ANNAPOLIS DOINGS

By ELOISE RICHARDSON

Here is your scribe. So sorry there was no column last week.

It was all due to the fact that the other half of the Richardson family was ill and housed at the Anne Arundel General Hospital. At this time Mr. Richardson, after ten days there, is much improved and is recuperating at his home, 904 Spa Road.

Not too many people know about his illness, but those who do, have been very gracious and we are grateful. Last week a number of out-of-town friends were here and dropped in on us.

Dr. R. W. Henry, Arnette Fritz and a group of others from Philly dropped in for a few hours on their way from Colton.

Mrs. Hassell Robinson (Josephine) drove in from Washington on Thursday with Mrs. Bernard Swinson (Mildred) of Washington and Mrs. Raymond Vandevere (Hazel) of East Orange, N.J. We lunched at Carvell Hall and then on to the hospital.

• • •

THE EUGENE HOPSONS of Washington and Brandywine were down on Thursday sight.

Bessie Watson came in from Washington on Saturday for the week-end.

We have as our guest this week, my sister, Mrs. Cromwell Ricketts of Indianapolis, Ind. It does make it so pleasant to have her lovely personality around.

Priscilla's friends will be happy to learn that she is on the staff of Lincoln Hospital in New York City as a professional nurse on the pediatric ward.

Priscilla earned her R. N. degree from the Lincoln School of Nursing last January. She is the niece of Mesdames Rosamond Steeve and Agnes Boston and Miss Dorothy Jones.

MRS. JOHN BRYAN (Virginia) spent her vacation (and she says she had such a glorious one) with relatives in Los Angeles, Calif.

While there, she was the house guest of her brother and his wife, the Rev. Lloyd E. Galloway, pastor of the Lincoln Memorial Congregationa Church.

It is interesting especially to Annapolis people to know that all the Galloways except Virginia are out in California rearing families and doing well. There are six brothers and one sister there.

Vermont has a master printer's certificate and is going in business for himself. He is the father of three girls.

Nelson works in a plant making parts for jet planes and has three girls, while his brother, Isaac, who has two girls and six boys, makes housing for guided missiles. Joseph is an aeroplane mechanic and is the father of three girls.

Lloyd has three girls and two boys. Joseph's wife, Alpha, who has a master's degree in library sicience, is a staff member of the public library system there as a chilren's librarian.

Just before Virgisia' return home, the family honored her with a cook-out party at Joseph's home, when 75 guests enjoyed croquet, badminton and volley ball.

• • •

MR. AND MRS. Arthur W. McDade in Cathedral street, had as a guest last week, Mrs. William McCoy (Cleo) of Durham, N.C. Mrs. McCoy is a cousin of Mr. McDade.

The McDades drove to Princess Anne on the week end and entered their son, Arthur Jr., into Maryland State College.

It was very inspiring to listen to the Rev. Leroy Bowman, pastor of the First Baptist Church, when he delivered a dynamic sermon which involved the Little Rock situation, and conditions in general in regards to civil rights.

The Rev. Mr. Bowman is to be commended for having the vision to realize the importance of keeping our people alerted through such leadership as his in such a fundamental way.

As we read the newspapers and ponder over the many problems being created in the various communities, it makes one wonder if we are to retain a "United (48) States" or 48 "separate states," as the Rev. Mr. Bowman pointed out.

It seems there is the losing of sight on what this country has as a foundation. . . . the ideals and principles it stands for.

Such leaders as Faubus in their passion of hate have lost their memory of these principles, which set up this countrp on a firm basis.

We as citizens must start now to tudy our local political aspirants. Study their platforms; look into their pat contribution to the community and work toward securing leaders who respect the laws of the land.

• • •

WE ARE very sorry to learn that Paul Haughton, who has been director of Northwest St. YMCA is leaving us to accept a post in New Jersey.

The community has enjoyed a well-rounded out program under his administration in his work and we feel much progress was made.

William J. Taylor Jr., formerly youth program secretary of the Leight Street Branch YMCA at Richmond, Va. will replace Mr. Haughton, according to Fred G. Wilson, YM area executive.

