer Aaron Rosenbert joined forces with screen writer Richard Collins and Director Delmer Daves ("Broken Lance," "3:10 to Yuma") to give the screen a towering attraction.

It is a movie which never lets up in its dramatic punch, from its opening sequence of a fight between Ladd and Borgnine as manacled convicts, to its climactic gun battle which takes place amid a sham "war" in which Mexicans in the Arizona Territory re-enact their victory over the French in the annual Cinco de Mayo celebration.

The story concerns two disparte characters, the ex-mining engineer known as The Dutchman (Ladd), and the burly, illiterate McBain (Borgnine) who first meet as fellow inmates of the territorial prison in Yuma, and who on their release strike up a partnership in a plot to rob the Lisbon Mine in nearby Prescott of $200,000 worth of gold ore.

Lounsberry (Kent Smith) shady husband of the territory's wealthiest woman, is the man they have contacted to buy the gold ore for $100,000 cash.

But after they have escaped death in a cave-in while digging out the rich gold deposit from an abandoned shaft, Lounsberry tries to double-cross them.

The Dutchman and his sidekick come out the winners in the conflict that follows, and in the course of their adventures each also wins the girl he wants.

STAR-STUDDED DRAMA PLAYING AT MET THEATRE

* * *

Lavishly star-studded is the phrase that best describes William Wyler's production, in Technirama and Technicolor of "The Big Country," a United Artists release at the Met Theatre.

Co-produced by Gregory Peck who also co-stars, this epic Western co-stars Charlton Heston, Jean Simmons, Carroll Baker, Burl Ives and Charles Bickford, with Chuck Connors and Alfonso Bedoya in supporting roles.

Based on Donald Hamilton's Saturday Evening Post serial, "Ambush at Blanco Canyon," William Wyler, who also directed "The Big Country," spent months with Peck going over the details of production and casting before coming up with a roster of players that epitomizes the best in Hollywood dramatic talent.

* * *

THE FULL SWEEP of this adventure drama, with its violence, its humor, its romance and human interest is developed fully in this story of a tenderfoot who comes West to court a ranch heiress who had been a passenger on a vessel he captained.

When the ranch sweetheart spurns his attentions in the belief that he is a coward, he proves himself and his love for another who had evinced her faith in him all along.

Gregory Peck portrays the Easterner, while Charlton Heston as the ranch foreman offers another exciting portrayal to the roster of roles enacted by him. Jean Simmons is the understanding schoolteacher - ranch owner, while Carroll Baker is the spoiled ranch heiress.

Charles Bickford, as the domineering ranchowner and Burl Ives, as his sworn enemy, are protagonists who offer vivid acting perfection to their roles.

Chuch Connors, as the rascally villain, is excitingly villainous in a strong part that will be talked about while Alfonso Bedoya, as the Mexican ranch hand is another whose acting stands out in "The Big Country."

'BULLWHIP' IS FEATURE AT THE NEW ALBERT

Allied Artists' "Bullwhip," which is now playing at the New Albert Thetre is an action-drench, exciting adventure told against the backdrop of some of California's most spectacular scenery.

The film stars Guy Madison and Rhonda Fleming, and is filmed in CinemaScope and color by De Luxe.

Madison turns in a masterful performance as a convict who escapes the death penalty after agreeing to the request of a judge to marry a young woman who must have a husband in order to receive a large inheritance.

Miss Fleming, as the girl, is excellent. When she takes over a large trading business, she emerges as a fiery young woman not at all adverse to lashing out with a bullwhip to have her desires filled and her commands obeyed.

Others whose work is outstanding include James Griffith, a killer who is given $5000 to kill Madison and also receives $5000 from Madison to protect him from any killer's bullet, Don Beddoe as the judge and Peter Adams as a trader in competition with the gorgeous red-head.

'THE BRAVODOS' HELD AT REGENT THEATRE

Twentieth Century - Fox's super-Western, "The Bravados," has been extended for a 2nd week at the Regent Theatre.

Starring Gregory Peck, Joan Collins and Stephen Boyd, the CinemaScope, De Luxe Color adventure drama, filmed on location in Mexico, deals with the efforts of a rancher to avenge his wife's brutal killing.

FRANKENSTEIN BACK FOR REVENGE AT THE ROYAL

The baleful Baron Frankenstein is back, with a brand new monster.

He returns in the Royal Theatre's new technicolor shocker, "The Revenge of Frankenstein."

Peter Cushing, who played the same creature-making role in "The Curse of Frankenstein," here is saved from execution for his ghoulish ways. He takes up the practice of medicine in a German town under another name. A fellow-physician who sees through his new identity joins forces with the "good" doctor in his latest and most terrifying experiment.

"good" doctor in his latest and

Cushing is still absorbed in the creation of a new being by piecing together various parts of men who have departed this life. He gives his newest monster life and intelligence by implanting within it the brain of the clever dwarf who had saved him from the guillotine. His latest creation becomes a creature of rampaging terror, a killer and a potential cannibal.