Mr. Haughton becomes executive secretary of the South Camden Branch YMCA at Camden, N.J.

Mr. Taylor is a graduate of Virginia State College and has a bachelor of science degree in health and physical education. He is married and has two children, four and eight years of age.

Mrs. Veola Johnson will supervise the Northwest Street activities until his arrival on October 15.

INTEGRATION in the schools of Anne Arundel County is progressing nicely as another step forward in the stride of things.

With all elementary grades integrated this year, there are also now two schools with integrated faculties. . . that of the beautiful new Adams Park School and the Annapolis Elementary School.

Mrs. Joseph Hardesty (Lulu), who has taught in the public schools of the county for a great number of years, is now a member of the faculty of the Annapolis Elementary School as the first in the system to work in such a capacity.

Mrs. Hardesty is not only an excellent teacher, but is also a fine rounded-out personality and has served her community in many fine ways civicly, religiously and socially.

We are proud of such a personality and we know children whom she teaches in new new post will have all to gain. Such has been the experience of the many boys and girls she taught before leaving to go to her present position.

Adams Park Elementary School has as its new member of the faculty, Mrs. L. Wade Hampton, who is the wife of a leading minister in the county at Edgewater. Having worked with Mrs. Hampton in my own position, I have also found her to be a sincere, fine, and self-styled individual.

The first integrated countywide teachers meeting was held at the Glen Burnie High School to start off the school year.

Funeral held for Mrs. L. Astrop

By E. S. McDANIEL

Funeral services for Mrs. Lillie Smith Astrop of 130 Chestnut St. were held Wednesday, at the New Shiloh Baptist Church with the pastor, the Rev. James A. Everett, presiding. Interment took place in the Baltimore National Cemetery.

A native of Brodnax, Va., Mrs. Astrop was the daughter of the late John and Maria Smith.

She is survived by husband, Charlie Astrop; one daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Murray; one son, George (Buck) Astrop of Turner Station; three grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Shaw, Mrs. Alice Williams, and Mrs. Florence Bowdern of New York; two brothers, Arthur Smith of New York and Bishop John Smith of Cleveland, Ohio; and many other relatives and friends.

Mrs. Astrop was a member of the New Shiloh Baptist Church where she served faithfully as a member of the senior usher board for many years. She was also a member of the Sparrows Point American Legion Post No. 101.

MRS. BARBARA JENNINGS of 751 North Avondale Rd. who was badly injured about three weeks ago when her car went out of control on the street car tracks en route to Sparrows Point, is still confined at the Johns Hopkins Hospital on Halstead 3.

She sustained multiple abrasions and fractures. Mrs. Jennings will reamin in the hospital for some time to come.

Let us do everything that we can to help her recover as rapidly as possible. She is the wife of William Jennings, a city teacher and one of the leaders at the Sollers Point High School Playground for the summer.

Gladys Harrison made a very attractive bride last Saturday at the St. Matthews Methodist Church when she became the wife of Kenneth Hebron. Her gown of white lace over taffeta had a full skirt and a torso bodice.

The skirt was sparkling with rhinestones. The bride designed and made her gown.

She wore a shoulder length veil and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley with white carnations.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Bennett, the pastor. The bride was given in marriage by Charles Warren. The bridesmaid was Juanita Daughtery. Cynthia and Calvin Lane were flower girl and ring bearer respectively. The bride's mother wore black with white accessories. Her corsage was of white rose buds and lilies of the valley.

The reception followed the wedding at the home of Mrs. Lane in Day Village. The newlyweds are at home at 642 Zion Methodist along with his Peach Orchid Lane.

MRS. MARION WELLS AND her daughter, Cornelia, of 102 Carver Rd., have returned after a month vacationing in California.

The Rev. and Mrs. James A. Everett and sons have returned from their vacation. They said they thoroughly enjoyed themselves and they look the part. The Rev. Mr. Everett preached a wonderful sermon and closed with an inspiring solo Sunday.

In the afternoon, the Rev. St. Clair Franklin, pastor of Mt. Zion Methodist along with his choir and congregation were guests. The Rev. Mr. Everett occupied the bench at the organ and played for the entire service when the organist failed to appear.

James Gwaltney who was injured last week when returning from a funeral is still confined at the South Baltimore General Hospital. The other people who were injured in the same accident are still in their homes.

KAREN TURNER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonso Turner of Cherry Hill, Baltimore, was crowned Queen of Christ Temple of Apostolic Church after a recent baby rally sponsored by the young people of the church.

Mother, baby care classes

Sees Indepen dent French West Africa In 5 Months

French are unable to hold area

By WILLIAM GORDON
For The ANP

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Gordon is a widely known U. S. journalist now in Africa on a Reid Foundation Fellowship, making a social, political and economic study of independent and potentially independent countries of the Continent.)

ACCRA, Ghana — Within five months, an area in Africa as large as the United States will probably be independent, according to official reports released by French authorities here recently.

Most, if not all of French West Africa will certainly vote for full independence in the forthcoming referendum September 28, if African leaders follow the position taken at the recent meeting in Contonou, Dahomey.

More than a thousand delegates, representing all of French West Africa, French Equatorial Africa, and Madagascar voted unanimously that full independence and nothing less, will be demanded from France immediately. A delegation of French leaders including Leopold Songhor, former Secretary General of the PRA, African Regroupment Party has already called on General Charles de Gaulle, Premier of France, regarding the position taken at the Congress.

• • •

MEANWHILE, GENERAL de Gaulle is already in Africa in hope that he can offer the overseas territories a variety of dependent statuses. If his proposal is rejected in the September referendum, he will count action by the territories as a "vote for secession," and will write independence for those territories of French West Africa and French Equatorial Africa as a separate entity, not bound by the vote of its neighbor territories. The Premier wants to give some autonomous rule to the territories, but most of all he wants integration of the overseas territories.

One of the threats being used by the French is that all economic aid will be cut off from the territories voting for full independence. But French officials in Africa along with many African leaders alike doubt, however, that France will cut off all the intra-structural aid; the many large projects now under construction would not be left in midair.

When General de Gaulle arrived in Madagascar this week he found the atmosphere still "independence conscious", not unlike Algeria and where memories of the 1947 revolt which cost nearly 100,000 lives is still strong.

The overseas territories which might accept de Gaulle's proposal for federation with France are the Gaboon, with a population of 400,000 where oil has been found; Mauritania and the Ivory Coast.

• • •

THE GABOON wants federation with the hope of breaking away from its poor relations in the equatorial federation. Its Prime Minister, Leon Mba wants federation with France, another wants to become a French department like Martinique, but its deputy, Abmome, wants independence.

"Federationists" in Mauritania want French military protection against Moroccan land claims.

Only in the Ivory Coast, however, is a "federationists" vote regarded as a strong possibility. The Ivory Coast has the same feeling as the Gaboon. Its per capita income of $100 at present subsidizes the budget of the more populous Upper Volta where the per capita income is only $10.

African leaders still think it will take about two years if independence comes to effect the full transfer of power to the emancipated territories. France still controls a long list of subjects, even down to such minor ones as postal services and broadcasting.

The nine, ten or eleven territories, when they become independent nations, will form one federation of their own with the most probable Prime Minister being Bakary Kjibo, now Premier of the French Niger and Secretary General of the PRA.

A reasonable guess is also that the PRA, with a somewhat younger leadership will win the majority over rival parties in the first general elections. In so far as parties are identified with their leaders, Djibo, being a man from the "bush" country is much more capable of winning over the masses.

• • •

THE INDEPENDENCE of Ghana has aroused a lot of interest among French West Africans. During the Congress in Contonou, a special section was set aside in the assembly for representatives from Ghana. Djibo, potentially the Premier for the largest nation seen to be created in Africa, plans to visit Accra for the African Peoples' Conference scheduled to be held in December.

When all or most of French West Africa and French Equatorial Africa becomes independent, the area will consist of 26,000,000 people with over 100 languages.