"The Snorkel," suspense drama, and added thriller is a tingling edge-of-the seat chiller which pits a teen-age girl against a diabolical killer-with-a-gimmick. Gregorie Aslan is featured as the police inspector unable to prove murder has been committed.

CHARLTON HESTON and Gregory Peck in a scene from "The Big Country" now playing at the Met Theatre.

Big Bill Broonzy, famed blues singer, dies at 65

CHICAGO — "Big Bill" Broonzy, ex-Pullman porter who came out of Arkansas playing a cigar box with strings to develop into a living legend in the realm of rhythm and blues, put down his guitar last week and died at 65.

Death came last Friday in an ambulance taking him to a hospital.

* * *

BROONZY was born in Mississippi, moved to Arkansas, then came here to work as a Red Cap in 1920.

Christened William L. C. Conley, he changed his name to "Big Bill" in 1926 after making his first record for the Paramount Record Co., because his own name was too long to fit on record labels.

* * *

A SINGER, guitarist and composer, Big Bill had appeared at Carnegie Hall, and won two tourh—once in 1951 and again in 1954.

He was author of more than 350 songs, and many of his records are collectors' items.

IN MORE recent years he operated his own tavern on Chicago's South Side.

His last major engagement was as a member of the cast of "I Come for to Sing," which ran for nearly two years in the Loop's Blue Note Club.

Mr. Broonzy, considered one of the greatest of the so-called "primitive" guitarists, recently published his autobiography, "Big Bill Blues." His widow, Mrs. Rose Broonzy, four sisters, and a brother survive.

PETER CUSHING, right, shows Francis Matthews the hand he will use when he creates a human body in the Royal Theatre's current shocker, "The Revenge of Frankenstein" in Technicolor. Second attraction is the murder mystery "The Snorkel."

Split rumored in Ward Singers

PHILADELPHIA

Gospel songstress Clara Ward and her mother Mrs. Gertrude Ward went off to engagements in Chicago this week without veteran members of the Famous Ward Singers.

Speculation about a split of the world-famous sextette was rife when their July 6 spectacular at the Philadelphia Arena was advertised as their "25th and last anniversary celebration."

* * *

BESIDES Clara, star singer, pianist and director; and her mother who emceed the programs, the most noted personnel of the Ward Singers included:

Another sister, Mrs. Willamae Ward Moultrie, coloratura and assistant pianist; Mrs. Henrietta Waddy, Miss Frances Steadman, contraltos; Miss Marian Williams, lyric; and Miss Catherine Parham, soprano.

A few months ago, Mrs. Moultrie organized the Gay Charmers jazz trio, but has appeared with the Ward Singers on occasion since then.

The majority of the others have sung consistently as the Ward Singers, appearing together as late as last Friday in Baltimore.

But after a discussion on Saturday, the Wards are minus the talents of these singers.

Headed for a tour which will include the National Baptist Convention in Chicago, Clara and Mrs Gertrude Ward were accompanied by the Imperial Singers, a lesser known Philadelphia quartette.

* * *

THE OTHERS including Miss Williams, Mrs. Waddy, Miss Parham, Miss Steadman and Miss Esther Ford are now organized as the Philadelphia Stars of Faith.

Miss Williams said that their first date is set for tonight (Wednesday) at Christian Tabernacle, 22nd and Columbia Ave.

A Sept. 5 engagement is at Friendship Baptist Church, 18th and Wharton Sts.

And on Sept. 15, the Stars of Faith will be featured on the Davis Sisters anniversary program at the Met Auditorium.

A recording due for release soon by Sounds of America features "Glory For Me" and "Hallelujah, Praise His Name."

* * *

FROM CHICAGO on Tuesday morning, Mrs. Gertrude Ward, verified the rift but emphasized that none of the Ward Singers' dates will be cancelled, and that Clara Ward will star on all the programs that have been scheduled.

As manager of the group she said "tell everybody that although all of the Ward Singers have quit, the new and greatest group of Ward Singers ever heard, will appear on Monday Sept. 15 in Philadelphia, at Greater St. Matthews Independence Church, Race and Vodges Sts."

Explaining the situation, Mrs. Ward said that their tour of one night stops was scheduled to begin last Sunday in Brooklyn, N.Y.

"We were supposed to leave Philadelphia at noon, and I thought that everybody was going along. But at 1 o'clock that morning, the girls told me that they were not going to make the tour," she said.

* * *

"THE CAUSE for the sudden and late decision, I wouldn't know but if God be for you He's more than the whole world against you."

She said that the Philadelphia group known as the Soul Satisfiers substituted on the Sunday program in Brooklyn. The Imperial Singers are accompanying the Wards on the other one night dates which began in Chicago on Monday.

The tour will also take in Milwaukee, Richmond and Gary, Ind., St. Louis and Detroit.

Emphasizing again that no programs will be cancelled, Mrs. Ward said that all questions should be directed to her because she has "everything in black and white."