Finding an African name for the new nation that will satisfy everyone will not be an easy task. The new nation will include, nearly all of the former African empire which broke up in 1591 after Border horsemen swept through Gao. Its capital and put all its leading citizens to death.

Urge Christian approach to race problem in South

RICHMOND

Colored Americans may well provide the leadership to bring an answer to the nation's race problem, a former North Carolina Congressman told some 500 delegates at the Lott Carey Baptist Foreign Mission convention Thursday.

Charles B. Deane, former eighth congressional district representative from North Carolina, said that the Christian approach is the only solution to the recial problems of the south and to the ideological battle between democracy and communism.

Speaking at First African Baptist Church to delegates from 13 states and the District of Columbia, Deane declared:

"Before we can expect to help shape the destiny of Africa or Asia or bring an answer to racial conficts of the Southland, we are going to have to begin to live what we preach right here in the Baptist Churches of Virginia, North Carolina and the South."

He continued:

"The most potent weapon in the hands of Communists today is the exploitation of racial bitterness all over the world.

"We will never answer world communism unless we Americans learn how to live together; until we learn how to open the lines of communication and become completely honest with each other at home.

"When we begin to trust each other and treat every person as a human being, the outside world will then begin to trust America."

Dean, who served five terms in Congress, was defeated in the Democratic primary in 1956. His refusal to sign the Southern Manifesto against integration was the prime issue of the campaign.

The ex-Congressman said his conscience "would not allow him to sign the manifesto.

Urging the delegates to "accept the dictatorship of the Holy Spirit," Deane asked, "Can you rise above race, and point of view and resolve every decision on the basis of what is right instead of who is right?"

The four-day convention which opened Monday with a concert by a 200-voice choir at Virginia Union University, ended Friday night following an address by the Rev. Mr. Abney Nelson of Delhi, India.

Ricketts this week asked the Cincinnati Royals of the Nal Basketball Association to put him on the retired list.

Bishops scathe 'godless element'

CHICAGO — "In the United States, politicians, especially in the deep South, are fanning the flames of hatred to maintain their own political ambitions, They have little or no regard for God.

"They, in fact, represent a godless element in our society."

Bishops Randolph A. Carr and Monroe R. Saunders, presiding bishops of more than 100,000 members of the church of God in Christ Jesus, (Apostolic) made the above statements at a recent church convention here.

Their statements were issued to the press after the three-day panel discussion of the 500 members of the church's 12th National Youth Congress which convened at the Pentacostal Faith Apostolic Church.

Present were representatives from all the churches in the United States an organization founded by the Rt. Rev. Mr. Carr in Baltimore.

THE RELIGIOUS group also has churches in many foreign countries throughout the world.

In their three-point summary, the bishops also urged: "We feel that the executive and legislative branches of the government should stand squarely behind our Federal courts to see that recent decisions regarding integration of our public schools are carried out forthwith."

Other points emphasized by Bishops Carr and Saunders included criticism of the churches today and blasted nations for racing into outer space.

They stated that many churches in our society have gone along with the rest of the world in rejecting God through Jesus Christ through their failure to underscore the teachings of the New Testament.

Many of them are incapable of speaking out for they, themselves, are entangled with the evils of this life and are victims of the same strife and confusion as the social and political order in which we live."

ON OUTER SPACE ventures, Bishops Carr and Saunders warned mankind against space ambitions.

"We believe that nations of the world are following a godless path in their venture to conquer outer space.

"We are adverse to all this display of godlessness on the part of all nations including the U.S.

"We do not feel that this kind of maneuvering is in keeping with the best interests of mankind and it is out of harmony with the Divine Will of God."

Ike names two new appointees

WASHINGTON — The White House announced that President Eisenhower had conferred the personal rank of Minister on Joseph Palmer 2nd, for the duration of his new assignment as Consul General at Salisbury, the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

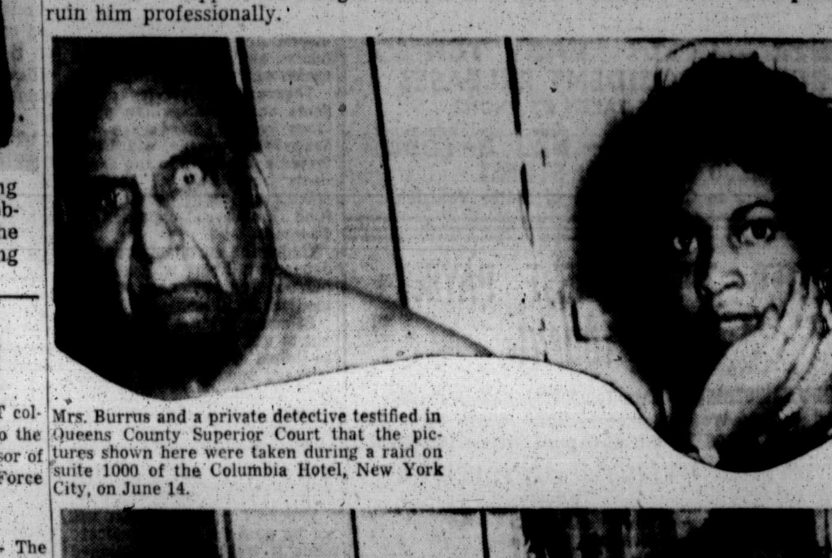
Palmer, who succeeds the retired Lloyd V. Steere, will leave for his new post September 30.

Penfield is expected to arrive in Washington this week from his current post in Athens.

BURRUS VS. HARTEN

Shown below are photos and photostats produced in court by the Rev. Mr. Lloyd A. Burrus to support his charges that the Rev. Mr. Thomas S. Harten attempted to ruin him professionally.



Mrs. Burrus and a private detective testified in Queens County Superior Court that the pictures shown here were taken during a raid on suite 1000 of the Columbia Hotel, New York City, on June 14.

Mrs. Burrus testified last Aug. 6 that the picture at the top shows her as she was surprised by a raiding party. She said she was partly dressed and that the Rev. Mr. Harten was nude. Mrs. Burrus also testified that the picture above shows the Rev. Mr. Harten as he ran to the bathroom. In his defense the Rev. Mr. Harten alleges he was taking a bath when the raid occurred. Mrs. Burrus and four other witnesses testified he was dry when they entered the room.

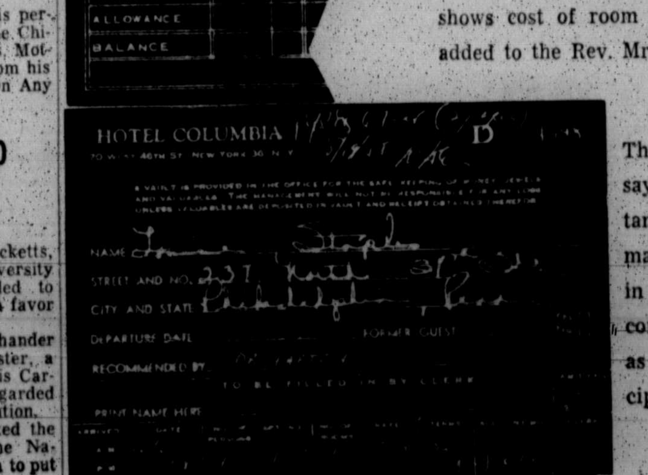
ALL ACCOUNTS DUE WHEN RENDERED

These photostats of the hotel's records were produced in court by hotel representatives. The one at the top shows that the Rev. Mr. Harten occupied suite 1000. The other shows that a guest registered as "Louise Staples," recommended by "Dr. Harten," occupied room 905. Mrs. Burrus testified in court that she was the "Louise Staples," who occupied the room. Circle shows cost of room 905 which was added to the Rev. Mr. Harten's bill.



HOTEL COLUMBIA

The Rev. Mr. Burrus says he was reluctant to enter this material as evidence in court, but was compelled to do so as a matter of principle.
